FIELD SEEDS of ALL KINDS

But only one kind of each variety—that's the best the markets afford.

Anticipating the wants of our patrons we bought our seeds early last fall, while stocks of the best seeds were available, at prices lower than for several years.

However, seed prices are advancing rapidly—due to the expected demand on account of Federal Soil Bank proposal—and we would suggest that you buy your seeds now, while prices are low and quality is good.

Remember, we sell nothing but the best.

Attention focused on local net squads as 40th district tourney begins Thursday

To enforce lien law until repeal effective May 18

Assistant Attorney General M B Holdefield said Friday the state must enforce any note it holds on the real estate of a public assistance recipient who dies before May 18, the day the lien law repeal becomes effective. The lien can not be enforced against the property of those who die after May 18, he added.

Holdefield, regarded as one of the state's ablest constitutional lawyers, wrote the opinion to O. I. Mayson of Mayfield, a deputy clerk of Graves County. Mayson said the question had been raised there in the administration of an estate.

Holdefield explained that the revenue the lien, which reimburse the state for old age and needy blind financial assistance can not be waived until the repeal act becomes effective 90 days after the regular session ended, is that the state Constitution prohibits any legal claim being waived after it has accrued.

These liens accrue or become effective, upon death of the recipient, he added, and therefore must be enforced upon the estate of those who die before the lien law repeal becomes effective.

Tournament

The battle of the prostitutes has created quite a stir in Carlisle and throughout the county and should result in a good crowd of Carlisle and Nicholas County fans to urge their favorite squad.

The Muskies grabbed an early lead and were not headed by the Buffaloes. A 12-7 first period lead set the pace. This was narrowed to 30-24 at half time increased to 43 at the third rest, 45-32, before the Buffaloes dumped in 17 points to the victors nine in the last canto.

Box Score

Gilley led the local squad with 20 points. Feebback netted 11, Grimes and King eight respective by. Wilson and Strau five each and Nicholas Sue McGuffy failed to score.

Jackets Romp

In putting the finishing touches on the season against Lee County Saturday night the Jackets rolled to a early lead the Jackets probably the highest score ever recorded by a local team. Moving out to a early lead the Jackets burned the nets with 105 points while holding the losers to 80.

Jennings paced the local team with 35 markers while Shackleford dropped through 27 for the host team.

Counts lead at the quarters 26-13, 63-39, 90-64 and 105-80.

36 attend food production meet

Thirty six Nicholas Countians attended the meeting, Food Production for the home at the court house, Feb. 27. Thirty specialists from the University of Kentucky participated in this live at home program.

Dr. George Markowe, extension specialist in horticulture says that the best garden is not always that one requiring the most work. Planning must take place before the work begins if you are to have a successful garden.

J. E. Humphrey, extension specialist in poultry stressed the big five—breeding, feeding, housing, disease control and marketing in the poultry field. After learning how to produce the food, Mrs. Doris Tichenor, foods specialist told how to preserve the food by storing, canning and freezing, at the same time emphasizing the increase in family income and better health that each family member would enjoy from nutritious foods.

Advisory council meeting set

Twenty-three homemakers met Thursday afternoon in the extension office to make preliminary plans for the new years program of work. The home management, and foods fields topped the list in the homemakers program planning based on the family needs and interests. Program reports were given by each county chairman in publicity, membership, reading and citizenship. Publicity chairmen of each homemakers club is to work with the county chairman in planning the windows for National Home Demonstration Week.

Plans for the storage tour are being made by the committee, Mrs. Glenn Cloy, Mrs. Albert Henry, and Mrs. Reynolds Allison, chairman.

Nicholas County homemakers have learned to share with others, reported the county chairmen.

The county membership chairman urged each club to have an active membership committee. Even though there has been a gain of thirty new members, several have been lost.

Even though many demands are made of the homemakers time, some is left for reading. Fifty eight homemakers have averaged a book per month this homemakers year. Twelve new books have been added to the homemakers traveling library.

Those attending were: Mesdames Warner Lowe, George Dale, James Williams, Maurice King, William Kendall, Ernest Alexander, William Dollins, Shelley Gaunce, John Cloy, Hanson Ellington, Sherman Crump, Harvey Wagoner, Glenn Cloy, Roy Hardin, Reynolds Allison, Clyde Sexton, Frank Henry, Lowell Shaw and Miss Nancye Kenney.

25 acres of berries to be planted

One hundred and thirty seven people attended the strawberry meeting sponsored by the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce held on Tuesday morning. Joe Allen Stone, chairman of the strawberry committee has announced. An estimated 25 acres of commercial strawberries will be set this year as a result of the program planned and climaxed by the production and marketing meeting.

Production will include 12 to 15 acres grown by F.F.A. and 4-H club members and from 10 to 12 acres grown by adult farmers. This means that in Carlisle Nicholas County will have better than three times the commercial acreage of strawberries that will be in production in 1955.

W. I. Farmer, specialist in vegetable and fruit marketing, University of Kentucky talked to the group and explained the cooperative marketing plan for marketing strawberries. A set of colored slides were shown which illustrated many of the problems, and special practices needed in successful strawberry growing.

Jack Dye, farmer of Fleming county and formerly county agent in Trimble county discussed the production and marketing problems from a producers standpoint. Mr. Dye was instrumental in organizing and setting up the Trimble County Growers Association, a group through which the berries will be marketed in 1956 and 1957.

One hundred and thirty five dollars worth of gate prizes were given away by the merchants of Carlisle and the Chamber of Commerce. The grand prize of a $35, 22 rifle was won by Joe Smith.

Others participating on the program were John Adams, who discussed the organization of the F.F.A. strawberry projects and Cecil C. Milam, assistant county agent, who explained the progress made in establishing the 4-H club strawberry projects. Ralph Shearer stated that the Carlisle-Nicholas County Chamber of Commerce was interested in cooperating in whatever way possible in expanding and improving of the farm income. R. P. Alexander who has produced strawberries commercially for two years explained the arrangements that were being made this year for selling the strawberries through the Trimble County Growers Association, and a district marketing set up at Frankfort where they will be sold direct to merchants, other fresh berry outlets and to processors.
