FORRESTER'S NEWS LETTER.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 13.—There are a number of members of the Legislature that are in favor of the Temperance Local Option or High License Bill which is intended to prevent the sale of liquor in certain districts. The chief objection to the measure is that it is unconstitutional. Those who favor the bill claim that the measure provides a way by which the people can by their own choice, say whether they demand that the Constitution be upheld. The measure is intended to be a protection to the home and to prevent the sale of liquor in any community where the majority of the people do not desire it. The author of the bill claims that the measure is constitutional, and that the Supreme Court will uphold it. Those who oppose the measure claim that it is unconstitutional, and that the Supreme Court will so declare it. The bill will be pushed to a vote in the House in a few days, and it is thought that it will pass that body by a small majority. It is doubtful if it will pass the Senate. The Senate is composed of a number of able lawyers who are opposed to the measure on the ground that it is unconstitutional. Should the bill pass the Senate it will be signed by Governor Knott, as he is in favor of the measure. The bill will be contested in the Courts, and will probably be carried to the Supreme Court of the United States before it is finally settled. The Senate has passed a bill providing for the appointment of a State Board of Election Commissioners, which body shall in turn appoint county boards. The county boards shall appoint all officers of elections, and have full charge of matters thereto pertaining.

The most prominent measure before the Legislature is the Railroad Commission bill.
