METHODIST CHURCH
G. W. Townsend, Minister

Our revival meeting is still in progress. The old time Gospel is being preached. Men and women are being stirred to see their need of God. The day is fast approaching when we will exchange time for eternity.

Amos. 4:12—Prepare to meet thy God. A preparation must be made to stand before a Holy God. This world is not my home, it is only a place to prepare for the next world. Today's the day of salvation, now is the accepted time. Come while there is yet time. All welcome.

Sunday school, 10:00. We welcome you.
Worship, 10:50.

Your absence could discourage others from attending.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The value and importance of right motives in daily living will be emphasized at Christian science services this Sunday.

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Love" will include the following (454:17-21): "Love for God and man is the true incentive in both healing and teaching. Love inspires, illumines, designates, and leads the way. Right motives give pinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and action."

The freedom-giving power of divine Love will also be brought out in the Scriptural readings which include the following (I John 4:18): "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love."

MT. ZION CHURCH
REVIVAL

Will close on August 3 so try and not miss a single service that remains. Bro. Stansberry is bringing some great sermons and the Cameron's are leading us in a wonderful song service. The chalk drawings are great. You cannot afford to miss the next few nights. No Saturday night service!

We hope that you will rest up real good on that night and spend at least one-half hour in prayer at your bedside before you go to sleep for some lost soul and the meeting Sunday.

Now won't you please be one of the 201 to be present for Bible School on Lords day morning, July 29, at 9:30 (CST). Bro. Cameron will teach. Then the Lord's Supper for all Christians followed by sermon by George Stansberry. Be sure and be present. Remember it's your meeting.

A welcome to all always, so please come won't you?

Farm Wives Behind the Times? . . . Not So—As This Kitchen Will Show

By IRA MILLER
Farm Equipment Editor

Farm homes—and kitchens—are a far cry, in many cases, from what they were. Shown above, for example, is one part of modern kitchen—one of today's farm wives cook. It was installed when the family's old kitchen was replaced by the neat modern house shown below.

The new home has a maximum of time and labor-saving appliances, including an electric range. And, speaking of electric ranges, nowadays they are growing at a pretty fast clip, according to farm equipment dealers. That they don't, was brought to a host of designs specialists who always seem to be ahead of the trade.

Among the newest of the new improvements in today's models are such things as twin broilers, rapid-heat surface units, a small broad, double grill baffles that hook to the back of the broiler pan for turning meat without punctures, surface unit controls to keep food from burning, disposable oven linings, and 40-inch ovens. Faster speed in frozen food is made possible by such as new 8-inch, 1500 watt; 6-inch, 1250 watt, and 6-inch, 2000 watt units some into more general use.

And, of course, gaining in popularity are built-in surface units and ovens. Built-in units are usually located surface units and those that hold back against the counter wall when not in use. Oven doors swing down in the conventional way or open as twin doors—and open and close the other opens too.

Ants and flower seed left over? You might try planting it and see what happens.

A lotus was blooming July 19 for the first time in 2,000 years in the water lily pond of Tokyo's Nature Science Museum. The bloom comes from one of three seeds by Ohga found five years ago embedded in a Neolithic canoe in a peat bed near Tokyo. A radioactive carbon test proved them to be 2,000 years old.

Duroc Congress at U. K. July 25-27

Some 300 meat-type Duroc hogs from at least 13 states will be on display at the Livestock Arena on the Experiment Station farm at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, July 25, 26, and 27, says W. P. Garrigus, chairman of the animal industries division, University of Kentucky.

Indiana was leading in number of entries at the last information from the United Duroc Record Association. Kentucky had six exhibitors. Other entries came from as far west as Arkansas and as far east as North Carolina.

Feature of the Congress will be the show and sale of these bluebloods of the Duroc breed. Also highlighted are many educational features, including a type discussion, judging contest, and carcass demonstration.

Methodist widows home operating

Louisville, Ky.—A Methodist home for widows is now in operation near Franklin, Ky. It has been announced by the Rev. L. C. Thomas, Valley Station, Ky.

Mr. Thomas is receiving applications from those who want to live at the home, which will accommodate about 25.

The property is owned by the Louisville Conference of The Methodist church. It is a gift of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lewis, Franklin, and is called the Lewis Memorial Home.

The Louisville Conference Home for the Aged, Inc., received title to the property early this year. For 16 years, it was operated as a home for orphans by the Kentucky and Louisville Conferences of The Methodist church.

"We hope to exclude no one because of financial reasons," said Mr. Thomas, president of the Louisville Conference Home for the Aged, Inc. "The cost will be determined by the individual's ability to pay."

"The property is one of the beauty spots of Simpson County," Mr. Thomas added.

Predict smaller Burley crop

Kentucky's burley tobacco crop this year will yield 300,150,000 pounds or slightly less than 1955, according to a report issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Gross sales of the 1955 crop totaled 317,943,533 pounds, the Federal-State Market News Service reported. From this figure is deducted resales totaling about 5 percent of the crop which cuts the total to near the estimate for this year's crop.

The burley crop in 1955 brought an all-time high average price of $59.44 a hundred pounds.

Corn borer's second brood attacking

The corn borer's second brood for this crop year will be developing rapidly now and control measures should be started immediately, says J. G. Rodriguez, Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station entomologist.

Western Kentucky farmers should apply insecticides the week of July 23, Rodriguez says. Central Kentucky farmers should treat corn crops the week starting July 30.

Check fields of late corn for "shot-hole" injury, or for the corn borer's egg masses, the entomologist advises. Egg masses are found on the underside of the leaf near the midrib and are a pearl grey color. However, the "shot-hole" injury is easier to detect than the egg masses.

Treatment should be made if 75 percent of the plants show the shot-hole injury. The emulsifiable DDT at the rate of one and one half pounds actual material per acre. Generally the corn is too tall for tractor-mounted boom sprays; in that case, high clearance sprayers or de-tasseling machines with spray rigs are recommended. Also, airplane application is satisfactory.

Rodriguez noted that in Western Kentucky, hot dry weather reduced the June corn borer brood considerably, though other parts of the state had high infestation. However, the second brood can be of importance, too, particularly if the weather is right. Weather favorable to corn borer development includes mild temperatures with occasional showers.

Grasshopper control important for Burley

Grasshoppers are one of the most serious pests in burley production—and advance work can save the farmer many headaches.

If grasshoppers have started to appear, move in on them quickly with sprays, dusts or poison baits.

Grasshoppers invade tobacco when other food sources are gone. The move is a "desperation" move, say U. K. Agricultural Experiment Station entomologists.

Poison baits are highly effective and economical, if prepared properly and distributed correctly. Take one-half pint of either Dieldrin or Aldrin insecticides (liquid concentrate), 100 pounds of bran, one-and-a-half gallons of blackstrap molasses, and enough oil or water (preferably oil) to make a moist but crumbly mixture when the ingredients are mixed. Use 10 pounds of this prepared bait to the acre, distributing it between the rows. As baits lose more effective when moist, scatter the bait before it dries, preferably in the evening. Cover the field edges, too, as grasshoppers migrate into tobacco at night or early morning, then leave about 10 a.m.

If dusts or sprays are preferred, Dieldrin and Aldrin are effective. Use a 1.5 percent Dieldrin dust, or one-half pint of the liquid concentrate (1.5 ounces of actual material) per acre. Use a 2.5 percent Aldrin dust, or one pint of the liquid concentrate (four ounces of actual material) per acre. Liquid concentrates should be used with not less than 10 gallons of water per acre.

Don't "plaster" the plants with the sprays or dusts; the entomologists advise; give a fine, even deposit. And don't put sprays or dusts directly into the buds.

The entomologists note that control measures are the same regardless of the size of the hopper, or whether the two common species is present.

Catching the hoppers concentrated in field margins before they invade tobacco makes the control job easier and more economical.

Kentucky attracts 47 new industries

Frankfort, July 19.—Forty-seven manufacturing plants began operations or announced plans to locate in Kentucky the first six months of the year, an official report stated.

Issued by the Department of Development and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, the report said the new plants will create more than 6,500 new jobs and have annual payrolls estimated to reach 22 million dollars.

New factory employees for the entire year of 1955 totaled approximately 8,000, according to the report.

The new factories located in 22 counties, will have a plant investment of nearly 40 million dollars, compared with plant expenditures of 70 million dollars during the entire year of 1955.

The report said Kentucky reported a monthly average of 164,000 manufacturing jobs in 1955, about 9 percent more than the previous year which was the highest rate increase in 11 southeastern states.

The average U. S. citizen eats more than 160 pounds of meat a year.

ASTHMANEFRIN
