NEWS and GOSSIP of WASHINGTON

Autos for the Cabinet a New Topic at Capital

WASHINGTON—The requisition of Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson for three automobiles, two for personal and one for departmental use, has brought up the subject of the private use of government conveyances. The demand for automobiles for the labor secretary of labor is based on the claim that "it is just as cheap now to purchase, maintain and operate automobiles as it is a horse and wagon or buggy."

The government provides four or five automobiles for the president, one for the vice-president, one for the speaker of the house and one for the public printer, and a department delivery for the automobiles and other motor vehicles used by the several officers and other connected with the various departments. It is assumed by the chief executive and the heads of the executive departments. It is assumed by the chief executive and the heads of the executive departments. It is assumed by the chief executive and the heads of the executive