LIGHT IS PROBLEM

Capital Authorities Seek to Remove Automobile Danger

New Lens Offers Solution—Prevailing Method Is Criticised—Bill Is Pending

Washington.—What has been declared by the dullest authority the lighting headlight of motor vehicles in the city streets. The country have noticed the difficulty, superintendent of police, to win the co-operation of the automobile owner in regulation of it out evil. The general indifference to the serious character of the situation, the fact that the light which would hold in check is

Much of the present danger out of the carelessness of indiscriminate themselves in running near the roads in the night parks and thoroughfares some of the latest devices for motor headlights seem to be acquired. Automobile owners are temptingly walk in the glare of the headlight of oncoming vehicles and to the side of the track of the present danger of the headlight is painful. Fine, the driver of the automobile which has lately restricted in the use of the headlight under question of the headlight must

Another fact in the question of the present danger is the fact that the headlight within a few feet of another headlight is blinding to the driver being aware of the approach of a lighted vehicle. This is true throughout the country, and is not confined to the streets of Washington, where it is complicated with every development. Until the present time there has been no uniform regulation.

Another fact that Col. ex- ed a simple solution of the problem. The lens which he has utilized hemispherical in shape, and is so constructed that the target for a small area upon the ground in front of the car. The lens is so ground that the light which would otherwise be thrown upon the eyes of the driver of the approaching car is thrown down between the open and the fenders of the car, and the light and the form of the approaching car.

The issue of light coming through the lens is a broad one, and the driver of the approaching car is not dazzled and blinded as he is by the present headlights. The result is almost complete elimination of the danger from the headlights. Col. ex- has been experimenting with the lens for several months, and has had it tested by a number of automobile owners, who have found that it does not interfere with the proper operation of the car in any way. The lens is not expensive, and can be attached to any car by any mechanic without trouble. Col. ex- has applied for a patent on the device, and has offered the use of it to the government without charge.

NEW IDEA SEEMS GOOD ONE

Various Forms of Insurance Might Tend to Lessen the Horrors of the Modern Picnic.

There in England a new form of insurance has been devised, for the benefit of those who are about to undertake to go on holiday trips or take out policies indemnifying the against the dangers of accident or accidental due to rains, stormy or unpleasant weather. Need this, sir, at all. In this country no such insurance is yet obtainable—that is, for any thing like what may be required and recommended. There may be a special policy devised, for instance, for those who intend to take out their annual outings, or for the directors or shareholders in any company, depending on the nature or loss generally and one of the chief dangers is a couple of poems on leaves of the family of schools. Or the policy may be taken out by the individual holder against the accident or death of that one of the holders who is supposed to be the most likely to be killed, or to get into the most trouble or to have the most fun. Or the policy may be taken out by the father of the family against the accident or death of any one of his children, or by the head of a school or college on the life of a couple of persons who have left the family of schools. Or the policy may be taken out by the holder against the accident or death of the head of the family, or by the head of a school or college on the life of a couple of persons who have left the family of schools. Or the policy may be taken out by the holder against the accident or death of the head of the family, or by the head of a school or college on the life of a couple of persons who have left the family of schools. Or the policy may be taken out by the holder against the accident or death of the head of the family, or by the head of a school or college on the life of a couple of persons who have left the family of schools.

Of course, there are many drawbacks to policies being issued, but nothing will be more or less difficult than the present.

Acute Indigestion

I was a sufferer for many years from acute indigestion. I had pain, headache, sour stomach, and nausea. I tried many remedies and I was told by druggists to whom I went that Chamberlain's Tablets would relieve me. I purchased a box and found relief after taking a few doses. I had been a sufferer for years and had tried many remedies, but none of them relieved me as quickly as Chamberlain's Tablets. I can recommend them to all sufferers from indigestion.
