SOME BUSINESS
NO POLITICS

"The King is Dead" "Long Live the King!" "Off with the old—on with the new!" By this time you must know that the announcement is now official that we have secured the services of Mr. Ben Taft, who will have assumed the President's chair. Let us all hope and pray that his administration may be more successful, prosperous and satisfactory than its predecessor. The result of the election is a fact accomplished, perhaps an intense fact, and Mr. Taft will believe that Mr. Wilson intends to do the very best for the country that can possibly be done with the means at his command. He may make mistakes (we sometimes make them ourselves) but his motives, if any, will not be personal and, differing with him as we do as to matters of governmental policy, we believe that he has a right to a fair, fair hearing. Democracy is a willing to give the right of everybody to give their opinion and to respect their opinion. We have no sympathy with a man who, to offer a criticism, makes personal remarks directed at a different political fair faith. The President of the United States is entitled to the patriotic support of every citizen and it is the duty of every man to support of support. Until such time as the President's Course is clearly judged by this standard he is entitled to the Presidency. Remember, gentlemen, that this is a country where speak of it in the kindest terms of praise. For sale by Chas. E. Barlow & Co.

The superintendent of department of public schools of New York City receives a salary of $12,000, the superintendent of the schools of Chicago, also New York, receives a salary of $10,000, Cincinnati and Boston also pay a salary of $10,000. Other cities pay smaller salaries, but in proportion to the secular interests in our country are more than that of religious schools.

Four more states, at the present writing, have declared for equal suffrage, Idaho, Wyoming, Oregon and Arizona. There were two states defeated, and are not making headway. So far the national women in the general election seems to have had no perceptible influence on the decision of the people. In Colorado and Idaho there was a vote between the sexes and three, the vote would be almost equal, practically, many women voting wet.

DRINK AND TUBERCULOSIS

A special survey made by the Russell Sage Foundation and the League in four districts where a high tuberculosis death rate was found, showed that alcohol had the average expenditures per family, whereas in Colorado in the four districts were reported 20, 30, 40 and 50 per cent, and 50 per cent. Forty-two per cent. of the children of immigration families were found to be under the influence of alcohol. Twenty-five per cent. of the Irish, 19 per cent. of the Italian and 15 per cent. of the Russian. As the Scientific Temperance Journal says: "The significance of this tuberculosis work has long been: Fight the three D's—dirt, drink and disease. For some reason, possibly merely because it rhymes with the word, the fourth 'D' drink—has failed to really exert the emphasis placed upon the other three. The great controlling and preventive problem of the future is simple drink; better be complete while it remains full and adequate plans for combating also the evil of drink."

The second tract is described as follows: Beginning at a stone corner to Nicholas County, Ky., in what is known as Pickerville, North of and bounded as follows:—on the north by Main street of said Village; on the East by Lot of Wallace Hedges; on the south by lot of Mrs. Sallie Hedges; on the west by other property of said Marsh Lane, being 60 feet wide and 120 feet deep and being same land conveyed by Marsh Lane to Thomas Simpson by deed dated Dec. 8th, 1911, and recorded in Deed Book 99 page 214, in Nicholas County Clerk's office.

In the event enough is not realized from the sale of the above described tract to pay the purchase price and costs it is ordered that the following tracts will be sold:

THIRD TRACT—A certain tract or parcel of land in Nicholas County, Ky., in what is known as Pickerville, and bounded as follows: On the north by the Cane Run turnpike and the lands of Charles Swanson; on the east by the lands of C. A. Tuell, on the south and west by the lands of T. W. Hedges' heirs, containing 1 acre, more or less.

For the purchase price the purchasers with approved security or securities, must execute their bonds, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

BEST PLACE IN STATE TO BUY GENERAL MERCHANDISE

Thirty-four years of strict application to business, ever striving to buy the best goods made, for the least money possible, and then give each patron the best goods, at lowest price, with prompt service: the trade has increased with each succeeding year, until now the volume of business done attracts to the buyers of this store the largest manufacturers, importers, and wholesale dealers, and the ever ready cash secures from them the best prices offered to any one.

To handle goods is creditable; to sell them at right price is excellent; to be prepared to give good service is commendable, but what good will it do to carry good merchandise, or what will it avail me to offer them at right prices, and give good service, UNLESS I ADVERTISE and let the public know as to the line of Merchandise I carry, that my price is right, the service perfect and that a "square deal" is guaranteed with each transaction.

Watch these columns for a slight mention of seasonable goods offered and profit by giving me your orders.

Well Answered.

When he once asked a London class of girls, added Dr. Macnamara, what they would say if he told them to saw the sun rose in the west, he got the reply that it was impossible. "But," he persevered, "supposing I solemnly declared I had seen the sun rise in the west?" "Well," one of the girls at length replied, "I should think you must have got up rather late."

"Pittsburgh Perfect" Fence

Why the Electric Weld is the Most Effective Fence-Joint made

Electrically welding joints eliminates innumerable exposed wire ends, and does away with sharply and tightly bending one wire against another, which cracks the galvanizing. The Electric Weld makes every ounce of wire count for strength and durability—no waste wire, no useless weight dragging down the fence. Electricity is the only medium which truly amalgamates metals—makes two wires one.

As we use it, the galvanizing is piled around the joints, producing a protective fabric with absolutely dependable joints. Electrically Welded fence-joints (patented) are used only in "Pittsburgh Perfect."

Every Rod Guaranteed

Made in Different Styles for FIELD, FARM, RANCH, LAWN, CHICKEN, POULTRY and RABBIT YARDS and GARDEN.

Ask your dealer for "Pittsburgh Perfect" and insist on his furnishing it. Do not allow him to persuade you that some other kind is just as good. If he doesn't sell it, write us direct.

Pains All Over!

"You are welcome," says Mrs. Nora Guffey, of Broken Arrow, Okla., "to tell my letter in any way you want to, if it will induce some suffering woman to find relief. I had pains all over, and suffered with an abscess. Three physicians failed to relieve me. Some taking Cardui, I am in better health than ever before, and that means much to me, because I suffered many years with womanly troubles, of different kinds. What other treatments I tried, helped me for a few days only."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

Don't wait, until you are taken down sick, before taking one of Cardui. The small aches and pains, and other symptoms of womanly weakness and disease, always mean worse to follow, unless given quick treatment.

You would always keep Cardui handy, if you knew what quick and permanent relief it gives, where weakness and disease of the womanly system makes life seem hard to bear. Cardui has helped over a million women. Try it.

COMMENT

"We have no use for the saloon element in politics. The saloon element has been taken from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the founding and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration."

"We have to-united with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered and have some notion of what is done. A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates not just principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to the commercial needs of a stirring credits; an industrial system which, based as it also, financial as well as administrative, lodes capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties of individuals, makes the employment of labor, and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agriculturist activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings; a credit system which makes the growth of small enterprises and individual initiative impossible; a tariff system which takes the part of the country, and which, while giving certain manufacturers a privileged position, exposes our farmers and our laborers to the full force of competition from the rest of the world; these are the things we have to-unite with."

—[Extracts from the Inaugural Address of President Wilson.

One may not read these utterances of the new chief executive without an instant realization of the deep earnestness, the liberality and breadth of view, and the manliness of the man. Woodrow Wilson, as president, may be counted in the careful language of the scholar and the scholar it may be, but if there were a fault, how nobly is it atoned for in the simple directness of thought, the sincerity of purpose, and the commendable and refreshing modesty of its author.

There is in his salutatory nothing of the blatant self-exploitation to which we have become used, but a clear-cut, concise, trickery of the professional politician to make his audience fancy. Rather is it the thoughtful, earnest, conservative document of the student, the clear-sighted statesman, yet definite convictions of the man who knows the history and the needs of his people in their present.

Through it there speaks a manheavily conscious of the sacredness of his trust, but with a quiet his inability to accomplish the tasks before him, unaided. In knowing that on betterment may be effected, when the co-operation of those most vitally concerned is refused, he calls to his aide "all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men," to meet counsel and sustain him.

It is the speech of an honest man, a straightforward man, an earnest man, and the people will rally to his call.

Henry Watterson, writing in the Courier-Journal, of Tuesday, says of the inauguration address:

"Hats off to William Howard Taft! He was called to answer many sins not his own. There is something more in this wicked old world than defeat; disgrace. All the Teddys on top of it can't quench the spirit of optimism upon the back, nor brand that mark of shame upon the brow, of William Howard Taft. He is full of consecrated resolution, reckless pledges, impassioned sins and unescapable mischief but between him and this one pale left for him, "He Done His Best." Let us hope he will write all over in letters of living light.

Hats off to William Howard Taft! Long may he live to show what an ex-President ought to be! Nature herself may stand uncovered and exclaim: "Behold a Man!"

Still a Conqueror.

Old Colonel Pedigree continues to be one of the most stubborn foes that the South has to encounter.—Chicago Record-Herald.
