SYNOPSIS.

Bill Cannon, the banker, and his wife Cornelia Rose, who had passed on Mrs. Jerusha Rose's invitation to dine with her at Jerusha Rose's cabin on the Russian River, are caught in a storm and compelled to spend the night with Jerusha. Cornelia Rose, who is a writer of society novels, has left her husband and daughter Dorothy to get material for a book. Dorothy, who has been left in charge of the household, is entertaining Dorothy Rose, Cornelia's niece, and Dorothy Rose's friend, Jack Dunbar. Dorothy Rose's mother, Mrs. Rose Cannon, is a widow. Dorothy Rose's father, Henry Rose, died when she was a baby. Dorothy Rose's mother married Henry Rose's friend, Bill Cannon, and Dorothy Rose has grown up in the Cannon family, Dorothy Cannon and Dorothy Rose being more like sisters than cousins. Dorothy Rose has been engaged to Jack Dunbar for two years, but they have kept it secret because Jack's father disapproves of the match. Jack's father, Dunbar, is a rich banker, and Jack is dependent upon him. Dorothy Rose's father was a poor man. Dorothy Rose is an actress. After the departure of Cornelia Rose, Dorothy Cannon and Jack Dunbar become engaged. Dorothy Rose receives a letter from Jack's father, telling her that Jack has been disinherited because of his engagement to her. Dorothy Rose, in order to save Jack from ruin, breaks her engagement with him and tells him that she is engaged to Bill Cannon. Jack, in the heat of anger, tells Dorothy Rose that he is glad to get rid of her, and that he has only been engaged to her because he was sorry for her. Dorothy Rose returns home. Dorothy Cannon, who has been in love with Jack Dunbar for years, but has never told him so, is overjoyed at the news of the breaking off of the engagement between Jack and Dorothy Rose. Dorothy Cannon tells Jack that she loves him, and that she has been engaged to Bill Cannon only because Dorothy Rose was engaged to Jack Dunbar. Jack, who has been in love with Dorothy Cannon for years, but has never told her so, is overjoyed at the news that Dorothy Cannon is not engaged to Bill Cannon after all, and tells her that he loves her. Dorothy Cannon tells Jack that she has been engaged to Bill Cannon because Dorothy Rose was engaged to Jack Dunbar. Dorothy Cannon tells Jack that she has broken her engagement with Bill Cannon, and that she has done so because she loves Jack Dunbar. Jack tells Dorothy Cannon that he has been engaged to Dorothy Rose only because he thought that Dorothy Rose loved him. Cannon overhears the conversation between Jack and Dorothy Cannon, and tells Jack that he has been a fool. Jack tells Dorothy Cannon that he has been a fool, and that he loves her. Dorothy Cannon tells Jack that she has been a fool, and that she loves him
