Gold Dust.

When in doubt, don't.

The love of the law leads to liberty in it.

Self is the shortest and the deepest definition of sin.

Sorrow's softest words often have the sublimest echoes.

Sympathy and sincerity are the sister keys to all hearts.

Don't make the man with the crooked eye the compass-man of your church.

You cannot make your heart a censpool without giving your life an ill odor.

Some people cannot even trust God with their cares without keeping a memorandum of them.—[Ram's Horn.

Will Cure Stomach Ache in Five Minute.

This is just what Pain-Killer will do, try it. Have a bottle in the house for instant use, as it will save you hours of suffering. Watch out that the dealer does not sell you an imitation, as the great reputation of Pain Killer (Perry Davis') has induced many people to try to make something to sell, said to be "just as good as the genuine."

Nineteen years old and 19 inches high. Such are the age and stature of Fatma, the famous East Indian dwarf. His weight is 11 pounds. Smann is his little sister. She is one year younger and one pound lighter. These creatures are veritable pigmies and quite different from some dwarfs, in that their members are in proportion to their size. Fatma's head is about the size of an orange and his arms are the size of broomsticks. In fact, he is a man in miniature, with none of the false proportions of infants.

When suffering from racking cough, take a dose of FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR. The soreness will be relieved and a warm, grateful feeling and healing of the parts affected will be experienced. S. P. Baird.

Mary's Muttonhead Beau.—Mary had a little lamb, it followed her to church, and then it stood around the door like an owl on a perch. "Why don't the little lamb come in?" the watchful people cried. Why, Mary told the silly things to wait outside. So you, each gentle maiden, may one and all still find some sheep head waiting near the door, if you admire that kind.—[Ex.

"I Stood in a Draught with my coat off and caught this wretched cold," says the sufferer. He need not pay a heavy penalty if he follow his act of folly with an act of wisdom. Soak the feet in hot water with a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer in it. Take a teaspoonful of Pain Killer in hot sweetened water at bed time and be thankful for so simple and speedy a way to break up a cold.

Nut Foods.

Nearly all nuts contain large percentages of nitrogenous constituents and fats. In the nut kernel there is very little waste—in fact, the nourishment is in a concentrated form, and for that reason nuts are best combined or taken with other foods. They are especially valued for their fine, meaty flavor, which is found in no other vegetable food product.

BANNER SALVE
the most healing salve in the world.

Turks and Coffee.

Coffee reached Constantinople about 1554 and was of universal use in Mohammedan countries before the close of the sixteenth century. So essential was it deemed to domestic happiness that a Turkish law recognized a man's refusal to supply his wife with coffee as sufficient ground for her claiming a divorce.

If President Roosevelt should die, the Secretary of State would become president. After that, the order of succession would be as follows: Secretary of Treasury, Secretary of War, Attorney General, Post Master General, Secretary of Navy, Secretary of the Interior. The Secretary of Agriculture is not eligible, as no such office was in existence when the law of succession was enacted.

For all fresh cuts or wounds, in either the human subjects or in animals, as a dressing, BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT is excellent, while for sores on working horses, especially if slow to heal, or suppurating, its healing qualities are unequaled. Price 25cts and 50cts. Tureman & Son, druggists.

The first Bessemer steel rails made in the United States were rolled in May of this year at the Chicago rolling mill, in Chicago, from blooms made by William F. Durfee, at Wyandotte.

MOTHER'S LAST JOURNEY.

Yes, all is ready. Open wide the door
This last sad time, and bear her gently forth,
Out through the hall, where oft she greeted us
With gentle welcome and a tender kiss,
Out through the flower garden, where she spent
Many a happy hour, tending her flowers.
We cannot speak because we love her so!
Softly we follow, silently and slow,
And then the door is closed, that nevermore
Will open to admit that dearest form.

Bright shines the sun, to mock us in our grief.
Our hearts so near to breaking, while the pain
Of parting presses on us—and we moan:
"Mother, O mother! must we part to-day?
Never again on this sad earth to meet?
Never to hear your voice, or feel the touch
Of your dear hand?" Alas, how can we stay,
Knowing thou'rt gone! But One was near to us
Whose form we could not see, but who did speak
Softly to us of Peace and Hope and say:
"O mourning hearts, rejoice! your mother lives!
This day is she with me in Paradise."
Could you but hear her now, so glad she sings
That sweet new song, could you but see her face,
From which all pain is gone; could you but look
Once more in those dear, loving eyes, from which
All tears are wiped away—you would rejoice
For her, and thankful say: "Mother's at rest!"
Then, as we listened to that still small voice,
'Twas given us to see the Shining Ones
Who welcomed her upon that Happy Shore,
And the dear Saviour she had loved so long
Received her in His arms, and comfort came.
As home we turned back to our empty house,
For now we know her sorrows all are past—
The journey's ended! Mother's Home at last!

PROMISE

By Eden Philpotts.

In this most ancient orchard, the old trees stand disposed irregularly, and where veterans have passed away, their places are filled by young, supple plants, whose youthful bearing, trim uprightness and aspiring attitude contrast with the gnarled patriarchs around them and with those intermediate bearers, now grown to full vigor of life and splendor of fruition. Here the aged and adult mingle with the young, as in human colonies; and from my post upon a dead stump I mark the pageant of awakening displayed amongst them, and breathe new life from the abundance around me, new hope from all this promise; new heart from the music and the color, from the gleam of a million petals, the glow of the sun lances, the song of the birds, and the undersong of those little glimmering myriads busy in every open flower about the vital matter of honey and bee-bread.

May is resigning her scepter, and presently it will be June; but May departs gloriously, and makes a noble end in music and such happiness as only wild things know. She passes with a swan song of promise; and here alone I seek it. ...

You Can Lead a Horse to water but you can't make him drink.

You can't make him eat either. You can't stuff food into a thin man's stomach but that doesn't make him use it.

Scott's Emulsion can make him use it. How? By making him hungry, of course. Scott's Emulsion makes a thin body hungry all over. Thought a thin body was naturally hungry didn't you? Well it isn't. A thin body is asleep—not working—gone on a strike. It doesn't try to use it's food.

Scott's Emulsion wakes it up—puts it to work again making new flesh. That's the way to get fat.

A Remarkable Occurrence.

An Arkansas local paper solilloquizes thus: "Some of our exchanges are publishing a curious item to the effect that a horse in Iowa pulled the plug out of a bunghole of a barrel for the purpose of slacking his thirst. We do not see anything extra-ordinary in the occurrence. Now, if the horse had pulled the barrel out of the bunghole and slacked his thirst ..."
