CHICKENS OF SUPERB BREED

Single Comb White Leghorns Grow Fast and Mature Early—Birds of Snow-White Color.

(By M. C. ROBINSON.)

For chickens that will grow fast and mature early, there is no breed superior to the Single Comb White Leghorns. You will find it most easier to breed birds of solid color and keep them true to types and markings than it is to breed birds of mixed colors. Stick to one breed and pure bred at that and you will not find it difficult to get a color and besides you will get more eggs from birds of one breed and more eggs in every way than you will to breed mongrels.

System in the Feeding.

Fowls should have empty crops in the morning and the crop should never be allowed to become full at any time. If your fowls feed grain regularly in the litter in the morning they will be more than apt to eat enough at noon, which is never a satisfactory method of farming. Feed a little grain at noon and a little more in the afternoon, the latter to be fed so late that the fowls will go to roost with full crops. Taken altogether, the country is now fully two weeks in advance of last year, and in the northern counties it is now much larger than in 1911. Taken altogether, the auspicious weather the west will have the greatest harvest in its history. Two hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat is now conservatively as an estimate of the present growing crop, and it is safe to say that it has a good will be none too large.

POULTRY NOTES

Keep the brooder houses in a clean sanitary condition, and never overcrowd them.

Burnt corn has been used to good advantage in one way of supplying charcoal.

When you are through hatching, market all the cocks that you do not intend to use next year.

Combine the dairy and poultry plants on the farm. In other words feed the milk to the chickens.

The hen is a splendid piece for the chickens but they should not be allowed to be appropriated by strangers.

Pullets hatched in May can be brought to laying by November, or a little later, and will lay all winter.

Overcrowding, and especially at night, a portion of the brood is sure to be injured which may not be apparent for days after the chicks have been overcrowded.

Too many people who get good returns for a small flock figure that the same kind of care applied to a flock five times as large will produce five times as much.

In giving medicine to a fowl, commonly speaking, what would be considered a dose for a child is about right for a fowl.

The small chickens and other vegetables that are not suitable for human food can be fed to the chickens to splendid advantage.

Charcoal is an excellent feed for the fowls and should be before them at all times. They will not eat very much of it but they will eat enough to benefit them.

Some eggs require 20 days for incubation, and it is customary to hatch at least some of them with hens, since the geese are heavy and often not inclined to set.

A good spray to disinfect coops and brooders is a mixture of one-half pint carbolic acid in two gallons of water. It is a bad idea to treat high priced eggs in an incubator unless you thoroughly understand how to operate it.

SPLENDID OUTLOOK FOR CROPS IN WESTERN CANADA

RELIABLE INFORMATION FROM THE GRAIN FIELDS SHOW THAT THE PROSPECTS ARE GOOD.

This is the time of year when confidential advices are full to all the northern agricultural districts as on the probable outcome of the growing crops. Central Canada, comprising the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, with their 1,000,000 acres of wheat, oats, barley and flax, of which 6,000,000 acres may be said to be sown to wheat alone, has become a great factor in the grain markets of the world. Realizing this, government returns show that every state in the Union has representatives in these provinces, and naturally the friends of these representatives are anxious to hear of their success. It has never been said of that country that it is absolutely faultless. There are, and have been, districts that have experienced the vagaries of the weather, the same as in districts south of the boundary line between the two countries. The point is, that they are not to be expected in any agricultural country. The point is, rather that the agricultural possibilities of this province of Canada are probably more attractive in every way than most countries known to the world to the chief industry. The present year will either retrieve or confirm past years, and in a month or six weeks it is felt there will be produced the greatest crop that has ever been grown on the present. Then those great areas which are now being opened will be ready for the plow, and the forest, which has been left standing to make his last payment on his farm will be cleared. At the time of writing, all crops give the promise of reaching the highest standard expectations.

In the central portion of Alberta, it is said that crop conditions are more favorable than in any previous year. Heavy rains recently visited this part, and the whole of this grain growing section has been covered. Reports like the following have come from all parts:

"Splendid heavy rain yesterday. Crops forging ahead. Great prospects. All grains more than a week ahead of last year. Weather warm all the week. Good rains last night."

From southern Alberta the reports be hand indicate sufficient rain. Crops are excellent and promise a heavy harvest.

Throughout Saskatchewan all grains are looking well, and the country was favored with rain to carry them through to harvest.

From all portions of Manitoba there come assurances of the most abundant yield of all grains. Throughout southern Manitoba, a splendid rain was needed a few weeks ago, there has lately been abundant precipitation, and that portion of the province will be all prepared for a heavy crop against the best anticipations. A large quantity of grain was sown on the stubble in the province, which is never a satisfactory method of farming, but even this will produce all the crops.

Taken altogether, the country is now fully two weeks in advance of last year, and in the northern counties it is now much larger than in 1911. Taken altogether, the auspicious weather the west will have the greatest harvest in its history. Two hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat is now conservatively as an estimate of the present growing crop, and it is safe to say that it has a good will be none too large.

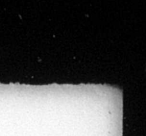
Health & Beauty Hints

By Katherine Morton

Summer is a splendid season for fostering a child's good looks. Great Nature stands with her arms wide open in the open air, when muscles are hardened, appetites improved and inches and pounds taken on. But the mother must be very careful about food on the hotter days —be careful, indeed, all summer long —and the daily grooming of the little body must be thorough and regular.

The bath is the youngster's greatest pleasure during the summer days, but day, for the little moment of seeming ease and comfort it affords, more than the body, soothes nerves and dulls heat of other good things. The hotter the day the more important is the lukewarm sponge or tub bath, with clean, cool garments to put on afterward. Don't scrub and rub the child friends. "As to shoes, if you can't afford to forget that barefoot sandals—the little moccasin-like affair that allows the foot to breathe without stockings—are ideal.

Sponge the body down very gently with tepid water if the child seems too tired for a bath, and repeat the operation several times during the hottest days. A teaspoonful of ammoniated toilet water will make this cooling sponge more effective. It is well to be careful not to have the water get into the youngster's eyes. When the little head feels burning hot, and the hair is matted with perspiration and is sour as well, a shampoo would not be amiss and would doubtless be relished. The extra cooling the small head gets at this time would be an added comfort



Grover Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia.

Two wonderful pitching aces of last season have not shown the class they displayed last year. Both were first year men in 1911, and their record for work was the talk of the country. They are Walter Johnson of Washington and Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies, and the southpaw is Vean Gregg of the Naps. Alex has been having a tough time of it this year, and when he does win it is hards a

McGraw Makes Prophecy.

John McGraw, manager of the world and Cincinnati third—Is J. McGraw's latest prophecy. He is bringing his club. The Giant leader believes that Frank Adams, Cincinnati's fleet-footed outfielder hit their stride the Pirates will follow them in the race for the N. L. debate. He conceded Mc-Graw's club to be the class of the league, but believes those the ball to him. "Prof. Brighten up the pendulum and get longer troubling his mickey dreams.

Marquard's New Curve.

Marquard has mastered that ditch drop that Christy Mathewson has successfully for so many years. It is a slow ball, with a big break, and requires man like he should welcome to the fold. Rube has been using it for a couple of years, but has not developed it to the point where it is effective.

In the second inning of the game the catcher for the visitors was hurt and there was no one to take his place. The umpire called for volunteers to keep the game going and finally a man was found in either ity. Yazoo City won both games.

Hot Sand Bags.

As a substitute for hot-water bags in ordinary ailments such as toothache, earache and other minor pains, use common flannel bags made in convenient sizes, with drawstrings. Fill them with hot sand or salt, and they are safer than a rubber bottle, just as efficacious and much handier to use. Keep half a dozen ready; they are of great help in time of aches and pains.

Timely Advice and Hints for the Hostess

By Mme. MERRI

Attire for Best Man.

At a four o'clock wedding please tell me the absolutely correct attire for a best man? The ceremony to be at a large city church.

COUNTRY.

Frock coat, white or the latest is a waistcoat of gray, striped trousers, straight or bag-eared collar; gray undressed kid gloves and a silk hat, not forgetting a four-in-hand necktie of a very delicate shade. A scarfpin is permissible and will presumably be the gift of the groom.

Giving a "Tea" or Reception.

I am indebted to a hundred friends. Tell me the simplest way to return them social obligations.

L. T. M.

Send out your visiting card in an envelope to fit it to the persons whom you wish to entertain. Write the day, hours and date, with the words "At home." Then, if it is practical, have two or three stringed instruments to play at the reception hours. Decorate the rooms simply with palms and a few flowers, softening the glare down by drawing the shades and lighting the rooms with shaded lights. Dress as the occasion demands. Have a pretty centerpiece of flowers, candles with shades and a friend to preside at the coffee urn and one for chocolate. Ask an intimate friend of two to assist you in receiving, and as your guests come and go you will have ample room for all and pay all your social obligations at one time. Serve sandwiches, nuts, olives, a cream of ice and small cakes. A salad may be added, but it is not necessary.

Giving a Breakfast.

Would kindly give a few suggestions as to the menu and arrangement suitable for a breakfast for about twenty people? It is a special occasion, but I wish something a little different.

BURLINGTON.

For so many guests you will probably seat them at small tables. If you have but one table, have a large bowl of candle and flowers at each end, with a smaller one in the fruit mixture, chicken and mushrooms in cream, hot rolls, coffee and cocoa, hot, buttered biscuit, olives, salted nuts, individual salads or tomatoes stuffed with shrimps.

A strawberry mousse, with small cakes or a individual ice cream makes an acceptable finish. Grape juice, iced tea or coffee may be the choice of beverages, with a cordial.

Afterward have a reading or a short musical programme. Perhaps you have some friend who is clever enough to entertain with personal reminiscences of some unique or interesting experience in travel at home or abroad.

MADAME MERRI.

Children at a Reception.

Will you kindly inform me the proper thing to do at a reception? Should I leave my calling card? What is the proper thing to do?

A. B.

Greet your hostess, be served to refreshments, leave your card and take your departure. That is the simplest formula for an afternoon reception.

Tea, coffee, chocolate, ices and cakes are usual refreshments served in the dining room, but ices are generally intimate to the ladies in waiting, and two waiters assisting in the service.

BURLINGTON.

Some months ago I saw a list of names printed in the paper for the year; perhaps it was in your column. Would you kindly print this list? Will you kindly print this list?

OLD READER.

The birth stones are: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, agate; July, ruby; August, carnelian; September, sapphire; October, opal; November, topaz; December, turquoise.

If you have but one table, have a large bowl of candle and flowers at each end, with a smaller one in the fruit mixture, chicken and mushrooms in cream, hot rolls, coffee and cocoa, hot, buttered biscuit, olives, salted nuts, individual salads or tomatoes stuffed with shrimps.

A strawberry mousse, with small cakes or a individual ice cream makes an acceptable finish. Grape juice, iced tea or coffee may be the choice of beverages, with a cordial.

Afterward have a reading or a short musical programme. Perhaps you have some friend who is clever enough to entertain with personal reminiscences of some unique or interesting experience in travel at home or abroad.

Angela's Arrival

There cowboys turned their pockets inside out and found a dollar to the bunkhouse in search of their comrades.

"Hi, boys," shouted the first to arrive, "you don't know the news?"

"What news?" queried a lank and shaggy individual.

"Aw, sothin' to interest you, Shorty. You don't interested in babies, I reckon."

"Females?" chorused the remaining occupants of the room.

"Why, sure, ain't you heard? The boss' sister's comin' to visit him."

"How old is she?" inquired the youngest of their number, called "Handsome Jim" by reason of his fondness for the cracked mirror.

"Oh, a kid's sure," drawled the bearer of the news, "but Rickey has a photo of her up to the house, and I'll be sure she's somethin' to look at. Her name's Angela."

"Wait, now, I collate she's a purty fair lookin' girl at present," said Shaggy Halsey, slowly. "Course you can't tell what she'll be next summer time, but I'd say as how she'd show up purty fine."

"When does your dog-busted friend—meanin' no offense—expect her?" Wilson, betraying a spark of interest.

"Why, I reckon she'll be here now says. Train gets in the Junction at about 4 o'clock, and I'll bet a hoss I'm supposed to be the possessor of all the Phillies, and the southpaw is Vean Gregg of the Naps. Alex has been having a tough time of it this year, and when he does win it is hards a

STAR PITCHERS NOT IN USUAL GOOD FORM

Grover Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia.

Two wonderful pitching aces of last season have not shown the class they displayed last year. Both were first year men in 1911, and their record for work was the talk of the country. They are Walter Johnson of Washington and Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies, and the southpaw is Vean Gregg of the Naps. Alex has been having a tough time of it this year, and when he does win it is hards a year.

Marquard's New Curve.

Marquard has mastered that ditch drop that Christy Mathewson has successfully for so many years. It is a slow ball, with a big break, and requires man like he should welcome to the fold. Rube has been using it for a couple of years, but has not developed it to the point where it is effective.

Southpaws Are Scarce.

There is not a left-handed thrower among the Senators, but Walter Johnson has developed a big curb in the slow ball, which he uses to good advantage against President Lynch of the National league.

One Catcher for Both Teams.

At Yazoo City, Miss., one catcher was behind the bat for both teams in the home leagings in the Cotton States league. Manchester and Yazoo City. In the second inning of the game the catcher for the visitors was hurt and there was no one to take his place. The umpire called for volunteers to keep the game going and finally a man was found in either ity. Yazoo City won both games.

Hot Sand Bags.

As a substitute for hot-water bags in ordinary ailments such as toothache, earache and other minor pains, use common flannel bags made in convenient sizes, with drawstrings. Fill them with hot sand or salt, and they are safer than a rubber bottle, just as efficacious and much handier to use. Keep half a dozen ready; they are of great help in time of aches and pains.

SUSPENSIONS ARE NOT JUST

Patrons of Baseball Games Published by League Executive When Players Are Taken Out.

The presidents of the American and National leagues should have learned by this time that it is unwise to punish the patrons and owners of clubs by suspensions, says the Chicago Evening Journal. Ban Johnson suspended Ed Walsh for five days and Tom Lynch suspended Tinker and Zimmerman for three days. These men are the star attractions of their respective clubs. A man pays his money to see Walsh or Tinker and Johnson or Lynch play. When he reaches the ball park, he finds that they are out of the game because they have been suspended. When the star is unable to appear at a theater the management refunds the fare to refund the price of tickets. There is no refund at a ball park, although the fans are as much entitled to it under the circumstances as are theater-goers. The suspension of ball players should be stopped. The club owners have only to order their presidents to discontinue it. Suspending a ball player does not punish him, no matter how much he may deserve punishment. It does not punish him to fine him a roll. He can afford a $100 for foul or obscene language on the field would not hurt him. If he knew he would be hit in the pocketbook he would not indulge in foul language on the field, the conversation on the ball field would be about the same as the drawing rooms. The underlying idea of baseball discipline is that substantial discipline and keeping order—can not be criticised. Order and discipline are absolute essentials, but it has been proved time and again that the suspension as a disciplinary measure is a failure. It punishes only the club owner and the fans—not the player. It is time for baseball to take games from one club and give them to the club possessing the most valuable players. The club owners are the sportsmanship rebels at such methods.

BIG FRENCHMAN FOOLED HIM

Pitcher Quinn Intentionally Passes Joe Jackson to Get at the Mighty Nap Lajoie.

For the first time since he has been a member of the Cleveland club, Nap Lajoie had the experience of seeing an opposing pitcher pass his greatest rival at bat so he could take a chance at Lajoie. That happened in a recent New York game. There were two men on with Graney on first and Olson on second. Jackson had already proved himself a triple and a single. Quinn pitched carefully to him till he got a count of two balls and two strikes. Then he passed him purposely, filling the bases, and then he faced Nap Lajoie.

To Protect the Flowers.

Edelwiss and other characteristic Swiss flowers are said to be in danger of total extinction because of the craze of tourists for collecting them. Women especially are said to be very anxious to take away souvenirs in the way of a bouquet, and they usually pull the flowers, but dig up the plant. It is proposed to make a law that it will prevent the buying, selling or digging of wild flowers, the latter spring crocus, Alpine columbine, the Alpine violet or other national flowers.

The Middle-Aged Woman.

Of the many ways in which the middle-aged woman may vary the effect of white hair perhaps none is more popular than the use of a collar and cuffs of white net, either lace trimming and embroidery in a floral design. Another change may be made by the use of white chiffon with border of black velvet, and another by the use of black net hemstitched with silver thread. Another effective model of this sort is of light blue net embroidered with black dots, and a second is of white again trimmed with bands of broadcloth, alternating with sponge.
