Create A Family Message Center

If, in your family, messages often fail to be transmitted or notes and shopping lists are mislaid, you might consider building this home communication center to improve the situation. This combination blackboard and bulletin board can be placed wherever most convenient in the home, possibly in the kitchen, recreation room or in a centrally located hallway. The blackboard section is useful for messages and shopping reminders while the corkboard section is good for clippings, meeting notices, menus, pictures and perhaps an appealing cartoon or two.

The size of the communications center depends on the needs of the family. To build it all you need is some plywood and some moulding. To make the blackboard you can paint a piece of plywood with chalkboard paint or perhaps you can find a piece of real blackboard. Because the blackboard is thinner than the corkboard it will need to be glued to a piece of plywood to make each side equal in thickness. The blackboard and corkboard are then glued side by side on a plywood backing.

Next, the unit is framed with plycap moulding or any moulding that will fit neatly around the edges.

Finally, glue a strip of half round or screen moulding over the joining line of the blackboard and corkboard. Paint or stain the moulding to match your decor. Attach picture frame hooks to the back for hanging.

THE HOME GAME
BY VIRGINIA TRUAX

CHEAP TENDERIZER–Boiling beef can be made tender by adding a tablespoon of vinegar to the water as it starts to cook, thereby saving a poor cut of meat.

DARK VICTORY–Ordinary window shades have recently been proven more efficient than venetian blinds in preventing heat loss through single-paned windows. So pull your shades all the way down on cloudy days and in the evenings to keep heat in and cold out.

KEEP IN SHAPE–If you don't want your bacon to curl when it's fried, dip the strips in cold water before putting them in the pan. But be sure to use a splatter lid when frying to offset the popping.

COLD SHOULDER–For a quick chill for any dish of hot food, set it in a pan of cold water to which you have added salt.

BLACK MAGIC–Spruce up that dingy fireplace screen before the sitting-and-staring season begins by "painting" the screen with black liquid shoe polish.

ON THE HOUSE–Many meals have enough in the way of leftovers for at least a one-person meal, so wrap 'em in heavy foil and pop in the freezer. Sometime soon you can take the night off and serve "surprise dinners!"

SWEET STUFF–Make a quick dinner seem special by serving a hot cling-peach half topped with a spoonful of top-of-the-stove stuffing mix. Good enough for company!

HALLOWEEN SPECIAL — It's almost ghost and goblin time again. For a Halloween salad, place canned peach halves on beds of lettuce. Make a shaggy wig of shredded cheese. Use raisins for eyes and mouth and a peanut for the nose. The kids will love it.

WHO WAS THAT LADY?

One of the first American women to complete a college education and become ordained, she is known as the first woman in this country to hold her own ministry. She married into an active feminist family in the mid-nineteenth century when she took Samuel Blackwell as her husband. In addition to her active life as a minister and her devotion to women's rights, she was the mother of three daughters. Who was that lady?
