Notice.

We wish to call the attention of the members of the "Mutual Burial Association" to a portion of article 6, in rules and regulations governing the same, which reads as follows: "Any member of this association, who simply ceases to be a member of said society, during the first year of membership, which simply means that if after twenty days notice, the assessment is still unpaid—and the death of that member should occur the full claim could be made for funeral expenses."

And the member who dies the first year and longer than twenty days after the date of being the benefit to which he is entitled, and which is the full sum of $100. The association has been organized in this County about four months, and has had four losses by death, and the membership may reasonably expect about an average of one call per month. The calls for these losses have been met promptly by most all the members, and we hope almost that among so many there will be found a sufficient per cent of those called upon that the twenty days have expired, and then if death should come to a member of the family unexpected as it often does, they would feel that they ought to have the benefit, and to such we want to urge now to be present to pay all calls in the limit given, which is ample time for so small an assessment, and we hope to see a better the advantage of the full benefit. For the convenience of the members and to save all trouble to the secretary and treasurer, we have thought best to make calls only on the first day of each month. However, this rule is not imperative but your calls for the convenience of all concerned. Of course, if any member dies during the month, no call will be made, as calls are only for funeral expenses. Remember we realize that this is the business of the members of the association, as well as ours, and if there is anything that is not understood by any member please call upon us and we will appreciate your coming, and be glad to explain every thing pertaining to the work of the association, which we feel sure will be found to be a good thing. We hope that you can see and realize for yourself, in less than six months, when every dollar has been collected and wrote expended, and this association has been for your benefit. No money is paid to officers or agents, and every dollar paid during the association goes to pay the funeral claims of the dead
