MISSOURI LETTER.

There is a large number of people in Missouri who are suffering from the effects of the influenza epidemic.

The influenza epidemic has been spreading rapidly throughout the state, and it is expected to continue for some time.

It is important for the public to take proper precautions to avoid contracting the disease, such as avoiding crowded places and using disinfectants.

The health authorities are urging the public to remain vigilant and to seek medical attention if symptoms develop.

The influenza epidemic has caused a great deal of suffering and loss of life, and it is hoped that the public will take the necessary precautions to prevent further spread.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of economic loss, as many businesses have had to close their doors.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of social unrest, as many people are unable to work and support their families.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of political unrest, as many people are dissatisfied with the government's handling of the situation.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of religious unrest, as many people are questioning their faith in God.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of philosophical unrest, as many people are questioning the meaning of life.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of scientific unrest, as many people are questioning the validity of scientific theories.

The influenza epidemic has also caused a great deal of artistic unrest, as many people are questioning the value of art.
