A Great Big Fraud.

Mayor Weaver, of Louisville, is the biggest humbug of the age, and his last grand stand play about gambling is simply demonstrative that he is a fraud. Before election he was elected because he knew he could not have enough ballots. He is the man who pays the police to break up the Democratic primary in his city, and later to support the Wood Hall Corruptionist and nominations—then brought about the trouble in the Democratic party and finally the murder of Senator Goebel. He is the guilty man.

Darbie Nonconmittal.

A Dispatch from Indianapolis, Jan. 15, says: Governor Durbin was notified this afternoon that a delegation with a resolution is coming from Kentucky after Senator Governor W. S. Taylor and Charles Finley, former Secretary of State, to ask what the expectation was that the Indiana Governor would surrender the fugitives.

"I have nothing to say on that subject," said the Governor firmly. "When the papers are on my desk I will give them consideration as I would any other document. If requisitions have never and to any one what I would do in the matter."

He has a host of old friends as well as new ones to come up to his assistance at this time, and a determined effort to have the office should be shown. Give him a hearty endorsement
