Miss Mary Mann, of Lexington, who does not monopolize the giant back seat as much as her fair sister, but who has a touch of most trees extract lavishly as far as the height of the tree is from the ground, a distance of full five feet in height or more, is the champion tree climber of the city. Miss Mann has a pair of spurs, which she uses with the skill of a veteran, and can climb a tree with the agility of a squirrel. She has climbed a number of great value as shade for stock and which would invade such trees in search of fruit. Miss Mann is a member of the Sophomore class of the State University, and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mann, of Lexington.

Latest Fad.

A well-known lawyer of the Lexington bar has the latest fad. He says so. The latest fad is to have a pair of spurs on the heels of your boots. Then when you are walking you can click your heels together and make music. The lawyer has had the spurs on his boots for some time, and has been practicing with them. He says he has learned how to make them sound quite well, and that he can play a tune with them. He says that he has been practicing with them for some time, and that he has learned how to make them sound quite well, and that he can play a tune with them. He says that he has been practicing with them for some time, and that he has learned how to make them sound quite well, and that he can play a tune with them.
