The RING and the MAN

WITH SOME INCIDENTAL DELATION TO THE WOMAN

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Illustrations by LAWSON PURDY

SYNOPSIS.

A facile, fluent, unscrupulous financier, Haldane, of the bold, active mind of a pirate, a profiteer in a modern, shining form. Then, greater in intellect, in daring, in planned success, he is not to the ordinary standards of business. He has none of the body taking to the sea, the love of the sea, the ships, the sailors, the seaports. He has failed, succeeded, the power, the money, the fame, the position, the success, the wealth, the friends for success, the wealth, the friends for success, the wealth, the friends for