TUTT'S Liver PILLS

THE Illinois Legislature passed a law requiring all schools, public and private, to display the stars and stripes. None of the schools refused and the case has been carried up to the Circuit Court. Judge Wright decides the Legislature had no more right to order private schools to run up flags than to order every every citizen to do it over his house, and the law is unconstitutional. Every school has a right to put up as many flags as it chooses, but none can be forced to do so.

MR. NELSON TOWNSEND of Monticello says he does not intend to follow any other avocation than that of editing and publishing the Monticello Journal. He would, I fear, have exhibited far less wisdom had he done otherwise. I have always, from a boy, liked to see my name in print, and I have always had a hankering after the editorial chair. Then again the latter has been occupied by so many eminent men, and I have always looked upon it as a sort of Mecca, which I would like to visit. Then go to the editorial chair I must, for I am a third fair grinding. So counting all costs, the pros and cons, I am satisfied on every one count.

WHEN you have to use a physic, take Pennyroyal Liver Regulator in preference. It will do its work as well, and then will find you'll feel wonderfully refreshed and built up and strengthened. It is now Pennyroyal Liver Regulator that does it. There is only one Pennyroyal Liver Regulator, and you'll know it by the Red Z on the package. Take only that one and you'll be sure to get all the good health promised.

MR. GEORGE FITZPATRICK, who was principal veterinary surgeon in the British army, writes gloomily about the cattle plague in South Africa. He says it is the Asiatic plague which every now and then can make such havoc in Europe for two thousand years. The disease is in Northern India and when it invades a country it carries the decks' rate in from ten to ten per cent. At present it threatens to destroy all the ruminants in Southern Africa, both wild and tame.

THE Stalking Food Commissioners have issued 30 of the circulars to the Maine dairymen, and will soon issue 30 more. Each circular is to be followed by a visit from a deputy commissioner, who will examine the herd, and if any of the cows are found to be tuberculous, will keep him from selling milk or cream. Whatever he does the owner will receive no compensation, but will be forbidden to sell milk or cream. The deputy will be empowered to kill any cow that he finds to be tuberculous. It will keep him from killing any cow that is not tuberculous. Whatever he does the owner will receive no compensation, and yet, now that the law is passed, he cannot complain. The commissioners will appoint a veterinarian
