THE RESULT.

The election Tuesday proved to be a victories for the Democrats.

New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Ohio go Republican, with the probability that Kentucky has gone the same way. The latest dispatches show that the majority either way will be small.

Hinton, for Representative, elected Republican in Bourbon by 277 majority.

Hinton, Republican, elected Representative in Fleming.

Mason goes 300 Democratic.

Fayette gives ten Democratic majority.

Covington elects a Republican mayor, etc.

Madison County goes the Republican and the Democratic candidates for Senator and Representative are defeated.

Every ward in Louisville elected Republicans, and the Republican majority in the city is about 1,000.

Harrison County goes about 100 majority. Democratic candidate for Representative wins by four.

Nicholas County gives James Gilliespie 304 majority. In Robertson Democratic majority is 138, making his majority in the district 314.

Hardin carries Nelson by about 200, while Keller carried it by about 500.

The probabilities are that the Republicans will be Republican on joint ballot.

G. B. Keller carried Bourbon this morning ahead of the ticket.

Hogans and Durnet have both been sentenced to be hung and the electric chair, now what will they do for Governor and Lieu?

L. C. Wagoner has bought the City Omnibus Tissue from F. W. Norris and will run it as a straight Democratic paper. It has been rather on the indipendent order heretofore.

The Indiana Supreme Court upholds the railroad "Blacklist" law, rendering assessment to be held-to-ed of railroad fullgrash statements to the assessments of trains.

The amount of money spent on election is strictly no concern whatever.

The Louisville Fair is the great attraction this week. Many of our people are there. The exercises of the day commence at 10 o'clock. The gate charge is only 25 cents for the day, particularly for one only one entered and I shall not enter. The Fair Grounds are located on a high hill with a winding entrance up which one must walk, and when they have reached a higher elevation they are rewarded with a beautiful view. Judge Mann was the guest of honor at the Fair on Tuesday. He was accompanied on the train from the State at Lexington by the Bourbon delegation and was received upon the Fair ground by a number of ladies awaited him the time of the visit. Judge Mann spoke from the grounds, but the committee arranged for a speaker's stand in the Agricultural Pavilion or Postmaster Lyon or Judge Mann could be heard by all.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

All the members of the Democratic County Committee are earnestly requested to meet at the office of the County Democratic Manday afternoon, November 11, at 2 o'clock. It is important for organizing the Committee and electing a Chairman, etc.

Respectfully,
J. W. FORD, Sec. W. L. FOWLER, Chm'n.

The vote cast by the Democrats in Nicholas Tuesday was proof positive that this county is solidly Democratic. The Democrats had no county ticket in organization while the Republicans had plenty of both, and worked hard to get it, couldn't read. The Democrats put up a bad lacksonville organization.

Or course the editor of the Mercury feels complimented, and is thankful to the people of Nicholas for the very large vote he received. If he had not been rolled, in all probability he would have over the efforts of the Democrats of Kentucky, he shall try and repay it at the first opportunity.

Kentucky has not had such a campaign as the one just closed, since the war. The Republicans have divided themselves into a solid mass of cultivated, well-to-do citizens and ignorant negroes. Tuesday and Tuesday night that night's work will be felt in their hearts. But we will not complain here.

The campaign just closed has been one of extreme partisanship, and the slinging by some of the orators and papers on both sides. So far as the Mercury and its editor is concerned it has been without malice or abuse. We are have not given entire satisfaction to those who would have every one who differs with them abused, but we have given our readers a clean campaign paper and that is a great satisfaction to us. We have made mistakes, but not many little while, for next year's campaign will find you and this jealousy one of doubt and hard times. Fallibrally late has been a real.

The Court of Appeals has given an interesting construction of the Separate Coach Law in the case of Ed. Quigley, a colored woman, who sued the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company for damages inflicted by a drunken white passenger when the conductor had allowed intoxicated to enter the coach set apart for colored passengers. The court of Appeals holds that the law was meant for protection against altercations between the races, and that the railroad company is not accountable for the offensive conduct of a white passenger allowed to ride in the colored coach contrary to law.

Many Democrats in this county cast the cross after the name of Gen. Hardin instead of under the head of the ticket, and this voted for him alone when they evidently intended to vote the straight Democratic ticket.

Dr. Pat Rennen—Dr. John G. Carlisle, the eminent founder of the Rennen College and for over forty years pastor and church of Boston has resigned his congregation rather reluctantly and entered upon his duties as President of the Church Schools having any form of baptism. An opportunity was offered for a public debate but a few weeks ago, but Dr. Rennen convinced that his teachings had been misrepresented by the Boston clergyman, so, telling him they must be baptized in order to be saved. The members promptly came forward in the interests and a large majority was dunked to achieve the original views. This is considered a capture between Dr. Fee and his contemporaries, and the latter will have to look to their laurels or lose his leadership.

Dr. Fee is one of the best known men in the State. He has written books and tracks has carried a wide influence for good. He is a powerful speaker. It is not known whether or not he will accept his connection with the College, of which he was the founder and which he has made famous. Rev. J. S. Fee has succeeded to the pastorate of the church at Berea.—The Richmond Register.

W. J. Lucas, the well-known correspondent of the Courier-Journal, has severed his connection with the town of Bright-ville and county, and in his write up of the Democratic victory in Fayette County of this city, a handsome acknowledgment.

The Bentleville Fair is the great attraction this week. Many of our people are there. The exercises of the day commence at 10 o'clock. The gate charge is only 25 cents for the day, particularly for one only one entered and I shall not enter. The Fair Grounds are located on a high hill with a winding entrance up which one must walk, and when they have reached a higher elevation they are rewarded with a beautiful view. Judge Mann was the guest of honor at the Fair on Tuesday. He was accompanied on the train from the State at Lexington by the Bourbon delegation and was received upon the Fair ground by a number of ladies awaited him the time of the visit. Judge Mann spoke from the grounds, but the committee arranged for a speaker's stand in the Agricultural Pavilion or Postmaster Lyon or Judge Mann could be heard by all.

TWO DEAD.

A special from Hyden, Ky., October 31st says: In Representative W. P. Hogg's race for Legislature, the Democratic politicians of Leslie County, Ky., have been fighting each other for years, and the feeling has been growing since the month of timber rights. Hogg is a Democrat and has been the leader of the party of conflicting timber interests. Of the voters in Leslie County, the Democratic having killed his brother several years ago. Hogg killed Bill Howard in a brigid fill on the electoral spot where he was assassinated by Howard's brother.

Both men were drinking at the time and had had bloody fued over a revolver and fired, killing Howard instantly. Hogg received a wound in the leg and was carried to Hyden, where he lay for months suffering from the wound. However he lived until 5 o'clock this morning, when he succumbed to the wounds inflicted by the Howard fraternity, of which there was a number.

Hogg was to have addressed the people of Hyden on the political issues of the interest of the State, and the town party. He was a good orator and had a host of friends. Since the above details have all Harmel, the seat of Hogg's home, and the Howard faction of the town party.

Don't Write When Angry.

Never write a letter in a rage, would a child when you are angry with the person in question, or, perhaps, I had better say usually so; when you are angry, you can and will, correct send an angry letter. Many a friendship has been broken by angry letters, written if, and then I would suggest that you never write a letter when angry. Wait a day or two, and if you are then without the background favorably to write, you will find that you can write a much better letter, and will be full all the delights of a reaction by the process of carrying your letter around with you for a day or two without the background favorably to write. Who is there who has not written his anger out in a letter and regretted it? Then, I repeat, write a cool letter by any one you have a grievance against, and you will find that you can write much better letter, and will be full of
