HEYMAN IN BOSTON!

BOSTON, SEPT. 8, 1898.

Relief from the terrific heat of the past five days is at last at hand. New York City's inhabitants have never suffered the like before. There were from 150 to 200 prostrations per day. Walking over the hot sidewalks was just like walking over a hot stove. The poor people could find no rest in the crowded tenement houses, and went to the river fronts for relief.

Soldiers and sailors are seen everywhere on the streets. The latter look splendid, but the former look worn out. The 71st New York paraded on Broadway last week. Part of them had to take the cars, as they were not able to walk. The welcome the New Yorkers gave these heroes surely swelled their hearts with pride never to be forgotten.

There are a number of war vessels in the N. Y. Harbor. The Iowa and Oregon receive the most attention. They show very little damage and are again ready for business. I have secured several war relics which will be on exhibition on my arrival home, at our store.

I am here to buy Shoes, &c. The large firm of Hosmer, Goldinger & Co., doing a business of $2,000,000 per annum have failed, and their creditors accepted their offer of 50c on the dollar last night. The goods will be closed out at once. So you may be assured that you get some good Shoes from us for about half price. That is all I can say now.

I am sure we never before were able to show you such a stock of Dress Goods and Cloaks before as shall be displayed by us shortly. We must increase our business to double of last Fall. The goods I bought will do it. Clothing, Hosiery, Underwear and Notions, everything New and Stylish. Don't miss reading our ads regularly from now on. You cannot help buying from us. Our store will be crowded with goods as never before. We can sell you Dress Goods at 65c that were sold at wholesale early in the season at 80c and $1 00.

We will have something for the Gentlemen ALL LINEN 4-PLY COLLARS, new style, standing and turn-down, all sizes, at 5c each. Only 5 to a customer—no more, no less. We warrant this to be as good as any 15c Collar you can buy in town.

Hundreds of other bargains just as good, and just as cheap—startling cheap.

Respectfully Your Bargain Hunter,

G. L. HEYMAN.
