Auditor Mandamused.

Attorney Courtland Chenault, for the Louisville Dispatch, filed a mandamus suit in the State Penal court against Auditor Norman Buford, to compel him to pay a claim of $1,000 for publishing the delinquent tax list and pay-roll furnished to the auditor's office by the Legislature. Buford's attorney was ordered at the late session to pay the claim, but refused to do so, and he was placed on contempt of court, and on the close of the session in March was ordered to be imprisoned. The claim is for the expense and refused to pay the bill on the ground that the appropriation for term of court failed. Judge Cantrill

A VALUABLE MAN.

A most remarkable man is Judge Lucien Beckner, of Clinton County, Kentucky, who is a resident of the northern part of the State. He has been a member of the Legislature, a Judge of the Circuit Court, and is now a member of the Democratic State Committee from his district. He has been married twice, and has been the father of twenty-two children, all by his first wife, and all of whom are living. Judge Beckner is a man of wonderful vitality, and has lived a most remarkable life. He is now seventy-two years old, and is as active as a man of forty. Latest War News.

The Secretary of War has ordered one division, five army corps, from Chattanooga, to Knoxville; another division of the same corps from Chickamauga to Lexington, Ky. It consists of the 12th Missouri, 5th Pennsylvania, 8th Mississippi, 4th Kansas, 12th New York, 9th Tennessee, 2nd Missouri and 1st New Hampshire.

The morning dispatches say it is expected that peace will be declared in twenty-four hours possibly before nightfall.

Gen. Grant, his staff, and the remainder of the First Kentucky Regiment under Colonel Bodenheimer, got away from New Orleans Saturday morning at daybreak for Porto Rico. Orders to keep the hour secret were issued, and the start was hurried.

The first fighting between American and Spanish troops on land in the Philippines took place on July 30, when one American was killed in a skirmish between Gen. Merritt and Aguinaldo. On the next day the fighting was renewed at the Malate trenches when 200 Spaniards were killed and 500 wounded. The Americans were largely outnumbered, but they fought bravely and held their own, having built a deep line after each assault. The insurgents took no hand in the fighting, maintaining a neutral position in the event of the American troops.

The Spanish troops in Manila are pinning to suffer severely from fever. Hardly a day passes but scores of the wealthy of food. Rice is held for one cent per pound, except what is held for the Spanish troops. Horses and mules are dying from fever.

One xenophobic and imperialistic paragraphs of newspapers have put the people of Madrid in a state of excitement and nearly every house in the city has a Spanish flag displayed. Even the women are wild with excitement, and for many days have been parading the streets in large crowds, shouting "Down with the Republican idea of government by the people!" "Long live the King!" and "Long live the army!" They have also had the appearance of the people favorable to the King, and have been in session in Saragossa and have thus established a Republican Government in the Province.

And after the oil man died the family got a deed of foreclosure by another of the Emperor when he tried to pay his debt and demanded the deed surrendered it in one of our fight and we shall not rest until we have won it.
