Sheep expansion discussion Monday

An afternoon session "Needed Expansion in Sheep Production" will be the subject discussed and demonstrated at the G. C. Grover farm on Moorefield road.

The session will start on Monday, July 30 at 1:00 p.m. (CST). Arrangements for the meeting have been made by W. T. Straw, county agent.

R. C. Sullivan, sheep specialist, University of Kentucky, will discuss the sheep outlook and explain the several types of ewes available. Orders will have to be placed soon for breeding ewes for those wishing to expand in the fall.

Income from lambs and wool during the past twenty years has been most dependable. At present there is a definite shortage of these products and the government is paying an added incentive payment for wool production. Farmers who have ewes who need extra income should consider expansion in sheep.

Old Glory

Old Glory, the only known flag of its kind, proudly flew to wave atop the Nicholas County courthouse in Carlisle, but does not wave as she should. Throughout the years she has served in time of peace and in time of war, until now she is badly worn and badly in need of repairs.

A few years ago she was repainted and new bulbs were added but the mechanical innards have "lost done their stuff" and she does not wave properly.

Jailer John McCarty, custodian, has made an estimate that $50.00 will put things back into shape and we can be proud to see her wave.

If everyone will donate just a little she can soon be proud to waving again. Send your donation to John McCarty Jailer of Nicholas County.

Let her wave again over the land of the free and the home of the brave.

THE DRIVER of the horseless carriage in front of this house which still stands on the corner of Sycamore and Chestnut is none other than Howard K. Veach, ex-postmaster of Carlisle. Note long curls and stand dress. Others pictured are Ada Bruce Peale (now Mr. Connell) with the doll buggy, who sent The Mercury this picture, Clifton Fisher on the steps, and Hattie and Amy Harris, all three now deceased. Others are not identified.

ANNUAL SUMMER TRAINING—On the 15th of July, 72 men (4 officers, 1 warrant officer and 66 enlisted men) of Battery A, 2424 Field Artillery Battalion, Kentucky National Guard, arrived at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., for their annual two weeks summer training. Under the command of Captain Charles C. Shrout Jr., Battery A has become recognized as one of the top National Guard outfits in the state. Under Captain Shrout's leadership, with 1Lts Hamilton, Davis, and Carpenter ably assisting him, the unit consistently draws the praise of inspecting officers. Keeping the unit's records and messing facilities in top shape is the responsibility of Chief Warrant Officer Wm. N. Young Jr. Official military inspections constantly brand his work as "Superior." The unit recently converted practically their whole organization. It is now using the 155 mm Howitzer, which is quite a contrast to the 4.2 mortar which was in use at summer camp last year. Included with this letter are several action photos of the battery in field training. If any of these pictures or information can be used in an article in your paper it would be greatly appreciated by all personnel of the unit.—Henry C. Peters Jr. and Wayne Shumate, Public Information Representatives Battery A, 2424 FA Bn.
