NEW RATES IN FORCE

COMMISSIONERS HEAR COMPLAINTS AND GRANT LIGHT CONCESSIONS.

It Is Estimated That New Rates Will Save People of Kentucky $300,000 Per Year.

Frankfort.—Except for a concession of five cents on the hundred weight in the rate on brick, metal-roof buildings in the country, and on cents on tobacco barns and their contents in the country, the reduced insurance basis rates on all dwellings in the state and farm buildings promulgated by the State Insurance Rating Board two months ago, went into effect Dec. 1. Chairman Ruby LaFoon and Commissioner Matt C. Clay and N. O. Gray, were in session, good over the complaint of the insurance companies against the reductions. They finally declared the new rate. They received no intimation of how the companies will accept the order as amended, but said they are convinced that the rate is fair to the companies.

The board's action on the new rating makes the rate on brick metal roof buildings 40 cents instead of 45 cents, and tobacco barns and contents 50 cents instead of 60. As it now stands, the rate on tobacco barns will be reduced 20 cents.

The board announced that the new rate will go into effect on January 1. The Baker law does not affect the rate. Premiums and dividends paid during last year aggregated about $1,350,000.

Interesting Inheritance Decision.

With Judges Winn, Settle and Lassing on the bench, the court of appeals held in a Kenton county case that the commonwealth of Kentucky succeeds, dying in infancy, cannot take by inheritance property which descended to the child from his foster parents. The law of descent and distribution is under the laws of descent and distribution of the commonwealth of Kentucky, that dying in infancy without issue, descended property from whom it was received if it was by law intended that a person's estate should descend to a stranger of the blood, and "an adopted child, under the statute, is not a child of the blood of his foster parents, takes subject to the statute of descent and can not inherit in infancy without issue the property that descended to him from them by the deed of that parent from whom he received it."

Frugal Wife Entitled to Savings.

Where the earnings of the husband are not more than reasonably sufficient to provide comfortably for and support his family, his household labor and funds are the joint property of both with some of the pleasures of life," said the court of appeals in affirming the Jefferson circuit court in the case of Ford Lumber & Manufacturing company vs. Ford. "It is not for any one to give his earnings to his wife, and if she is frugal and by her own economies saves and little luxuries that she might have and by reason of her being so frugally and do her own cooking and housework instead of having a servant to do it, and by this close household economy accumulates a little fund, she is not enough to buy a humble home, his creditors cannot take it away from her."
