One Step at a Time for the United States.

In dealing with their own territorial acquisitions the people of the United States will do well if they adopt the motto, "One step at a time." A part, at least, of the fascination that certain well-meaning gentlemen had endeavored to throw around the treaty of peace was still under negotiation concerned predictions that may arise for future generations of Americans to solve, but that have not yet made their appearances in the practical and concrete form. The ratification of the treaty must at least precede some other questions. That the treaty will be ratified no person of safe judgment and good opportunities for observation has ever for a moment doubted. The argument that the United States is not empowered by virtue of its Constitution to exercise the powers of sovereignty outside of the United States is to be set down merely as an intellectual diversion. It lies essentially in the nature of the modern state to grow and expand as it has opportunity. To suppose for a moment that a great nation like ours, of more than seventy millions people, is in some way estopped by certain forms of words agreed upon more than a hundred years ago by a relatively small number of people who are all of them now dead from obeying those same laws of growth and development that inhere in the very nature of our race and of our political organism, is to ascribe to the written Constitution a character that none of its framers ever thought of going to it. The great mistakes that the French have made in trying to establish colonial possessions have grown out of fetishism and regularizing everything and their determination to make all their acquisitions fit into some logical scheme of colonial organization and administration. We shall be strongly tempted to fall into the same error. Already the flood of criticism that has poured upon us has inundated with a perfect torrent of metaphysics touching the nature of political sovereignty and transcendental jurisprudence. Allies To Get $100 Each.

It has been figured by the War Department that in paying the Cuban army upon its approaching disbandment for services to the United States in connection in the war with Spain each Cuban soldier is to receive about $100. This sum in American currency will represent a nice little pile when exchange, and will give to the Cubans a snug capital with which to buy farming implements or to obtain the tools of other trades needed in peaceful pursuits.

Such Cubans as may be enlisted under the United States flag will receive the regular pay of $13 a month, precisely the same wages as our own soldiers. The war rate of 20 per cent extra will come with the ratification of the Paris treaty.

The Filipinos, who are to be paid in like manner, and mustered out, will get nearly the same sum as the Cubans. The funds for this purpose have been provided in an appropriation of $3,000,000 embodied in the Peace Conference Bill.

The expenditures, by law, are to be made in the discretion of the President, and confidence in the McKinley Administration is such that the appropriation was made by Congress without a question as to the use to be put to the money. Washington telegram to N. Y. Press.

A Wise Rule.

Among the rules of a New York livery stable where the animals of many wealthy owners are kept are the following. No man will be employed who drinks intoxicating liquors. No man shall speak loud to any of the horses or in the stable where they are. Horses of good blood and breeding shall be handled carefully. No man is felt by every horse who hears it, and keeps them all nervous and timorous. No man shall use profane language in the hearing of horses."

BOOK NOTICE.

Story of Troy. By M. CLARKE. Cloth, 12mo., 305 pages. Illustrated. Price 50 cents. American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.

The latest addition to the Eclectic School Readings is in literary and artistic execution one of the most attractive books in the series. It tells in a most interesting way the story of Troy and its famous siege and destruction of its brave defenders and heroes of 3000 years ago, whose wonderful exploits have been celebrated in story and song by the greatest poets and historians of ancient times. The purpose of this book is to treat these classic subjects in such a way as to bring them within the reach and comprehension of young readers at a time when their study will inspire the mind with lofty ideals and a taste for the best kind of reading. A short account of Homer, the father of poetry, and of the gods and goddesses who played such an important part in the events to be related, is first given as a suitable introduction to the book. Then follow the pleasant stories which form the chief subjects of the book.

These are interspersed with numerous poetical extracts, chiefly from Pope's and Bryant's translations of the Iliad, which lend additional interest and beauty to the narrative, as well as illustrate the style and luxury of the great epic. The illustrations form a special and attractive feature in this, as in the other books of the series. These include many full page reproductions of famous works of art selected with reference to their value in elucidating the text, and many original sketches of beautiful designs.

Mr. Wanamaker Leads.

John Wanamaker carries more life insurance than any other man in the United States. His policies aggregate $1,500,000. The greater part of them are fifteen and twenty-year endowments, but some are straight life. When asked why he insured so heavily, Mr. Wanamaker said:

"I thought the matter out, and continued myself that it was a good business venture. Besides, it seemed to me that I might, perhaps, give away more money in lifetime if there was a fund left for investing or putting it back into my estate by life insurance. I conceive that the best way for a man to carry on business is not to leave it to be done through his will, but to do it in his life time, and I felt that life insurance would give me more freedom in carrying out some plans I have, and which I would be glad to see completed before I leave this world."

Millions Given Away

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one article of medicine that can be relied upon to do all that is claimed for it. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds have given away over two million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases after all other remedies had failed. For coughs and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call at TURNHAM & SON, Drug Store, and get a trial bottle free, or a regular size for 50 cts. and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed or price refunded.

The Vigilants in the wild and woolly West who hanged the wrong man and introduced to the widow a formal apology beginning, "Madam, the joke's on us, we have rather been cribbing by the thirty-two sutlasses of Fall River county, South Dagota, who have just been acquitted of the murder of John Eliason, a sheep herder. When the unpleasant "litigation" was happily concluded the late defendants waited on the widow of Eliason, and not only expressed regrets for the untimely death of her late husband, but left a Christmas gift of $1,000 as an earnest of their intentions not to let her suffer for the remainder of life. It is even said that this contribution was in gold, and its presentation in that form must have involved some yielding of practical prejudices on the part of the honsides. At all events in making this presentation the gentlemen of Fall River county rob the Vigilants one distinct pointer. It, now, any of the latter men happens to be a single man and is willing to marry the widow, their record will be unexceptionable. It is so seldom that the slayers of men do the handsome thing that this case deserves special mention.—Courier-Journal.

The smallest things may exert the greatest influence. Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers are unequaled for overcoming constipation and liver troubles. Small pill, best pill, safe pill. B. P. Sparks, People's Drug Co.

A matron from the city tripped lightly inside the room and sniffed the pungent odor that floated on the breeze. "O, tell me, ancient farmer, with arms so brown and bare what is the wondrous power that sends the passing air?" Loud laughed the ancient farmer till tears rolled down his cheek "Why, bless me, that's a pole cat; I've smelled of it for a week."

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepard, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. B. P. KENTUCKY'S GOVERNORS.

Names of the Thirty Who have Previously Occupied the Executive Chair.

In view of numerous candidates who want to serve the State in the Governor's chair during the next four years, the following list of the thirty who have previously occupied Executive Mansion will be of interest. The list is taken from the Harrodsburg Herald:

Shelby, Garrard, Greenup, Scott, Madison, Slaughter, Adair, Hanks, Metcalfe, Breathitt, James T. Morehead, Clark, Letcher, Owsley, Crittenden, Helm, Powell, C. S. Morehead, Magoffin, Robinson, Bramlette, Helm, Stevenson, Leslie, McCreary, Blackburn, Knott, Buckner, Brown, Bradley.

Governor Isaac Shelby was twice Governor, in 1792 and 1812, and James Garrard, the second Governor, was the only one to succeed himself.

Governor Madison died in office and Colonel Slaughter, the Lieutenant Governor, served out the term.

John Breathitt died in 1834 and was succeeded by Lieutenant Governor James T. Morehead.

Governor Crittenden resigned in 1850 to accept a seat in the United States Senate and was succeeded by John J. Helm.

Governor Helm was elected and died in 1867, succeeded by Lieutenant Governor J. W. Stevenson.

He was elected to the United States Senate and Preston H. Leslie, Speaker of the Senate, was Chamberlain's successor.

During the Civil War, in August, 1862, Governor Beriah Magoffin resigned and was succeeded by James F. Robinson, Speaker of the Senate.

Hon. Linn Boyd, Lieutenant Governor under Magoffin, died before taking the oath of office.

Leslie and Robinson acted as Governors without having been elected to that office.

Leslie, however, was, after his first term, elected by the people.

When You Have a Bad Cold

You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief, but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy. You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only medicine in use that meets all these requirements. This remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. It has always stood high and in the esteem of the people, and has constantly grown in favor and popularity as its excellent qualities have become known. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia, relieves the lungs and prevents any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by S. P. Bayne, druggist.

Libel on Fort-class Hotel.

A Cariboo man lately wandered into a remote hotel that doesn't keep a distillery, and on coming down in the morning was asked by the landlord how he rested. "Oh," replied the guest, "I suffered nearly all night from insomnia." The landlord was mad in a minute and roared: "I'll bet you $2 there ain't one in my house."

"I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy to all who suffer from bowel trouble," says Mr. Milton McKinley, editor of the Rawson (O.) Herald. "Until I used this remedy it was at times, impossible for me to be in my office, owing to attacks lasting from one to three days. By taking it as soon as the first symptoms of the attack are felt, I was relieved in a few hours and sickness." For sale by S. P. Bayne, druggist.

President Lincoln.

President Lincoln, one morning, found that a robin's nest, containing three little robins, had been knocked off an evergreen tree near the White House by a careless cab driver. Kneeling on the ground, he replaced the birds and put the nest he replaced it very, carefully. The birds are helpless, and I'll make them obey again."

Fools and their Money.

A street fakir visited Russellville on County Court day and sold great quantities of silver (?) spoons at $1 a set. The fakir started to his line in process by the following from the Russellville Herald, which tells how he wound up his day's business: "Having sold all the spoons he could, the fakir said: 'I wonder if there is anybody in this crowd who has confidence in me to give me $5 to $10 on a chance?' Instantly up went a hand with $5. This was promptly returned with $5.50 inside. 'Now, he said, 'who will give me $10 to draw a chance?' And before the words had got cold a ten-dollar bill was handed him, which he coolly folded, placed in his pocket, stepped down from the hurry in which he had been standing and walked to the hotel. The next night he left town in search of more suckers."

Challenges of antique furniture have struck a bonanza in Havana. In preparing to return to Spain, such officers are placing on the market pieces of fine workmanship and ancient pattern, which are being eagerly snapped up by dealers. A correspondent describes a handsome old cabinet worthless with three feet length, bevel mirrors, inlaid at first, which sold for less than $10 and is simply one of many examples.

Pretty Children

Are very busy children. Before the noon of the last one my wife used three bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had the pictures of our children you could see at a glance that the last one

Is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all.

By with think Mother's Friend is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for grown women." Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents pain during the time of the suffering incident to childbirth. The morning sickness, disposition and temper remain unruffled throughout the period, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. Mothers: Present your wife with this remedy this month and almost certainly the coming baby will be healthier, prettier and stronger than it would otherwise be. Sold by druggists for $1 a bottle.

Forsythe & Curry have bought 300 bushels of wheat the past few days at 56 to 57 cents.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Mr. John M. VanMeter, of Boyle, sold five registered short-horn heifers Monday for $600, three of them being yearlings and two of them two-year olds. Mr. Warfield, of Fayette, is asking $900 for his registered heifers having entirely sold out of bulls.

At the new Cincinnati horse sale, conducted at the Union Stock Yards by Pearce, Anderson & Co. last Thursday the largest mule, age considered, was sold to the management of one of the Cincinnati transfer companies. This mule was but three years old, and measured 18 hands and one inch high. He weighed 1,445 pounds. This is said to be the largest mule in America. Experienced horsemen say that when he has attained his age of maturity, which is five years of age, he will stand fully 20 hands high. This giant animal will be broken to one of the Cincinnati transfer wagons.

The Stanford Journal notes the sales of several lots of hogs at $3.75 to $3.80; lot of corn at $1.30 delivered; 25 yearling and two-year-old cattle at $3 to $3.50.

The Lexington Gazette has the following in regard to sales at the Lexington Stock Yards: About 700 cattle on the market, all kinds, most of which sold at prices ranging from 2½ to 3½c for light Tennessee steers, weighing about 800 pounds and bought by Mr. Tanner, of this county; fancy heifers and nice weighing 700, at $2.90. Hog trade slow, 3 cents being the top price; cattle shoats brought from $2.75 to $2.85, and from $2 to $2 head of sheep sold for $2.95 per head.

Brave Man Fell

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney trouble, as well as women, and all feel the result of change of season, peculiar to this climate. Nervousness, headache and tired, listless feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Danville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't realize that he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat and sleep well, and feel like a new life." Only 50 cents at TURNHAM & SON'S drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

GIVES THEM ADVICE.

Captain B. H. Pitchuph of Lexington, who has been a tireless laborer for the upbuilding of the Negro race, has issued and address to the Negroes of Kentucky.

Captain Pitchuph has for the past six years been the financial agent of the Colored Orphan Home, and has travelled all over the North and South in the interest of this institution. He says in part:

"It is the very sincerity of interest that impels me to say, therefore, with head and yielding to the irrepressible mandates of my conscience, that I tell my friends among the colored people—those who will not question the sincerity of my motives—that it is my deliberate and solemn decision of the people of this country that Negroes should not be permitted to rule over white people in any state or community. If a state, let their majority be what it may.

"The politicians of the country, and for the most part your well-wishers and benefactors, have said or intimated that you were not proud, but have been betrayed for over thirty years into following the ignis fatus of civil equality until you have wandered well nigh into the wilderness.

"My advice to you, then, is to give up trying to do the impossible and to seek to promote your interests through the best white citizens of your community—those who hold substantial interests in the community, and whose high and chivalrous characters are a guarantee of their justice and humanity toward all men."

The Kidney Complexion.

The pale, sallow, sunken-cheeked, distressed-looking people you so often meet are afflicted with "Kidney Complexion." Their kidneys are turning to a particular pale color. So is their complexion. They may also have indigestion, or suffer from sleeplessness, dizziness, neuralgic brain trouble, nervous exhaustion, and sometimes the heart acts badly.

The cause is weak, unhealthy kidneys. Usually the sufferer from kidney disease does not find out what the trouble is until it is almost too late, because the first symptoms are so like dull sickness that they do not think they need a doctor or a doctor until they find them-selves sick in bed.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root will build up and strengthen their weak and diseased kidneys, purify their diseased, kidney poisoned blood, clear their complexion, and then they will enjoy better health.

You can get the regular size at the drug store, at fifty cents and one dollar, or you may first prove for yourself the wonderful virtues of this great kidney, Swamp-Root, by sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent to you absolutely free by mail. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in the CARLISLE MERCURY.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 31.—Ethan Allen Hitchcock present Ambassador to Russia who was to-day appointed by President McKinley to succeed Cornelius N. Bliss as Secretary of the Interior, was until his acceptance of the Russian mission the head of the Pittsburg Glass Company in St. Louis. Mr. Hitchcock was born at Mobile, Ala., forty-three years ago. He is a great-grandson of Col. Ethan Allen, the hero of Ticonderoga, a grandson of Samuel Hitchcock, who was prominent in the early history of Vermont, and a son of Henry Hitchcock, who was Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Alabama.

Mr. Hitchcock came to St. Louis in 1851 and engaged in business up to 1869, when, at the urgent request of relatives, he left for Chinese the representative of important business interests. Returning to St. Louis in 1877, Mr. Hitchcock was up to the time of his appointment as Minister to Russia, actively engaged in St. Louis in several manufacturing and railway corporations, which positions he resigned to accept the portfolio tendered him by President McKinley. The President became close friends when Mr. McKinley was framing the tariff law. Mr. Hitchcock was at Washington frequently in connection with the making of tariff schedules on glass and naturally became intimate with the then chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the House.

Libel on Fort-class Hotel.

A Cariboo man lately wandered into a remote hotel that doesn't keep a distillery, and on coming down in the morning was asked by the landlord how he rested. "Oh," replied the guest, "I suffered nearly all night from insomnia." The landlord was mad in a minute and roared: "I'll bet you $2 there ain't one in my house."

"I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy to all who suffer from bowel trouble," says Mr. Milton McKinley, editor of the Rawson (O.) Herald. "Until I used this remedy it was at times, impossible for me to be in my office, owing to attacks lasting from one to three days. By taking it as soon as the first symptoms of the attack are felt, I was relieved in a few hours and sickness." For sale by S. P. Bayne, druggist.

President Lincoln.

President Lincoln, one morning, found that a robin's nest, containing three little robins, had been knocked off an evergreen tree near the White House by a careless cab driver. Kneeling on the ground, he replaced the birds and put the nest he replaced it very, carefully. The birds are helpless, and I'll make them obey again."

Fools and their Money.

A street fakir visited Russellville on County Court day and sold great quantities of silver (?) spoons at $1 a set. The fakir started to his line in process by the following from the Russellville Herald, which tells how he wound up his day's business: "Having sold all the spoons he could, the fakir said: 'I wonder if there is anybody in this crowd who has confidence in me to give me $5 to $10 on a chance?' Instantly up went a hand with $5. This was promptly returned with $5.50 inside. 'Now, he said, 'who will give me $10 to draw a chance?' And before the words had got cold a ten-dollar bill was handed him, which he coolly folded, placed in his pocket, stepped down from the hurry in which he had been standing and walked to the hotel. The next night he left town in search of more suckers."

Challenges of antique furniture have struck a bonanza in Havana. In preparing to return to Spain, such officers are placing on the market pieces of fine workmanship and ancient pattern, which are being eagerly snapped up by dealers. A correspondent describes a handsome old cabinet worthless with three feet length, bevel mirrors, inlaid at first, which sold for less than $10 and is simply one of many examples.

Game Birds.

Sparrows are the most determined fighters among the birds, the ball does among the four-footed animals being the nearest to these little pests in point of grit and endurance.

Two of them were recently observed in terrific combat on the roof of a house. In the fury of the battle they neared the edge of the roof, and one toppled over. Instantly the other flew on the top of him and forced him to the pavement, where the contest was renewed as fiercely as ever. They took no notice of a bystander, who expounded the angry birds and picked up both of them. After carrying them a little distance he set them free, but their spirit was unbroken, and they went at it again, hill and clips. By and by, one of them gave in and fled, but his rival was not generous enough to let him be, but whether he caught him or not the onlooker was unable to determine. Wherever they may roam these birds may always be relied upon for inspirited and contrabescence.

The elegant Bourbon county Infirmary, perhaps, perhaps the finest of its kind in the state, came near being destroyed by fire recently. A servant girl put a lamp of coal on the grate and left to make an evening call. It fell out on the floor and burned through and fell with a crash. It was extinguished with a loss of less than a dozen and dollars which was fully covered by insurance.
