A Paris Banker Talks.

[Enquirer June 21.]

Handsome Banker George Alexander, of Paris, Ky., was talking at the St. Nicholas, and something was wrong with the finances. Said he:

"Look at the sale of yearling thoroughbreds of Clay and Woodford, of my county, at Chicago a few days ago. That is one of the best known and most successful breeding firms in America, and their record in performers is unexcelled. The produce of their studs this year were not only bred to the notch, but they were individual beauties. They only brought ... A few years ago the same farm averaged ... aged, same bred ... a trotter. The other ... for $75. I was of ... something wrong ... finances."
