DELILAH.

BY HANNA KRYSIOFF.

So THIS was her wedding journey! And here she sat alone at ten o'clock in the evening in the dreary hotel parlor, whose bare walls and shabby furniture had become undesirable. She might have gone with him. But no, she would never enter that hall again! She had sworn it.

his wife, who was still asleep. She started up.

"Where are you going so early, Richard?"

"To the barber, to have my hair cut." His voice sounded actually threatening.

"Richard, my dear husband, you see, I wanted * * *" Then, conscious of guilt, she paused.

He placed himself where the light streamed full upon him, took off his hat and stared at her.

He rushed out of the room, while his young wife murmured, amid her tears: "Perhaps he won't forgive me, but it could not be helped!"

The first part of the programme was over. During the pause the great concert hall began to fill, for now Richard Andre was to play. His admirers poured in and took their places in the front row. As if by an electric shock the thrill of expectation was communicated to the rest of the audience, which so far had been somewhat apathetic, only the pause lasted somewhat too long, longer than usual.

At last the artist appeared on the stage and was greeted by thunders of applause. Several bouquets flew through the air and fell at his feet. But the enthusiasm soon died away. The hands which had clapped so madly suddenly paused. A strange murmur ran through the hall; people cast inquiring glances at one another.

This was not the artist whose personal beauty was so remarkable, but a very ordinary man, nowise different from thousands of others. Why, he looked almost ridiculous, for his clipped hair stood up like bristles all over his head!

Richard bowed his thanks for the enthusiastic reception, whose abrupt close somewhat vexed him. Then, as he again stood erect and placed the violin on his breast, he made the movement of the head with which he had formerly shaken his hair back from his brow. During the first few bars of the music he noticed the uneasiness in the hall and felt somewhat embarrassed by it, then he became absorbed in playing, and heard only the exquisite notes which he lured from his instrument.

"He surpasses himself!" the connoisseurs and critics whispered, while the orchestra and conductor gazed as though enchanted at the great musician, who had forgotten himself and his surroundings.

BOVINE MORALS CORRUPTED.

Rheumatism

Is a blood disease and only a blood remedy can cure it. So many people make the mistake of taking remedies which at best are only tonics and cannot possibly reach their trouble. Mr. Asa Smith, Greencastle, Indiana, says: "For years I have suffered with Sciatic Rheumatism, which the best physicians were unable to relieve. I took many patent medicines but they did not seem to reach my trouble. I gradually grew worse until I was unable to take my food or handle myself in any way; I was absolutely helpless. Three bottles of S.S.S. relieved me so that I was soon able to move my right arm; before long I could walk across the room, and when I had finished one dozen bottles was cured completely and am as well as ever. I now weigh 170."

A Real Blood Remedy.

S.S.S. cures Scrofula, Cancer, Eczema, and any form of blood troubles. If you have a blood disease, take a blood medicine—S.S.S. (guaranteed purely vegetable) is exclusively for the blood and is recommended for nothing else. It forces out the poison matter permanently. We will send to anyone our valuable books. LINEN MAKERS.

Ireland and Holland Have the Most Women Engaged in This Work.

Though Ireland to-day holds the first place, so far as America is concerned, in regard to linens, Holland occupied that position everywhere in the past, and holds it to-day in many parts of Europe, says the Philadelphia Press. The very word Holland is employed to designate a fine linen cloth or a linen and cotton cloth, and has been used for this purpose from time immemorial. ...
