Adjourns After Passing Treaty.

After ratifying the Cuban reciprocity treaty, the Senate adjourned sine die Tuesday. The session of the present Congress, the entire day was spent in executive closed doors. Most of the time was devoted to consideration of the Cuban treaty. Several speeches were made in opposition to the treaty and one in favor of it and then promptly at the agreed hour, three o'clock, voting began.

PROVISIONS OF TREATY.

The Cuban treaty ratified to-day by the Senate was signed by Secretary Hay December 11, 1901, between General Gomez, representing the United States, and Carlos De Zulueta and Jose M. Garcia Montes, representing Cuba. The United States Senate made several amendments to the document. As ratified by the Senate to-day, it provides that all merchandise produced by either country which may enter the other duty free shall continue free of import duties. All other Cuban products imported into the United States shall enter at a reduction of twenty per cent from the rate of duty imposed by the United States on such articles when imported elsewhere. All imports into Cuba from the United States are entitled to free entry whether they enter at existing rates of duty or at rates of duty that may be established by any other country that may enter into a treaty with Cuba for a reduction in duty in such.

It is also specially agreed that tobacco in any form of the United States or manufactured therefrom shall not be given any concession in rates of duty when imported into Cuba. Both countries agree that the rates of duty granted to articles of the treaty should not be increased so as to make the concessions granted thereon illusory. It is specially provided that while the treaty is in force the United States will not increase the Cuban sugar duty above the present rate of duty. Cuba agrees to admit free of duty all articles produced by any other country that may be imported into the United States, and that she will not increase the present rate of duty on any article imported from the United States now entering free.

Cuba also agreed the treaty shall continue in effect for five years from the date it goes into effect, which must be on date after the exchange of ratifications. After five years if either country shall give notice of its desire to terminate the treaty, it shall remain in force twelve months after the receipt of such notice.

COL. NALL WILL NOT RUN

Says His Information From Farming Element all Over the State

Is that Hubert Vreeland will be Nominated by Gov. Yerkes for Commissioner of Agriculture.

Col. Jos. B. Nall, State Commissioner of Agriculture, who has been mentioned for one of the foremost agricultural positions in the State, and who has been one of the most thoroughly posted men in the State on agriculture for the past four years, will not be a candidate for re-election. He will return to private life. Col. Nall has received numerous letters from citizens and other Commissioner the State over urging him to run, but all of the leaders in the good needs answered.

Col. Nall's friends say that he could not be talked into active part in politics of his successor, as that was a duty which devolved upon the Democratic party, and that he had been asked for his opinion regarding the matter, but would not say who he would like to succeed him. Col. Nall's friends suppose that Gov. Yerkes will appoint his successor, as he is a better posted on next winter to the Legislature, and is charge of the farmers' institutes, which would not have to be changed if a new man was appointed. Col. Nall has been a farmer all his life, and is thoroughly conversant with the farming interests. What he would have from the farmers and others with whom he has come in contact, there was not the slightest doubt in his mind about the appointment of Hubert Vreeland as the farmers' supporter that would be satisfactory to the farmers of the State.

Strike Settled.

The decision of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission in the Wharf, Lehigh and Susquehanna case, which was pleased with it, and Thomas D. Lewis, Harrisburg, Secretary of the Board of Arbitrators of America in an interview to-day.

The arbitrator means of Pastoys and Wharf, Lehigh and Susquehanna to reach pleasure with the Commissioner's awards, and I believe that the men will be pleased with the decision. The men have been working under the old schedule since the strike was declared, and the new schedule will be enforced after April 1st.
