A Story of Progress that Benefits Everyone

The past year has seen booming growth all through the South—in business . . . industry . . . housing . . . personal income. Telephone development has surged ahead, too. Since the telephone means so much to everyone, you might like to know some of the ways Southern Bell answered Dixie's call in 1955 for more and better service.

Last year we:

- Increased operator dialing of Long Distance calls straight through to the distant numbers.
- Converted many exchanges to the new nation-wide numbering system, which will eventually make it possible for you to dial your own Long Distance calls.
- Added many thousands of miles of new Long Distance circuits and TV network routes.
- Installed a bumper crop of new rural telephones, with the aid of newly-discovered technical developments and construction methods.
- Carried out history-making tests proving that new-type rural service can be powered by the Bell Solar Battery, which harnesses the sun's energy for the first time.
- Changed many more telephones to dial service.
- Made widely available new and improved equipment such as telephones in color . . . volume-control phones . . . dials that light up in the dark . . . the Speakerphone, which lets you talk and hear without lifting the receiver . . . and many more.

ANSWERING KENTUCKY'S CALL . . .

In Kentucky, we added 22,500 telephones in '55. The year's construction of buildings and equipment amounting to over 15 million dollars. In all, we have spent over 115 million dollars to expand and improve service in the State since 1945.

In step with Kentucky's progress, we plan to spend about 26 million more in 1956 on construction to provide Kentucklans with the kind of service they want and need.

This large expansion program makes telephone service more useful and valuable for everyone. And the millions of dollars for construction, plus more millions we pay in wages and taxes, contribute vitally to the State's economy.

Women To Have Top Program At Farm, Home Week

An outstanding program for women will feature the annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Kentucky Jan. 31-Feb. 3. They will have their own sessions all four days with exception of Wednesday afternoon.

The board of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers will meet Monday. Speakers Tuesday will include Miss Mary Trent of the British Embassy in Washington; Dean Frank J. Welch of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics and, in the afternoon, Mrs. Luella Canterbury, Chicago psychologist.

The Wednesday program will begin with the Master Farm Homemakers breakfast. Speakers at the session in Memorial Coliseum will include Mrs. Dorothy Elon, attache of the Embassy of Israel in Washington. He subject will be "Women of Israel." Young Kentuckians will report on trips abroad, including Lee Ann Lott, McCreary county, Robert Simpson, Nelson county, and William Moore, Barren county.

Women will meet with men Wednesday afternoon, when the theme will be "The Farm Family of the Future." R. C. Gustavson, Washington, president of Resources for the Future, will have as his subject, "Your Farm in an Atomic age." Another speaker will be Mrs. Luella Canterbury, Chicago psychologist, whose subject will be "Your Resources Will Surprise You."

On Thursday the women will hear Miss Beth Peterson of Dupont Company and Dr. William K. Kellier, Louisville psychiatrist. Mrs. Homer Remsberg, president of the National Home Demonstration Council, will speak at the homemakers luncheon Friday noon.

Plans Made For Big Attendance Farm, Home Week

Arrangements are being made to accommodate several thousand men and women at the 44th annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Kentucky next week—Jan. 31 to Feb. 3, it is announced from Lexington.

Programs will be of interest to farm men and women and to all other persons concerned with the welfare of Kentucky, it is stated. Many phases of farming and homemaking will be discussed by men and women of national note, by farm people and by extension workers and members of the faculties of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Agricultural Experiment Station.

There will be special sessions devoted to the farm outlook. Included will be prospects for raisers of livestock, for dairying, for tobacco, for strawberries and for other products. Speakers will discuss problems of homemakers.

One program on the last day will deal with tobacco. Among speakers will be Randolph Taylor, secretary of the Burley and Dark Leaf Export Association. He will discuss developing foreign markets.

Men and women will have separate sessions all four days, with the exception of Wednesday afternoon when everyone will meet in Memorial Coliseum. Speakers at that session, which will have as its theme "The Farm Family of the Future," will include R. C. Gustavson, Washington, president of "Resources for the Future," whose subject will be "Your Farm in an Atomic Age," and Mrs. Luella Canterbury, Chicago psychologist and lecturer.

There will be farm and home equipment shows all four days.
