Crop values up in 1982

Crops produced by Kentucky farmers in 1981 were valued $3 1.95 billion dollars, an increase of 25 percent from the dry-weather production of 1980. The major contributor to the increase was tobacco ($911.0 million) which was up 32 percent from the previous year.

Kentucky ranks second behind North Carolina in value of tobacco production with 26 percent of the nation's total.

The Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says that the second Kentucky crop in value of production is corn with a value of $372.5 million. The next three crops in value of production are soybeans at $336.0 million, hay at $200.8 million and wheat at $98.5 million.

The value of all crops produced in the United States for 1981 total $82.3 billion, an increase of less than one percent from last year.

The major U.S. crop in value of production continues to be corn. The 1981 crop had a value of $20 billion, down three percent from 1980.

Farm production costs climb

U.S. farmers spent over $136 billion in 1980 to produce crops, livestock and poultry, topping the previous year's $134 billion level. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Kentucky Crop and Reporting Service, this averages over $56,000 per farm, nationally.

Feed purchases at $20.1 billion, up 12 percent from 1979, were the major expenditure for farmers. Purchases of livestock and poultry followed at $17.4 billion, down 19 percent; rent at $11.9 billion, up 16 percent; farm machinery and equipment at $11.6 billion, down 8 percent; interest at $10.6 billion, up 20 percent; and fertilizer at $10.2 billion, up 16 percent.
