Dream ends with 58-57 loss for both teams

By Josh Shepherd

BROOKSVILLE — For the Nicholas County Bluejackets and Lady Jackets, the score 58-57 will live in infamy.

It had been a week with both Nicholas County High School teams on a roll. Not only had the boy's varsity dodged the Paris Greyhound bullet in the opening game of the All "A" Classic regional tournament, they had cut loose on St. Patrick the night before and had only one other barrier between themselves and Wednesday morning game at Rupp Arena — the Bracken County Polar Bears, the host team.

But before the regional championship commenced, Nicholas County fans were eager to attend another contest equally as important, the sectional championship that would have taken the girls spiralling into Richmond, Kentucky for the girl's All "A" final eight.

To accomplish it, they would have to defeat one of the big favorites for the all "A" state championship, the Lexington Catholic Lady Knights.

The Knights came in to Bracken County boasting an impressive winning record and one of the top female athletes in the state, Yvonne Wilson. During the course of a brutal 32 minutes, Wilson would display exactly how she had earned her formidable reputation.

The Lady Jackets vs. Lexington Catholic

The Lady Jackets hit the court with a powerhouse attack. After Nikki Smoot deftly picked apart the Knights inside defense for an easy layup, Kristi Barton took the jump feed from Kim Denkins for a 4-2 Lady Jackets lead within the first minute of the game.

Tacy Earlywine gutted the net with two stinging inside jumpers to enlarge the lead to six points.

With 1:40 left in the first, Kim Denkins pounded the glass for two and Christie Hatton ended the Lady Jackets run on the boards with two from the free throw line.

Wilson bombed the net for a 3-point Knights goal but the Jackets were in good control of the boards going into the second quarter, 16-9.

At the top of the second quarter, however, the Jackets side of the score board didn't get much exercise.

Wilson singlehandedly hauled the Knights back into the game, capitalizing on a severe stall in Nicholas County's scoring.

Wilson jammed the basket for eight straight points while the Lady Jackets managed only four, two each for Earlywine and Smoot.

But while the Knights scored, they never captured the lead.

at 20-18, Denkins drove and sank a layup.

In the last remaining minute before the half, the Jackets resumed their earlier success and the half with a six point, 28-22, lead.

That lead burst to 13 points as the Lady Jackets rammed back into the second half, with Smoot capping off a three point play at the 6:51 mark.

But the Lady Knights refused to give up. Led by Wilson, Tracy Griffith, and Erika Kiel, Lexington Catholic launched an 11 point run on the scoreboard against a single two point layup from Earlywine.

Renee Linville saved the Jackets lead, however, with three points in the last seconds for a 40-37 score going into the final eight minutes.

The Jackets lead went to 44-39 before Wilson tied the score at 5:44.

But Linville and Earlywine pushed Lexington Catholic back with two quick scores to regain the Jackets lead.

Then Lexington Catholic's Kiel landed a three point shot followed by a quick feed from Wilson to Griffith for the score that snatched the lead from the Jackets.

With one minute left in the game, Denkins tied the score at 55-55.

Then Wilson hit for two in the final seconds. Catholic was up, 57-55.

Earlywine had to foul Wilson twice to force the foul shot. Wilson sank only one. Catholic up 58-55 with a mere nine seconds on the clock.

In desparation, Earlywine bounded down the court, stopping just at the top of the key for a last second three pointer. The ball fell short, but then, a miracle happened.

Wilson fouled Earlywine, giving the senior three shots from the foul line that would send the game into overtime.

Heartbreakingly, she hit only two.

"Obviously, we would like to have taken this game. The girl's are taking the loss very hard especially since we did have them down 13 points at one time. Maybe because we had three girls sick all week was a factor, but I believe they gave everything they had. "We were facing a team equal to ourselves in ability. If we could have stopped Wilson then maybe things would have been different, but though she couldn't bring out her usual string of three point shots, we couldn't keep her under control on the inside.

"The Lady Jackets have nothing to hang their heads low over. They made it to the final 16. It would have been great to go all the way, but now we've got to put it behind us, get well, and look to take our position in the district and region state tournament," Lady Jacket Head Coach Barbara Kenney said.

Earlywine led the scoring with 16 points, followed by Denkins with 13, Smoot with 11, Hatton hit for eight, Linville, five, and Barton with 4.

The Nicholas County Bluejackets vs. Bracken County Polar Bears.

The Bluejackets had overcome a great deal coming into the 10th region All "A" finals and the Bracken County Polar Bears game Saturday evening was no exception.

They faced not only a team determined to go to Rupp Arena, but a hostile hometown crowd to boot.

On one side of the gymnasium the bleachers were jammed with Bluejackets faithful, on the other side a roaring, chanting, raucous crowd of Bracken fans. It was obvious right from the start there was no love lost between these two teams.

Fifteen seconds into the game, Bracken County's Mark Tucker was fouled hard enough to step to the line to sink two shots for the early lead.

But just as quickly, Jarrod Wills bombed a stunning three pointer that gave the Jackets their only first quarter lead.

Junior Jamie Morgan soon set the pace for the Polar Bears with a matching three pointer. Followed by a layup from Brad Workman, the Polar Bears hammered out a 7-3 lead before Wills could sink another three to cut their lead to one.

But the Polar Bears were obviously pumped as they went on a 11-4 point run in three minutes, highlighted by a pair of threes from Todd Adkins and Tucker.

The Jackets collected themselves in the last three minutes to cut the Polar Bears back to their one point lead, 20-19, at the end of the first, but Bracken's momentum was going. They had proven to themselves they could win the game.

The second quarter was most easily described as a seesaw trade off of leads from beyond the three point line.

The Jackets claimed a three point lead early in the second, but their momentum was crushed quickly by a desparate three point shot from Bracken's Aaron Massey.

At the 5:33 mark, the scoreboard recorded a hailstorm of three pointers. Brown sank two, Morgan matched those two on the other end, then Wills dropped one to give the Jackets the lead going into halftime, 34-33.

With a Brown 3-pointer at the top of the third the Jackets pulled to a four point lead. Unfortunately it didn't last. A pair of three pointers from Tucker began a driving, hard pressing offensive assault that drove the Jackets down by nine, 52-43 to go into the final eight minutes.

This is where it got wild.

With a minute gone in the fourth, Brown pulled in a pair of three point plays aided by fouls from the Bracken County squad. Suddenly, the Polar Bears commanding lead had been cut to two.

Workman carved out two free throw shots to increase that lead to four. Then suddenly, all scoring ceased.

For three minutes the score stayed locked at 54-50. Then Brown was fouled driving to the basket. He sank both shots and the Jackets again were trailing by a shot.

Morgan put the lead back to four, but not for long. Travis Sims bulled inside seconds later for two. Brown followed to tie the score at 56-56.

To get control of the ball, Brian Ockerman, in for the fouled out Jamie Simons, fouled Massey. Massey made only one of his two shots. It was Bracken ahead 57-56.

Then Brown was fouled again and stepped up to the line, this time for the lead. 40 seconds left on the clock, Brown sank one side of a one plus one, but missed the second. Ockerman balled in, grabbed the rebound and boom, he hit for a layup.

But the basket was waved. Officials called Brown for a foot fault. The score remained tied at 57-57.

The Polar Bears took the ball down against the Jackets full court press, resulting in Tucker being fouled. He plugged only one of his free throws to put the score at...58-57.

Twenty-six seconds remained. Bracken had control of the ball. They took in down court and promptly lost it out of bounds.

Nicholas ball. Nineteen seconds on the clock. Daniel Brown sets up and drives the lane for a layup. Referee whistles walking and the Bracken stands bellow.

Eleven seconds left, Bracken bounces it in and promptly loses it on Nicholas County's side of the court.

There were eight seconds left on the clock when Brown passed the ball in to Wills. Wills stepped back, drove the lane against the pressure, takes the ball against the glass. It bounces and rolls on the rim, the Bracken stands gasp, then it falls—outside the net.

Nicholas players fell face down to the floor, crushed over the defeat.

Brown walked out with 30 points, Wills 14 points, Simons added six, Sims had five, and Morris with two.
