Threatening letter received Tuesday by Mercury editor

A letter purporting to be from Keith Hardwick, postmarked at Carlisle, September 4 at 7:30 a.m. was received by the editor of The Carlisle Mercury.

The letter in full is quoted below:

"Dear Sir:

"I am asking you to keep all pictures and materials out of your paper in regard to the wreck I had on 68 Friday night.

"My mother is just out of the hospital and does not know all the pictures and my grandmother has a bad heart condition and knows nothing of it, at all. I'm not only asking you to keep all information out I forbid you to print it as it is my own private business and strictly no ones business but mine. I'll see you if I read anything in print in your paper. (Signed) Keith Hardwick"

Atwood Girl is Injured in Wreck

The wreck referred to occurred Thursday night at the intersection of Ky. 36 and U. S. 68 and resulted in severe injuries to Miss Mildred Atwood, an employee of the Giffin Manufacturing Co., who suffered compound fractures of both legs and a hip fracture.

John Argo, driver of a car belonging to Keith Hardwick, reportedly lost control of the vehicle, which overturned. Argo was not injured.

Miss Atwood was taken to the Nicholas County hospital, and later removed to Good Samaritan hospital, Lexington.

Muskies to open season here Friday night

Bowen, pulled a sleeper play which broke the spirit of the opposition.

The play went as a pass from Billy Shaw to David Fenback who scampered 74 yards to score.

The second touchdown was a pitch out from Straw to Gayle Wilson who passed to Billy Gilley for a 13 yard run to pay dirt.

Gilley accounted for the Musketeers third score when he pulled in a pass from Straw and went 40 yards to score. The extra point was scored by passing.

Friday night the probable line-up will be Bobby Henry, quarterback, Stanley Wilson, halfback, Gayle Wilson, halfback, and Asbury McGuffy, fullback.

In the line Billy Straw and Leroy Hawkins will probably get the nod at ends, Billy Berry and Roy Gaunce at tackles, Ronnie Whaley will man one guard position while either George Gaffin or Joe Blount will go at the other guard, and Ronnie Wilson will handle the ball.

Substitutes are Bobby Duncan, Ronnie Little, Gayle Vandingham, Kelly Kennett and W. H. Farris.

Local gridiron fans will get their first look at the 1956 Carlisle Musketeers Friday night when the charges of Coach Ed Wells will play host to the Greyhounds of Paris high school.

In the past two meetings between the Muskies and the Greyhounds, the Carlisle team has defeated the Paris squad.

In 1954 the Musketeers were victorious 26-19.

Last year the Musketeers romped over the Hounds 19-0 on the season opener.

Wells put first team scrimmage the Musketeers, under the direction of Ed Wells and Gayle

When North is South and East is West

By Nellie Crump

It adds lots to a guy's outlook and pep, vim and vigor into a lagging mind when one gets in a rut, just to get out and away once in awhile and see how things are with the other fellow. It sure is true that one half of the world does not know how the other half lives. Somehow we all manage to make the grade though. I found all this out recently when Little One, myself and Tommy (he's the favorite doll) took off early one morning for a little business pleasure trip to Paris—a town where I always enjoy the hours whether they be business or pleasure.

An Invitation

After the morning's business was taken care of, Dr. Pittenger invited us to visit his trophy room. B-r-o-t-h-e-r! Educational as all get out, but spooky as which, and I would not want to be in there alone after sundown, I betcha. Dr. Pittenger is a world traveler and hunter, several times over. I had read of him taking a trip several months ago to Tim-bue-to (which is the general location if not the correct spelling) to see "what the natives do on Satdy night." The place is down there in the wilds of Africa somewhere and gets as hot as 104 at night a.m. and much more so during the day. We watched closely as the point of his pencil followed the red lines of a large map hanging on one wall, flying from Lexington, Ky. to Miami, thence across the Atlantic and on and on.

Truthfully, I think he went a-hunting! Right in this trophy room is ample proof. Eyes of stuffed animals stare into space by the dozen and I noticed I was standing on one of several tiger hides which almost cover the floor. He said it was a tiger; I sll but jumped out of my own hide when a large claw "shook hands" with my big toe through the opening in my sandalup.

A Rare Footstool

An extra large stool, that I have dreamed about three times in the three weeks, was once a huge elephant's foot. Much of the furniture upholstering, hide and hair from some wild animal, special articles being made to conform to that particular part of the animal's anatomy.

Our guide asked that we sign the guest book lying on an oval-shaped table, the top of which was rough and "jumply"—an elephant's ear. The book itself is beautifully colored in shades of tan and green, but when told it was skin (or hide) from the deadly python, I said it right down. One registers with a pen which is a real honest-to-goodness black ostrich feather straight from where they can possibly be had for free.

Lazy-daisy

Just then I tripped slightly and thought I was a goner for sure, but it was Little One down on one knee peering into the shiny eyes of one of those tigers, and he was staring right back. What's New

Hundreds of curios in colored glass, ivory, wood and stone, and what else, brought from countries clear around the globe adorn lovely shelves about the room. Delicate skin shade lamps showing Dr. Pittenger himself in action.

Some day, when I get up a mile more nerve, I'd like to go back—not to find out what the natives of Tim-bue-to do on Satdy night (Doc was chasing a tiger and failed to find out) but what I'd like to know is did I see something I didn't see—to mention the business this genial Pittenger man is in right here in Paris, Kentucky.
