FROM THE JUNE MAGAZINES

The Woman's Home Companion is running a series of articles called "The World's Greatest Lovers." In the June number the subject is Romeo and Juliet. Following is an extract:

"In this lies the reason for that perennial charm which the stories of young love have for all of us. We feel that our own ideals are bound up with them and with their behavior. Their longings came near to our own. They stand as types through the ages of that strong love, that steadfastness of loving, which you and I would experience, we think, if we had the chance. They make us feel that we ourselves, given the opportunity, might be worthy of some such love as theirs. In other words, they hold up to us certain ideals of experience and feeling which charm and inspire us and set our own lives vibrating, tuning them to a higher key.

PLEASURE OF RAISING WHISKERS

The Cynic writing in the June American Magazine says:

"The enthusiasm of those engaged in the cultivation of whiskers is inspiring. A man with a full beard may, in a lucid moment, shave it off. But women will look closely. Within ten days he will show signs of returning to his old life almost as certainly as a murderer will return to the scene of his crime."

TEACHING THE EDITOR A LESSON

She came down the street three steps at a time and sailed into the country newspaper office like a whirlwind. She waited for no ceremony, but wildly asked:

"Is this the printin' office?"

"Yes, madam," replied the editor, gently, as he stood on his dignity.

"All right, madam," she snapped. "Stop it right away, too."

"It's stopped," we replied, making a blue line through her husband's name on the subscription list.

"Mebbe that will learn you some'n' else, an' how to do the square thing next time, and not to slight people just because they are poor. I'm a cook, an' stuck-up folks happen to have a bald-headed bird born to 'em, you're in an awful hurry to put it in the paper and make it out an angel; but when poor people have a baby, you can't say a word about it, even if it is the purtiest child borned. That's what I'm stoppin' the paper for. This ort to be a lesson to every paper in Oklahoma."

And she went out of the office as mad as a wet hen.—Exchange.

HOW TO QUIET A TICKING WATCH

In the June Woman's Home Companion appears a page called "The Exchange" which consists of practical household suggestions contributed by subscribers. Following is one of the suggestions:

"The ticking of a clock or watch in a sick-room is often most trying to a nervous person. To obviate this, turn a tumbler over a watch on a chair or table beside the bed, and the sound of the ticking can no longer be heard."

Sudden Death Of A Former Citizen Of Nicholas

Mr. John J. Piper, a prominent farmer of Bourbon county, and a brother of Mr. W. L. Piper, of this place, died suddenly at his home on the Maysville and Lexington pike Thursday afternoon from heart disease.

Mr. Piper, who was seventy nine years old had been in the best of health up to the time of his death, having returned from Paris, shortly before he was stricken.

He had walked out on his farm shortly before, and having returned to the house, he started to walk out into the front yard, when he sank to the ground.

Dr. J. T. Brown, of Paris was called, but before he arrived Mr. Piper was dead.

He was born in Nicholas county at the old home place, now the residence of Dr. B. F. Reynolds, on the lower Jacksotown pike. He left this county when quite a young man, and made his home in Bourbon since that time. He was also one of the most substantial farmers of that county at the time of his death.

He is survived by a widow and two children, a daughter, Mrs. Maggie Piper, and a son, Mr. William Piper. Three brothers, W. L. Piper, of Carlisle, Joseph Piper and Zach Piper, of Tennessee, survive.

Another brother of Mr. Piper, of Maysville, died some years ago, he being one of a family of seven.

Mr. Piper was a member for many years at the Hopewell Church, of which he had been a member for the past fifty years, up to 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, and the remains were interred in the Carlisle cemetery.

The following acted as pallbearers: Messrs. J. J. Jacoby, Jr., Ben Conway, Sanford Thomas C. Smith, Thomas P. Piper and John Steele.

Leander Mullikin Announces His Candidacy

Mr. Leander Mullikin, of Robertson county, announces in the issue of the Mercury this week as a candidate for the office of Representative from the Fifty-Second Legislative District.

Mr. Mullikin has served two terms as magistrate in the Lewisburg magisterial district, Robertson county, and made a good name for himself as a capable and efficient public servant.

This is Mr. Mullikin's first race for any office above that of magistrate, but he is already making an active canvass among the voters in the district.

He is a life-long Democrat and has a strong following, who believe that he is a sure winner.

ROBERTSON

As the result of a protest made by the local tax board, the State Board of Equalization reduced the land assessment in Robertson from 20 to 10 percent.

The Mt. Olivet Advance has the following account of the killing of Jess White by Reese Clark last Wednesday afternoon:

"Reese Clark, aged about 35, shot and killed Jess White, aged about 20, Wednesday afternoon of this week.

The shooting occured in Robertson near the Mason line, and was the culmination of a quarrel over a settlement for work done by White, who had secured a piece of land for Clark.

One of the reports current is about as follows: A bad feeling had existed between the two men for some time. White had gone to Clark's home to secure a settlement for the work he had done. During the argument that followed the lie was passed and both decided to go to the pike, about a fourth of a mile away, to settle the matter.

Clark was struck in the face with a rock and he then opened fire on White with a pistol. Out of six shots only two took effect in White's body. White was taken to the home of his father, Tom White, on Five Lick Creek, where he expired a few hours later. Clark was badly injured, and it is said his attending physician removed a piece of broken cheek bone before closing the wound, required two or three stitches.

Coroner Overbey and Attorney S. Throckmorton were called to the scene of trouble early Thursday morning and as we go to press Thursday afternoon they have not returned.

Clark's home is in Mason county and he will probably be arrested today by the officers of that county.

Both men are said to have previously been law-abiding farmer citizens.

Telephone Men Narrowly Escape Serious Injury

Sandford Rice and Joseph Locke, linemen for the Nicholas Home Telephone Company, sustained painful injuries last Friday, when a telephone pole on which they were working fell with them.

They had removed the guy wires from the pole in front of Mr. John M. Donnell's, and were removing the line connecting with Mr. Donnell's residence, when the pole, which it seemed was broken off, being held in place by the wires, crashed suddenly to the ground with them.

Rice sustained a badly fractured fore-arm, while Locke, though considerably bruised up, escaped serious injury.

Teachers To Make Applications In Writing

Teachers' election next Saturday, June 7th, at which time all of the teachers for the rural schools and the Henryville school will be elected. Division B will meet at 8:30 o'clock, Division A at 10:30, Division C 1:15 and Division D at 2:30.

The law this year requires that each trustee recommend in writing the teacher whom he wishes to nominate together with any objections there may be to this teacher, which must be in writing, and the Board may or may not elect such teacher. We advise each trustee in the county to read Section 122 of the School Law, page 44.

Teachers must have written applications either with their trustee, the secretary of the division board or with the county superintendent.

Each and every trustee in the county is required to be present at the meeting of his division and participate in the election of teachers. We want a full attendance of trustees before Saturday unless we see him personally or get him by telephone. Any person objecting to any teacher has a right to do so, providing they put it in writing, signing their name to it, otherwise objections cannot count according to law.

We have just completed the school census report, a copy of which we mailed to the Department of Education at Frankfort last Thursday. This was the most difficult report we have had to make. Under the new law of 1912 the census of illiterate children from 6 to 20 had to be taken, also the census of children from 6 to 20 who have finished the Common School Course, together with other requirements heretofore not asked for.

The trustees and census takers of the county deserve much credit for the splendid manner in which it was taken. The census in this paper will be found the school census report of the county.

We are going to furnish to each teacher the list of children for their district and ask them to make an effort to get every boy and girl, who cannot read and write, in school. A large number of those who cannot read and write are children six and seven years old who have not gone to school, but we are sorry to say that many of them are in their teens. Next week we shall give the report by Educational Divisions. You will notice that there are more illiterate boys than girls, and more girls who have finished the common school course than boys, showing that boys are not sent
