Thanksgiving—a time to bethankful; also a time for driving safely

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving Day! The day was originally set aside by the Pilgrims to thank God for all their blessings.

We would like to continue this tradition by taking time out from our busy schedules to give thanks for all good things — peace, love, health, family, friends, and the goodwill of our fellowmen.

Oftentimes we are quick to ask for something from someone, but forget to thank them when we get it. We take many things we have for granted, and never think that they are gifts, and, as such, can easily be revoked.

Join with yor family and friends and thank God properly on this one day especially — Thanksgiving Day; 1977 — for all the things you often didn't take time to be thankful that you possess.

Thanksgiving Driving Safety

State Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson is urging all Kentuckians to practice safe driving habits during this year's Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

In both 1975 and 1976, 13 persons were killed on Kentucky's highways during the Thanksgiving weekend. Let's not let that become a trend in our state. Let's make 1977 a real Thanksgiving by having a fatality-free holiday weekend.

As only safety measure, Grayson urged drivers to travel Kentucky's parkways when possible, citing state police records which show that fewer fatalities occur on those roads.

The Secretary also offered other safety tips to motorists:

*Have your car inspected at an official Motor Vehicle Inspection Station (there are 3,100 in the state) before leaving on a holiday trip.

*Allow yourself plenty of time to get to your destination.

*Take frequent breaks — "Start Early, Stop Frequently".

*Plan your trip to avoid peak travel periods and areas of congested traffic.

*Keep the interior of your vehicle cool to help the driver avoid drowsiness.

Observe the 55 m.p.h. speed limit. Not only may it save your life, it can also save you money for fuel and tires.

*Use your seat belts.

If we will all observe these basic rules, our Thanksgiving holiday this year can be much happier for everyone.

Record play ends 10-2

The Nicholas County Bluejackets played their last game of the season Thursday night against a strong AAA team Woodford County in the Central Kentucky Conference Bowl. The 4 tam Jackets put forth their best effort but lost 26-23.

This loss ended this year's play with an amazing 10-2 record. The other loss was to Raceland — the game that ended all hopes of a District win again this year. Last year, the Jackets' record was also 10-2, as they played in the state playoffs for the first time in NCHS history. Those two losses were both to Bellevue, once during the season and once in the district playoffs.

The Jackets have displayed excellent ability and conditioning during bolh of these seasons. None of us have any regreta. We are all very proud of what has been accomplished by the team in such a short time.

The players and fans all know that we are as good a team as any in Class A and as good as many other teams in the bigger classes. Next year may very well be the year we prove it to everyone else across the state.

Most football fans have now heard of Nicholas County. This is quite different from last year when a daily sports editor asked where Nicholas County is — he'd never heard of it, although only 34 miles away.

Most football fans now have a healthy respect for Nicholas County because they have beaten so many good teams time after time.

We, here in Nicholas County, are proud of the team's hard work. We are proud of the team's record. We are proud of the esprit-de-corps that cannot be explained in words, and we look forward to more of the same next year.

Only 41% of voters, Vote!

Although 648 more persons had registered to vote this year as compared to the 1976 General Election, only 41% of those eligible voted last week. 2,273 of the 3,875 registered voters in Nicholas County did not go to the polls Nov. 8.

We contribute this largely to the fact that most candidates won election during the May Primary. As a comparison, 2,849 of the 3,861 registered voters, or 74% of those eligible, voted in the May Primary earlier this year.

A further indication that there was more voter interest in May, is that the highest vote-getter in the Primary was County Clerk Rose Scott with 2,144 votes. She received 829 votes this time. The second highest vote-getter in May, and the highest vote-getter on Nov. 8, was Reese Smoot for County Judge/executive; he received 1,802 votes in May and only 897 votes last week. Both were unopposed on Nov. 8.

Four years ago, 2,406 persons voted in the May Primary—only 441 less than this year. However, only 852 voted in the November Election compared to the 1,602 who voted this year.

This fact indicates that there was more interest in the city race this year than there was four years ago. The reason for this is that in 1973, only five candidates filed for the six councilmen seats. A write-in candidate was necessary to fill the sixth position. And, there was no opposition in the Mayor's race.

It is always healthier for the voter to go to the polls than to stay at home, no matter what the issues. We say "healthier" meaning for the good of our Democratic form of government.

To those 2,273 registered voters who chose not to vote this time, we can only say that you may not always be able to choose whether to vote or not unless you vote every time. To the many other persons who are not even registered to vote, we say "register", it is your duty as one of the members of our Democratic form of government. If we all don't exercise our right to vote, we may one day wake up under another form of government—and wish we were back where we are today, able to choose the people to lead us where we want to go.

Letters from our readers

The Carlisle Mercury:

On behalf of the officers, directors and members of the Central Kentucky Foxhunters Association, I would like to express our thanks to you and your staff, especially Mrs. Janie Duncan, for the pictures and articles of our recent Field Trials held at the Clay Wildlife Management Area.

Sincerely,

To The Carlisle Mercury:

The program "SOAP" has been aired on television now for several weeks. Many have written letters protesting the program.

There is always a tendency to "let up" after a while. This allows producers to think that the programs are now acceptable.

We must continue to wage a "believable" warfare against filth, immorality, violence and other evils aired into our homes daily.

Therefore the Nicholas County Ministerial Association has asked me to write this letter urging you to continue your letterwriting. We unanimously wish it to be a matter of public record that we are opposed to the content of such programs.

Please write a letter today to Charles P. Harper, Jr., P. O. Box 5590, WTVQ, Lexington,. Ky. 40505. and James E. Duffy, Pres., ABC Tel. Network, 1330 Av. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The Ministerial Association commends your fine editorial — "Stop that aethist, now" — of Oct. 27. Madelyn Murray O'Hair must be stopped. We urge you to write a letter today to the following address urging the FCC to continue broadcasting religious programs on radio and tv.

Federal Communications Commission, 1919 "M" Street, N. W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Please include the Petition Number, RM 2493, on the envelope.

To the Carlisle Mercury:

We would like to thank the community for the splendid cooperation and the help that was given to the FHA-FFA March of Dimes "Haunted House".

Over 800 people were intrigued, frightened and amused in their visit to the old Lyric Theater during Oct. 26-31. The Nicholas County FHA-FFA Chapters feel that its first attempt at spooking people was not only a great fund raising event for the March of Dimes but also a lot of fun for hundreds of people.

We the advisers feel that the students gained from this activity and also enjoyed putting this on for the community. We feel that these young people should be complimented on their dedication and outstanding achievement for such a worthy cause.

The community's interest and involvement is gratefully appreciated for this project.

Proceeds for the event totaled $461.36 which will be donated to the local March of Dimes Chapter for the purpose of purchasing neonatal equipment for the Nicholas County Hospital and for furthering birth defect research.

Sincerely,
FHA and FFA Advisers

GOP on its way back some think

by S. C. Van Curon

FRANKFORT — November 8 was a good day for the Republicans in Kentucky, Larry Van Hoose, state director of the GOP said.

Although the Republicans gained only one legislative seat, a senate seat in Jefferson County, Van Hoose saw the winning of the County Judge's office in Jefferson County as the "first concrete proof that the GOP is on its way back to restoring the two-party system in Kentucky and the legislature".

He pointed out that the Republicans had won several county offices throughout the state, some in Democratic districts. He pointed out victories for county judge executive in Perry and Clark counties.

The senate victory in Jefferson was a "complete turn around from four years ago when Daisy Thaler defeated incumbent Republican Stewart Richlert by about 4,000 votes. State Representative Jon Ackerson defeated his Democrat opponent by about the same amont," Van Hoose said.

Mrs. Thaler did not seek re-election.

When asked about not electing any Republicans to the County Commission or the Board of Aldermen, Van Hoose said, "Mitch McConnell's victory over Todd Hollenbach was not an anti-Hollenbach movement".

He pointed out that aldermen and county commissioners run county wide and this takes "a tremendous amount of money".

GOP state party chairman Lee Nunn was quoted by Van Hoose as being "optimistic with tepidations". Gov. Louie B. Nunn could not be reached for comment, but in the past he has said that he and Fifth District Congressman Tim Lee Carter have pledged mutual support if either of them decides to run for governor.

Lee Nunn said that the state GOP does not have the "financial base we need". However, he said last week's election generated more enthusiasm in the party in the state.

Republicans have not been as outspoken as the Democrats in speculating who will run for statewide offices in 1979. However, Carter has indicated he might well run for governor and has had some word battles with Gov. Julian Carroll about the methods the Democrats have used to raise campaign funds.

Former Gov. Nunn has not shut the door on the possibilities that he may seek the governorship in 1979. State Representative Raymond Overstreet already has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor in 1979.

Van Hoose says the electorate will see "some new faces and new talent".

Some likely prospects to become Republican candidates for statewide office in 1979 are Tom Emberton, who was defeated by Wendell Ford; State Senator-elect Larry Hopkins, Senator Eugene Stuart, Senator Walter Baker, Former Congressman John Rogers of Somerset, former Highway Commissioner Eugene Goss of Harlan and former state Senator Ray White of Bowling Green.

White is considered a prospect for lieutenant governor as are some of the others, depending upon who runs for the gubernatorial slot.

Huda Jones, Beattyville, also has indicated she may be interested in becoming a candidate for lieutenant governor. Johnson is considered a likely candidate for attorney general.

In reviewing the voting in Jefferson County, Van Hoose said it "is ridiculous and unfair that Louisville Aldermen, although elected for district seats, must

Paper logs for warmth

I know one person who won't be caught short of fuel this winter, he's making his own paper logs when there's time with the help of a newspaper roller device. All he has to do is crank old newspapers into the machine, tie the bundle at each end and presto he has a long-burning paper log. As G. C. Myers stated he just puts a wood log on the fire followed by the newspaper ones and enjoys their cheery warmth.

Unwritten rule

Of the several rules that seem to govern the running of this newspaper, I am about to break one, usually mimeograph letters to The Mercury windup in file 13, but this one suits the coming occasion:

Give Thanks Unto The Lord!

Thanksgiving was celebrated in 1621 by our Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth. They had just passed through a year of famine, of sickness, of death, and wanted to thank God for their many blessings and especially for providing food so generously in the Fall Harvest.

David, the Psalmist, who wrote the 23rd Psalm wrote the following priceless Psalm 100, which is one of Thanksgiving:

1 Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.
2 Serve the lord with gladness: come before His presence with singing.
3 Know ye that the Lord He is God: it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture.
4 Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise: be thankful unto Him, and bless His name.
5 For the Lord is good; His mercy is everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations.

Thank God for just being alive; for being able to walk, for being able to talk, for being able to hear, for being able to sit in a wheel chair, and for being able to pray.

It is easy to thank God for good health; but thank Him also for pain and suffering for they make you a better person for God. By suffering, you draw closer to Him.

It is easy to thank God for joys; but thank Him also for sorrows and tears for they make you a better person for God. It is easy to thank God for big things; but thank Him also for someone's smile for the sunshine, for a restful night of sleep and many others.

Thank God for unanswered prayer for He knows what is best for you.

And finally, "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable Gift." (II Cor. 9:15). Don't forget to thank God for His gift of Jesus Christ our Saviour, who died for our sins so that we might be acceptable to a most Holy God. "Believe on Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." Believe He died on a cross for our sins, believe that He arose again so that we, like Him, might arise from the dead, and live in Heaven with Him. We have much to be thankful for at this season and throughout the year!

In conclusion: "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you. (I Thess. 5:18)

Onion pie

My first thought when I spied this recipe was ugh, but then I realized it was the main dish, not a dessert. Since onions are plentiful (according to the USDA) here is the recipe.

1 cup cornmeal
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup salad oil
½ cup cold water
3 cups sauteed onions, about 3 onions
1 cup grated cheddar, jack or mozzarella cheese
1 cup milk
¼ cup to ½ cup powdered milk
3 eggs, beaten
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon thyme
3 teaspoons nutritional yeast (optional)

Mix first three ingredients together, add oil and just enough water to make the dough stick together. Pat into an oiled or lecithined 11-by-7 inch rectangular baking pan.

Put sauteed onions into the crust. Layer cheese over them. Mix remaining ingredients together and pour over cheese and onions. Bake at 350 degrees F for about 30 minutes.

If you like onion rings, you'll like onion pie, according to Lois Wickstrom, a young monther of two, who found this reipe in Berkeley, Calif. Even onion-haters ask for seconds.— The Christian Science Monitor

Colcord Winery opens in Paris as 400 attend

An estimated 400 persons, including Mr. and Mrs. Warren R. Fisher of Carlisle, attended the opening of the first Kentucky winery in over a century Friday night in Paris. Commissioner of Commerce W. Terry McBrayer and other officials presided at the opening.

The new Colcord Winery, located in downtown Paris will produce 15,000 bottles this year. The wines are made only from grapes from its nearby Cane Ridge vineyards.

Its owner F. Carlton Colcord planted the 32 acre vineyard on his Bourbon County farm seven years ago, and in 1976, obtained the first small winery license in the state. Now a year and half after production began, the winery is offering its first wines for sale at the premises in Paris.

Mr. Colcord hopes the winery will mean the re-birth of a Kentucky tradition, for wineries are not totally new in the state.

Kentucky was a major wine producing state in the mid-1800's, but the vines failed because of inadequate technology, and the industry disappeared around the turn of the century. Even with the repeal of Prohibition, these past failures and Kentucky law discouraged any new commercial developments.

That changed last year with the passage of the Kentucky Small Winery Act, which allows small wineries to offer sample tastings of its wines as well as to sell small quantities to visitors.

Visitors can see the process of wine-making as well as taste the Kentucky wine. Hours from now to Jan. 1 are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday and until 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

run city wide and the same holds true for County Commissioners who must run county wide although elected to represent a district".

Van Hoose sees this as accounting for the drop off of Republican strength in the minor offices.

Jefferson County contains about 30 per cent of the state's registered voters and Republicans always maintain they must carry Jefferson and the Republicans Stronghold, the fifth congressional district, by big margins to win state wide.
