Frustrated week, locals fall twice

By Pat Conley

The drought continued as the Blue Swarm (Nicholas County) fell twice more, last Tuesday night to Paris, and Saturday night to the Rowan County Vikings. The Jackets trailed arch-rival Paris by only four with three minutes left in the third quarter, when the bottom fell out. The Greyhounds rallied behind Tim Lawrence's 34 points to trounce the Swarm 74-53.

Saturday night Coach Bill Anderson and his boys traveled to Morehead, home of 6' 5" Jerry Ravenscraft, the state's second highest point producer. It was obvious that Nicholas respected the big boy as they threw up a zone defense designed especially to neutralize his scoring punch, mainly by fronting him at all times.

The strategy worked to a certain extent as Ravenscraft scored only 24 points, eight under his 32 per game average. Meanwhile 6' forward Gary Cisco was having his best night this year offensively, taking advantage of the Jackets' overstacked zone, to drop through 16 points.

Nicholas played even ball most of the way against the Vikings who start four kids over 6'. Another miserable third frame saw the Jackets fade badly as the Swarm combined for two of 13 from the field, mixed with atrocious ball-handling to give Rowan County a 50-35 quarter advantage.

Nicholas came right back behind a very effective all-court press, and cut Rowan's lead to three with 2:26 left to play. The Blue guys had possession with two minutes left, when a travelling violation enabled the Vikings to escape danger with a three point play. Rowan County held on to win, 67-59.

It took an outstanding effort on the part of the dwarfed Jackets to stay in contention with the bizzer hosts. Nicholas hauled down an amazing 54 rebounds led by Gerald Hatton with 17, here.

Tuesday the Jackets travel to Lexington for a bout with Sayre. Nicholas entertains Covington Latin here Saturday night.

Nicholas County (59); Fryman 9, Compton 9, Jones 6, Darbro 4, Hatton 21, Thompson 10.

Rowan County (67); Ravenscraft 24, Cisco 11, Thompson 11, Gullett 2, Phillips 4, Arnett 4, Hodges 2, Fugate 4.

CARE stepping up aid for Vietnamese

COLUMBUS—On the heels of the cease-fire announcement, C A R E headquarters in New york today cabled its director in Vietnam to proceed with finalizing previously prepared, preliminary proposals for vastly expanding the agency's relief and reconstruction aid for the destitute refugees and other war victims.

Initial plans call for extending CARE's child feeding programs, which now reach 270,000 school children, in the Saigon area, into regions inaccessible during the fighting.

Also under discussion with Vietnamese government officials are proposals to establish medical services for the sick and injured, and to help resettle displaced families in new communities or in their former villages that now lie in ruins. Such aid would include repair and construction of houses, schools and roads. with the people themselves helping to do the building, and a provision for work equipment for farmers, fishermen and artisans in small industries, so that they can support themselves and their families independently.

CARE has operated in South Vietnam since 1954 when it was the first outside agency to enter the country after the Geneva truce.

"Americans have the challenge and opportunity of helping to build the conditions in which peace can survive," Frank L. Goffio, CARE Executive Director said in an appeal for public support. "Whatever governments do, there is an urgent need for direct people-to-people assistance for millions of the homeless, hungry and sick. Although our present work centers in South Vietnam, CARE stands ready to send aid whenever it is needed and requested through IndoChina."

Ohioans and Kentuckians who wish to help send contributions to the CARE Vietnam Fund, 8 E. Chestnut St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Head Start teachers and aids being trained

William M. Perkins Jr., Executive Director of Licking Valley Community Action Program, Inc. announces that 25 members of the Head Start Staff are involved in Career Development. Through funds made possible by the Public Service Careers Program and Head Start Supplementary Training, enrollees are able to get GED's or take college courses. Not only are their tuition and book charges covered, but also the supportive services of baby-sitting and transportation to and from class are provided.

More than 250 college credit hours have been earned and six have received GED Certificates since the beginning of the program in July, 1970. 23 are enrolled at Morehead State University through residence, extension or correspondence and two enrolled at Maysville Community College.

The purpose of Head Start Career Development is to improve the care rendered to children. The quality of this care depends upon the upgrading of staff members, as well as on the total health and ability to function and develop Head Start families and communities. The arms of Career Development are extended in two directions—toward our children and toward our society—joining at the point where a child meets those conditions that penetrate his family and define his outside world.

A total of 36 are employed in Full-Year Head Start which operated in six counties. Virginia K. Jones is Director of Career Development Program.

Kentuckians attend national crime meet

A delegation of 17 Kentuckians attended a National Conference on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals recently in Washington.

The conference, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Justice, brought together over 1,500 criminal justice practitioners from every state.

It reviewed the work of a special commission appointed by President Nixon to recommend ways to reduce crime in communities across the nation.

Charles L. Owen, Director of the Kentucky Crime Commission, was the only Kentuckian appointed to the National Commission.

Later this spring the National Commission will publish more than 500 criminal justice standards. Conference participants are reviewing major recommendations to set the stage for subsequent action by state and local governments.

While the standards themselves will be voluntary, according to Owen, "they have a good chance of acceptance because the public will have specific measures by which to judge the performance by local police, courts and correctional agencies."

One way of meeting the standards throughout the country will be through the 55 state and territorial Crime Commissions established by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. Commissioners are charged with reducing crime and have Federal Safe Streets Act monies for doing the job.

Owen, National Chairman of the State Crime Commission Directors, was asked by the Department of Justice to arrange for each state delegation to conduct its final day's meeting on strategy to implement the standards.

Attending the Washington meeting as Kentucky's delegation were: Walter A. Baker, Glasgow; Ralph Bosse, Covington; Larry G. Boucher, Frankfort; James S. Chenault, Richmond; Charles R. Crafton, Madisonville; William M. Gant, Owensboro; Ed Hancock, Frankfort; Kenneth F. Harper, Fort Mitchell; Charles J. Holmes, Frankfort; James F. Knauf, Covington; Edgar Paul, Louisville; George Rabe, Lexington; Raymond L. Sutll, Louisville; John Swinford, Cynthiana; Evans D. Tracy, and Anthony M. Wilhoit, Frankfort.

KU announces construction plan

Kentucky Utilities Company announced plans for a second coal-powered electric generating unit which will double the capacity of its Ghent station on the Ohio River in Carroll county. With its related substation and transmission additions, the new unit is expected to cost $130 million.

W.A. Duncan, Lexington, president, said the $11,000,000 kilowatt unit is necessary to serve the load growth of the company and that the added facilities will result in improved service to the company's various service areas. KU serves nearly 300,000 customers in Kentucky and through its subsidiary in southwest Virginia.

The new generating unit is scheduled to begin operation on Jan. 1, 1977. The first unit at Ghent, also a 511,000 kw coal-burning unit, is now in the later stages of construction and is expected to begin operation next January.

KU has filed with the Kentucky Public Service Commission for a certificate of convenience and necessity for its proposed No. 2 Ghent unit and related facilities.

The company also announced its 1973 construction budget covering a wide variety of projects to improve and strengthen its system. The year's KU construction allotments totaling $64,850,000 were approved at a meeting of the board of Directors Monday, Jan. 22.

The Old Dominion Power Company construction budget for Virginia projects is an additional $1,500,000 for 1973.

At the January meeting in Lexington, the board also declared a dividend of 43½ cents a share on the company's common stock payable March 15 on stock of record Feb. 16. This represents an increase of 1½ cents per share over the previous quarter.

Besides $40 million to be spent on the Ghent generating station during 1973, the generating projects include $3,840,000 for the installation of electrostatic precipitators on existing units for environmental protection and $125,000 for new demineralizing equipment at the Green River Station, near Central City.

Other major projects include:

Complete 41½ miles of 138 KV Line from Carrollton to Frankfort with terminal at Frankfort—$450,000 in 1973 of $2,122,000 project.

Construct 45 miles 138 KV line from Ghent to Adams, near Georgetown, with terminal at Adams—1836,000 in 1973 of $2,140,000 project.

Construct 3½ miles 138 and 69 KV line from American Avenue to Haefling substation in Northwest Lexington and terminals—$315,000 in 1973 of $860,000 project.

Complete 3 miles of 345 V line Ghent to the Ohio River for Kentucky Indiana Pool tie to Batesville, Ind., and terminal—$340,000 in 1973 $442.00 project. (Initial operation of this line will be at 138 KV.)
