DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at sever cosing? Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody known my store, I don't have to advertise."

advertiging world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continuely adversing—and they are continuely adversing—and they are continuely doing a good business.

If pays to run a few ada 'round about Christman time, it certainly will pay you to run advectisements about all this time.
