James Donnell Parker.

James Donnell Parker was born July 20th, 1861, near the place of his late residence, and died Nov. 16th, 9 a. m., 1902,—entering the 42nd year of his age.

He was the eldest son of Robert and Elsie Donnell Parker, of Nicholas Co., Ky; his grandfather Charles Parker having emigrated from Maryland to Kentucky in the early history of the state.

His youth and first ten years of manhood were given to care of farming and stock interests, up to the year 1861. In 1862 he enlisted in Company A, 14th Ky. serving to the close of the war as member of the famous Ky. regiment commanded in turn by Col. W. C. P. Breckenridge, Company C. He was a faithful, brave soldier, unassuming, but unwavering in duty, and participated in many of the hardest fought battles of the Lost Cause. He had tender and generous regard for the less fortunate of his comrades of the army; alluding in later years frequently to their constancy and heroism in the trials of war, but rarely to himself, save in the most commendatory and laudatory fo encomium and memories of that eventful period, his later years were heightened by mutual renewal to comrade with the faithful comrades of the camp and battle line, for whose presence and fellowship, he held undiminished regard to the end of the life his journey. At the close of the war in 1865, at the age of 24, with thousands of his fellow comrades of the southland he began life anew. Capable, careful and honest in trust, he became a successful dealer in the fine saddle stock markets of the South and West, attaining to a competency. He was married in Kansas on the 27th April, 1882, and lived 'Uncle Jim' to a host of friends and neighbors in Kansas and Missouri, where his home was established for many years. He was united in marriage to Miss Lenore Marion Ensminger, whose parents were Ohio; whose family and care as wife and mother, joined with his own influence and example, all successful affords the comforts of an unusually happy home. Successful losses during the 21 years of the journey of life together. Two daughters born to their marriage, removed all the thoughtful and affectionate regard that could be earned by parental love and care, the value of which cannot be told in the life to come in full.

Through all their made any open manifestation of religious faith, he was ever closed to him; knew that at times he was under the influence of a spirit of religious inquiry. Alluding a year or two before his death to a conversation he had tonight with a ministerial friend and a devout and full confession of our errors of life "he made it plain to me that he was trusting in Jesus alone."

He was respectful and reverent to religious observances and to the church, and united in his home by visiting ministers, and never omitted to attend any Christian meeting or minister present to invite him. Under the influence of his wife he became a member of the Presbyterian church. Frequently during his illness he would speak of the Lord. He desired much of here today, endeavor to glorify God or postponement in making his soul full readiness of our Heavenly Lord, but under that great change he was not able to utter thoughts any further than even let it be known that in the deepest and last trial of his soul, that the great salvation, that is through the Redeemer's blood, for him was redeemed by faith ere life's spirit was finally severed.

A faithful husband and parent, a kind neighbor, a true friend, a kind-hearted and honorable friend was James Donnell Parker, and his life was spent long and honest of the end of the journey in the common sleep that awaits us all.
