The Walking Catfish lives for days out of water and even "walks" on land from one lake to another. The fish has special air-breathing organs and uses its side fins and tail to help it crawl along the ground.

Pastor's Pen

By The Rev. Jolin Wilks

Matt 28: 18-20

And Jesus came and said to them, "All authority in heaven and earth has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age."

God amazes me. Most of the time I am astounded with the way God works in this world. The rest of the time, I am too stubborn or too busy to recognize the challenges and the wonders placed before me by God. It seems that life is a constant struggle between relying on the love of our Lord to carry us through and thinking we can do it all ourselves.

The recent death of Mother Theresa made some of this very clear. We look at this amazing woman and claim that her anointing by God allowed her to do things that the rest of use could not even imagine doing. The thought that she was like one of us is distressing, to a degree. If Theresa of Calcutta was a mere human woman who was able to look after the impoverished and forgotten people of this world with such strength and dedication, then what keeps us from doing the outrageous and seemingly impossible ministries that God has placed in our hearts? If we claim that Mother Theresa was more than a human being with human desires and human failings, we give ourselves permission to settle for less in our own lives. It is as if hope in God is for mediocrity - for quiet prayer time that leads to marvelous self-reflection without any real relationship to the people around us. Examining that life of someone like Theresa challenges the excuses we give for our own failings... and we and God alone know what those failings really are.

The Good News is that God works through us, even when we're ready to give up. The Good News is that the Holy Spirit does move among us - even when we try to ignore the places in life where the human and the divine meet. I am reminded of a moment in the life of Dr. Martin Luther King when his holy spirit was low and he was ready to quit the Civil Rights movement early in his ministry. One sleepless night, he sat down with a cup of coffee and prayed in the morning. His prayer was for assurance that Jesus was with him, and the voice that replied to his prayer came from deep down inside his being. It said something like, "Lo, I am with you even unto the end of the world." Such words gave King the strength to carry on in the face of all kinds of adversity. His difficult ministry on Earth changed forever the laws of this country, and the self-esteem of a people. It was, however, a simple heartfelt prayer at a kitchen table that brought him to the knowledge that it was not him, but God, who was at work with the lives of the people King led.

As Christians, each on of us is called to some kind of ministry. God has called us to live some difficult moments - whether they be moments when we challenge the status quo. Each one of us is called to something that stretches us, that asks us to grow in faith. The Good News is that Jesus gives us the power to do what seems impossible. The Good News is that we aren't required to do anything completely by ourselves "Lo, I am with you..." says our Lord. How do we respond?

Former Carlisle artist presents Governor Paul Patton with print

FRANKFORT - Governor Paul E. Patton recently accepted a limited edition print from Kentucky artist Larry Frost.

Frost is a Nicholas County High School graduate.

Gov. Patton said, "I'm honored to receive this beautiful print. His work is another fine example of Kentucky's gifted art community."

Frost presented the Governor with a print of his painting based on the old Kuttawa Mineral Springs in Lyon County. Until the 1940s, the springs area was a popular meeting and camping ground for church groups. The creation of Lake Barkley flooded the area, and now the springs are entirely underwater. It remains a historical site of interest for Western Kentucky residents even today.

Frost is a native of Carlisle.

A retired federal worker, he and his wife now live in Eddyville, where he paints full-time. He painted a series of works for the University of Kentucky basketball team from 1969-1978. One of those prints, "The Huddle," now hangs in the College Basketball Hall of Fame.

Gov. Patton's print was one of 1,000 limited edition prints available of Frost's Kuttawa painting.

Have you had a mammogram lately?

"Have you had your mammogram this year?" is the slogan for Kentucky's 1997 Breast Cancer Awareness Month campaign, Mrs. Kanatzar said. "Our safe funded mammography program is there to help those very women." A women living by herself can get a mammogram free of charge if she make $7,890 or less a year. She can make as much as $19,646 a year to qualify for the sliding fee scale and pay $56.00 or less for her mammogram. The larger the household, the higher the income level can be to qualify for the program. The health department provides breast exams, Pap tests and other health services for just a nominal charge. Mrs. Kanatzar urges women to call the health department at 289-2188 to make an appointment.

In Loving Memory of Milton Flora

Two years ago today,
You were called to go away.
Your smiling face, your warm gentle touch,
Are just a few of the things we miss so much,
Your kind loving voice no longer do we hear.
But, we just seem to know, that, you are always near.
God had a plan when he took you away.
Don't cry he told us, you'll see him again one day.
Our memories of you we locked in our hearts.
Never to be touched or torn apart.
We will always love you with the deepest of love,
And our thoughts are of you when we look up above.

Sadly missed by his wife, children
