Blood drive is Monday

On Monday, Nov. 15, a drive for blood donors will be held at the Carlisle United Methodist Church from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m.

The amount of blood available to patients in local hospitals on the following Tuesday will depend on how many people participate in this drive.

Over the past six months, an average of 180 pints of blood have been transfused daily in the 36 hospitals served by the Central Kentucky Blood Center. There has been an increase in the number of open heart surgeries, the number of cancer patients undergoing therapy, the number of accident victims and others needing massive transfusions. Hospitals have added more beds and increased their medical staffs, thus adding more surgical procedures on a daily basis.

There are no substitutes for this much blood. Only with a strong support from volunteers who are willing to donate regularly can the Center hope to keep abreast of these burgeoning demands. The Center is urging that all eligible persons make an effort to participate in their local community drives.

Persons wishing further information about the blood donation process or the Nicholas County Program may contact Rev. Dave Stanzil at 289-5293.

County's income

family reported on the census forms.

The latest 1980 Census figures released show that Kentucky's 1979 median household income increased 113.6 percent during the 70's to $13,965. Although still below the U.S. median of $16,830, the state's growth exceeded the national rate by more than 15 percent.

Impressive as this growth may appear, inflation accounted for a large percentage. Adjusted 1969 figures show that the real increase in median household income was $1,021 or 7.9 percent.

Only seven Kentucky counties, all located in metropolitan areas, had a higher median than the national figure. They were Boone, Bullitt, Campbell, Greenup, Kenton, Oldham and Woodford. Statewide, the medians ranged from $21,243 for Oldham County to $6,673 for Owsley County.
