A farmer

A farmer is a man who starts out with nothing, loses on everything he grows and comes out even at the end of the year. Nobody knows how he does it. He doesn't even know himself.

Anyone looking over his farm would think the smartest man in the world would starve trying to tend it. That would be right. The smartest man would starve, but not the farmer. His wife wouldn't let him starve. She has one basic menu: she serves whatever she has. In good years she serves half a dozen vegetables at a meal; in lean years she jumps from poke salad to blackeyed peas.

A real farmer can shape an axe handle from a persimmon sprout and put it in with a dull pocket knife. He has a serviceable set of harness fashioned from hay wire, feed sacks, and a few scraps of leather. He grows corn for the squirrels so the city sportsman may have something to shoot at in due season.

He is the world's greatest optimist. He believes that the fact he has come this far is proof that he can continue to the end. He buries last year's disappointments with the spring plowing and lives for the future. His faith is not in himself alone.

Jokesters say he consults the almanac before he plans his crops and has his teeth pulled in the dark of the moon so they won't sprout, and perhaps he does sometimes.

But, after a hard week's work, he drives five miles to church because his heart still holds the eternal truths that worldly, wiser men have lost. If any man aspires to the title of farmer, let him measure himself by this standard.

He must have worn out two pairs of overalls growing enough cotton for one; he must regularly do half a day's work before the sun comes up and another half day's work after the sun goes down; he must have the heart to plant in hope, cultivate in faith and end in failure, and then start all over with greater hope and stronger faith.

This is a farmer. Heaven helps the family that depends on him for support. Heaven help the nation that does not have him to depend upon for its support.—Georgia Farm Bureau News.

MAN ON THE STREET

Nixon will be help or hurt Ike's chances?

By Kenneth Fink

Director, Princeton Research Service

Princeton, New Jersey—What effect will the nomination of Richard M. Nixon as the GOP Vice Presidential candidate have on President Eisenhower's chances of re-election?

This is the way it looks to MAN ON THE STREET at this time.

1. Never before in the nation's political history will the potential Presidential qualifications of the Vice Presidential candidates be examined and appraised more carefully. With the thought that President Eisenhower may become too ill to handle his job for another four years or that he may not live through his term growing on voters' minds, the GOP Vice Presidential candidate Nixon—his record, background, and experience—may become the deciding factor in making up many people's minds on the way they will vote on November 6.

2. With the above fact in mind, it seems to MAN ON THE STREET that no other Republican (with the possible exception of Chief Justice Earl Warren) nominated as the GOP Vice Presidential candidate could fail to hurt Ike's chances this November. This is no reflection on Vice President Nixon or on any other Republican that might have been nominated for the Vice Presidency. It simply amounts to this: No other man in the nation today has the hold on the American people that Ike does. And any man considered as a possibility of being a substitute for him during the coming four years suffers by comparison. As a result, the nomination of Nixon for the GOP Vice Presidency will lose votes for President Eisenhower.

3. The fact that Mr. Nixon is relatively young and inexperienced, particularly when compared to the record and achievements of President Eisenhower, is another reason why some voters will be swayed from voting for the GOP Presidential candidate.

4. Another factor that must be taken into consideration is that in some people's minds, Vice President Nixon represents the Old Guard Conservative Republicans. And for this reason, some liberal Republicans and Independents will be likely to think twice before voting for the GOP Presidential candidate.

5. The fact that the Democrats will make Vice President Nixon a big issue during the coming campaign and a main target to shoot at may also hurt Mr. Eisenhower.

Some voters going on the principle that "Where there's smoke, there's fire" are likely to stray from the Republican ranks unless the GOP can effectively answer the charges made against Mr. Nixon.

On the plus side, Mr. Nixon's reputation as an avowed enemy of communism, both within and without the country, will very probably gain him some votes from the Democratic ranks.

And the fact that he is young, active, able, and personable should also help the GOP cause.

Summing up then, MAN ON THE STREET believes that the GOP Vice Presidential candidate will become more and more important as a factor in making up people's minds as to the way they will vote; that Mr. Nixon will hurt Ike's chances mainly because the Vice Presidential candidate will be compared and contrasted to Ike as a possible President for the coming term; that Nixon's youth and relative inexperience may sway voters from the GOP ranks, and that Nixon to some people represents the Old Guard Conservative Republicans may also lose votes for Ike.

On the plus side is Vice President Nixon's reputation as a fighter of communism and the fact that he is young, active, able, and personable.

The Carlisle Mercury presents MAN ON THE STREET exclusively in this area.

Help Wanted!

Does anyone happen to have an extra copy of The Mercury around May 18, 1935? That's right, 1935. A Carlisle High graduate writes that her highly prized copy containing the picture of that year's class group has been accidently destroyed.

The Ghost of Jupiter!

If I believed in ghosts, I would be sure I saw one—yessir, I would. The office door opend last Wednesday afternoon and in walked our old Mercury writer—Sam D. Kerns—after an absence of some 35 years or more. He looked and acted natural—the very same "Daddy Longlegs." Seems that he got interested in antiques over at Mt. Sterling and has been too busy to get away. It was good to meet him again and talk over some of the "good old days."

Number 66 is on the line.

Through an automatic telephone device persons calling number 66 will hear a spiritual message of 30 seconds recorded by the Rev. Rhodes Thompson of Paris, Ky. Every one needs help at times and there is no one who will not profit by a call Rev. Thompson believes. When your spirits hit zero, he invites you to call number 66, Paris.

—yap—

Lads and ladders.

Perhaps you wondered why I was walking down Main street in the hot sun recently gazing into the stratasphere right in the middle of the day. Now the real truth is I was admiring the Square Deal Grocery from top to toe. It is a beauty, plus efficiency. A few weeks ago I saw two painters atop three 20-foot ladders and another one, all fastened together and I wondered how they planned to improve the place "where ma saves pa's dough." It is the old J. T. Sims building (built before I can remember even) and has the name strung clear across the width of the building in large stone letters above the second-story windows — now freshly painted white on a lovely green background. The new aluminum awning extending the entire width of the double building is green and white, which adds much to this popular place of business. The upper story, now the furniture department, was once Mozart Hall, where the best known actors of that day played to capacity audiences. A few of the Carlisle "boys" are still around town who would have traded their moustache for a toe-hold on a ladder like I was speaking of—back in the Gay Nineties.

But speaking of new paint—have you seen The Mercury's new fall ensemble?

Yaps—all . . .

A five-year flouridation plan has given Maysville's children better dental health.

Rats are smart. They will turn down bait that doesn't taste good, even if they are starving to death.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13

It is not ye that speak, but the Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you. (Matthew 10:20.)

When I was still a young boy, I heard a preacher speak about Samuel and how God had spoken to him. I went home so much impressed with the sermon that I resolved to hear God speak to me.

That night I knelt beside my bed and asked Him to speak to me, for I longed to hear His voice and advice. I stayed in that position for a long time but heard nothing. Finally I decided to go to sleep. I had not lost hope. I said to myself, "Maybe God will speak to me at another time in another manner."

Many years have passed since that night. Now I can look back and say that God has spoken to me. I have heard His voice many times in many different ways. He has guided my life.

True God does not speak to us when we decide we want Him to, but He will come to our aid when we seek Him diligently and in sincerity and truth.

PRAYER

Our Father, we thank Thee for Thy guidance. Thou hast always been with us and ready to speak to us. Sometimes we have not listened to Thee or sensed that Thou wert speaking to us. Help us to hear and heed Thy voice that we may live in the spirit of the Master. In His name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

By faith we hear God speaking to us by Christ's love in us we try to do His will.—Claudio Moraes (Brazil)

KENTUCKIANS IN WASHINGTON

By Gil Kingsbury

RETURNING TO SCHOOL

The State Department, in a release the other day, had a tip that high school students, returning to classes, might note. The State Department needs young people for foreign service. Thus far, the eastern states supply the most and only about five come from Kentucky. Diplomats, therefore, are anxious to get a better cross-section from other parts of the nation. If you are interested you may write the Foreign Service Institute, State Department, Washington 25, D. C., for full information about diplomatic jobs abroad.

EDUCATIONAL NOTE:

More data on school students comes from Uncle Sam's storehouse of facts and figures.

Of all the thousands of young people enrolling this week in high schools, only about 55 percent will stay on to get that diploma. That's the national average and the Kentucky average, so we are informed, is higher.

This is to be remembered: For every year a student remains in high school, his annual salary increases about $450. So actually, a day in the classroom is a day worth money.

SOCIAL ITEM:

Paul Porter, former big-wheel in the Truman administration and once upon a time a Kentucky newspaperman, is getting ready to move into his new home in Washington with his new bride, Kathleen Windsor, the author of FOREVER AMBER.

Mr Porter, who was the price administrator during rationing days, is now practicing law. His new home is in the northwest section of Washington and the remodeling job now underway includes the addition of a swimming pool.

THIS AND THAT:

Very few congressmen are around but the office staffs are busy, rolling out reports to the people which suggest that their congressmen are doing a good job . . . Note to Kentucky farmers: Farm real estate values (and debts) have increased. So, if your farm has increased in its value, you are keeping pace with the national trend . . . University of Kentucky alumni here are buying tickets to that U. K.-Maryland game scheduled for November 3 at College Park, a bus ride from downtown Washington . . . Justice Stanley Reed of Maysville has the second longest service of all members of the Supreme Court. He has been on the high bench for 18 years.

Visit the Old Governor's Mansion, Frankfort. Opened to visitors daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Kit Carson, famous scout, guide and Indiana fighter, was born in Madison county in 1809.

The "Niagara of the South," famous Cumberland Falls, is 125 feet wide and drops 68 feet.

Register now to vote in November. It is YOUR vote that counts.

Eddyville and Kuttawa may be consolidated under the new name, Barkley, honoring the Commonwealth's former vice-president, the late Alben Barkley.
