Jas. N. Huff is now a member of the Republican State Committee from the Congressional district.

Commissioner Owens is allowed to attend the Democratic Jubilee Fair, on account of expenses incurred in that cause.

Hon. P. D. Bacon, of Jefferson, is dead. He served three terms in the Legislature, and was well known over the State. He was entitled to this honor at least.

Maj. A. J. Moore, of this city, is making a strong race for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 10th district. Crittenden Record-Critic.

Kentucky Republicans declined to put a political sapper in each schoolhouse, endorsing Governor Bradley for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. He was entitled to this honor at least.

Chairman Jefferson, of the National Executive Committee of the A. P. A., is credibly informed in an interview that the organization will open a campaign fund. He says: "We shall not lose in case we fail to be nominated by the Republicans or by the silverites."

In the special elections held Tuesday to elect successors to State Senator Walton and James—unseated at the last session of the Legislature—the vote in the J. Dale Dean over Walton, Rep., by a handsome majority, and James, Rep., was re-elected by 300.

A bill to prohibit the erection of trust or combine factories in the Lower House of the Legislature. The bill provides that it shall be a misdemeanor to treat, or offer to treat, or give or offer to give another person an intoxicating drink in a place where liquors are sold.

Two-thirds of the delegates to the Republican National Convention have been selected, leaving out of the calculation those that are in doubt, the count stands: McKinley, 280; Reed, 36; Morton, 66; Allison, 36; Quay, 36; Bradley (Ky.), 36; Lodge, 36.

The editor of the Louisville Commercial is bridled about to death over Governor Bradley's victory at Louisville. A man who be satisfied with a victory? (He that ought to be one of the happiest editors in the world. Such a disposition is worth a fortune.

The Democrats of Senator Wooten's home district voted to turn in Gov. Governor Worthington to order an election to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Wooten's death. Mr. Wooten ran for Lt. Governor in 1895 and was defeated upon the issue of the three dollars tax. He was nominated solely Republicans, and this he thinks is correct.

Wood Durham is making great efforts to place himself right with the Republicans which he can't do. Wood, you are too far long remarkable. It is a thousand times and made a fortune by it. Wood, don't forget to pay for being
