The Fall of Manilla.

A special cable to the Courier Journal Thursday morning gives a circumstantial account of the capture of Manilla by the combined naval and land forces under Admiral Dewey and Maj. Gen. Merritt. The city fell with very little fighting. The losses of the attacking forces were: Maine, 6; the Spanish lands run up the white flag after a brief resistance. The formal articles of surrender were signed later, and at daybreak the city was occupied by the American troops. The Spanish flag was hauled down and Uncle Sam's flag hoisted in its place. The Spanish soldiers under Admiral Dewey are to be paroled and assume the duties of the Philippines.

That night American troops camped in the streets of the city.

The losses of surrender to the Spanish are to be given up to the Americans and all public property, the Spaniards will be permitted to march out with the honors of war. The people of the city have been under bonds and their property will be respected.

The insurgents were not allowed to enter the city, and were driven to a spot out of the range of the guns of the fleet that they might take possession.

PRIDE AND LOSS.

Mr. A. S. Schoo, the brilliant young editor of the Courier-Journal, has a picture of himself in the paper. Ed Cooper says he has aired his claim as the party who has been longest in the employ of the old Bourbon organ. Mr. Cooper says he has been connected with the paper for 17 years and 7 months, and that Mr. Schoo's connection with the paper is not of sufficient duration to entitle him to claim the honor. Mr. Schoo's connection with the paper dates from the 1st of January, 1898, and Mr. A. S. Young's from the 1st of January, 1897, which makes Mr. Young the senior.

In an answer Mr. Schoo has pointed out that he has been with the paper a little more than 6 months, and that Mr. Young has been with it a little more than 12 months. He says he has been connected with the paper for 17 years and 7 months, and that Mr. Young has been connected with it for 17 years and 7 months, and that he has been connected with it for 17 years and 7 months, and that he has been connected with it for 17 years and 7 months, and that he
