Negro Masonry.

It may not be generally known that there exists in West Virginia a colored Negro Grand Lodge of Masons, but such is the case. The report learned from this State grew that it held a meeting at Nettlebrieg, and adjourned to meet at our sister town, Thomas, in Tucker county some time next year. Thomas has a negro lodge, and a brother of Fairfax Lodge, at Davis, has a copy of their by-laws which, for originality ought not to have the rules and regulations of other lodges beaten. One section of their by-laws reads thus: "Any brother found carrying a razor or pistol on his person away from his premises shall be fined 10 cents, and the weapon confiscated and sold and the proceeds donated to the charity fund. Another regulation reads: "Any brother who shall be found in arrears for dues to the amount of one month shall be fined five cents and be declared ordained." The lodge is said to be flourishing amazingly, and numbers in more or less regular standing and pay the Grand Lodge of Washington handsome annual remittance in negro nuggets.—Mystic Tie.

Josh Wottaker, of Longacres, Ind., is a poor man, but he says he would not take a million dollars for his wife. Josh has been buying a watermelon a week, by installments, for a month, and his wife's patience is equal to this liniment for she has completed with Josh's every whim, scoff and sneer, sprains and chats and somersaults over the fence and never pronounces cases of partial paralysis or insanity.—Ex.

Eating a Watermelon:

"To eat a watermelon quite the correct thing," declared Von Cannon of Jop Jop, the other day, to a group of men standing in front of a local street car line. "Come with me," he continued, and he led the crowd into a fashionable Chestnut street restaurant. A rare watermelon was called for and handed to Mr. Cannon. "Now, waiter," said he, "please bring me a knife." The waiter returned with a large knife and handed it to Mr. Cannon. He looked at it, smiled and turned to the waiter, "we always beat us."

Down came the melon on the counter, by the horror of the deeper little waiter. It was silvered into a half dozen pieces, the seeds flying in every direction. And, while the three waiters and the cashier and the proprietor were scrambling around and the crowd was astounded at the startling feat, Mr. Cannon calmly walked out of the restaurant. "If we had only stolen the watermelon we should not have been arrested," said Cannon.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Communication

Mr. Editor: Allow me to speak a few words in favor of the Lexington Trotting Society. I suffered for three years with the bronchitis and could get nothing of sights. I tried several doctors and medicines, but could get no relief and had nothing to give me any relief until I got a sample bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. I got relief from the first dose. I bought a bottle, and before I had used it all I was entirely well. I would be pleased to have you publish this letter, as I think others may be benefited by the same remedy. Yours truly, Rev. J. Bagwell, Mo. This remedy is for sale by S. P. Bard, druggist.

Consumption Threatened.

C. Unger, 313 Main St., Cincinnati, O., says: "I was troubled with a hacking cough for a year and thought I had consumption. I tried a great many remedies, but got no relief, and I gave myself up to die. I got a sample bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, and before I had used it all I was entirely well. I would not be without it for any consideration." Sold by S. P. Bard, druggist.

The Rev. E. L. Powell, pastor of the Methodist church, Bowling Green, Ky., announced that one minister in each church in the city would be asked to preach on a Sunday. He gave as his reason that he was unable to be present on account of meeting with a committee to select a minister to fill the pulpit made vacant by the death of the late Rev. Dr. Hunter. Mr. Powell has been in poor health for the past year.

Mary Evans, colored, died at her home on Fifth street, Monday, aged 70 years and well worshiped 70 pounds. She was a faithful member of the church and was so full that her superfluous flesh would overflow the pulpit. In fact, in church her breast would overflow the pulpit.
