FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce HON. W. J. FIELDS as a candidate for Congress from the Ninth District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the voters of the Democratic party, in the Primary, August 1, 1914.

The New Road

If you have not seen the work being done on the Carlisle and Sharpsburg turnpike, go out and see it. It will make you an enthusiastic booster for good roads. The work began last Wednesday under the direction of the State Engineer, and almost a half mile of the road has been completed.

It is a dandy stretch of road and is being put down to stay. After the crushed rock is spread, it is watered and rolled; then screenings are spread on top of this, watered and thoroughly rolled, making a rod bed almost of the consistency of concrete.

It is estimated that it will take about fifteen days to the mile, and there are eight miles of the road. When it is finished, we predict that it will do more for the cause of good roads in Nicholas county than any amount of meetings or newspaper boosting could do.

Mr. Myers of the Kentucky delegation are quoted as stating privately their belief that the decision of the Supreme Court holding the tobacco pooling law unconstitutional, will cause a return of night-riding.

Goat "Got His Goat" When Animal Jumps Out Window

Tuesday's Lexington Herald tells how a goat "got" O'Leary's by jumping out of a lodge room window:

"Almost since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, the goat has furnished the amusement of at lodge initiations. It is said but last night at an initiation conducted at the third floor of the Lexington Opera House by the Order of Owls, fun was turned into fear when the goat jumped out the window with the zeophyte on his back.

George O'Leary, the popular painter, was being introduced into the mysteries of the order when the goat, provoked by bull dogs, sprang through the window. O'Leary and the goat both landed on a fire escape and neither was seriously injured.

The candidate climbed back up the fire escape to the lodge room but Mr. Goat, whose ire he came entangled in the steel strips in the fire escape landing, was not extricated until six of the lodgemen had come to his assistance.

Though O'Leary was not injured, members of the lodge reported that his experience unnerved him to such an extent that it was necessary to postpone further degree work. Three candidates, it is said, are scheduled to try to jockey the same animal next Monday night.

Rural School News

All who wish to bid on the repair work on the various school houses advertised elsewhere in this paper will please call at the Superintendent's office any time after Wednesday, June 24, as I will be in the office after that date. All bids will be opened Saturday, June 27, also, to-wit:

The Nicholas County Board of Education at its last meeting, June 13th, passed resolutions that the school houses must not be used for any purposes other than school purposes unless five responsible persons will stand responsible for any damage done to the school property. As soon as circulars can be printed the trustees will be notified and blanks furnished for the five responsible citizens of the districts to sign. The law says the school houses may be used for other purposes, but requires that five citizens stand responsible. When the schoolhouses are put in good condition they should be kept that way, and teachers, trustees and the County Board of Education can depend on this if the building are to be used by just any people without any one being responsible. The doors are left standing open, windows busted and the furniture often defaced. A good lock will be placed on each school house to the end that good fastenings to the windows, and there a reward will be offered for the indictment and conviction of any one who breaks into a schoolhouse.

We received a letter from Mr. Hamlett, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, June 17th, in which he says there will be only six months school this year at the per capita will not exceed $4.25 and it would have to be $4.75 in order to have eight months.

Pooling Law Is Annulled By The Supreme Court

The Kentucky statute making the farmers to pool their tobacco was annulled as unconstitutional by the supreme Court Monday.

The court held that the conviction of Patrick Colaine, a farmer of Mason County, for selling his tobacco to an outsider after agreeing to pool with the Burley Tobacco Society, a tobacco growers' association, was invalid. Colaine had been fined $100.

The conviction of Thomas Malone, another Kentucky tobacco grower, also was set aside.

The decision which was rendered by Justice Hughes, follows in full:

"The plaintiff in error, Patrick Collins, and other tobacco growers of Mason County, Ky., entered into a pooling contract with the Burley Tobacco Society and the Mason County Board of Control whereby they consigned to the society their respective crops of tobacco raised in the year 1907; to be sold by the society as their agent upon such terms as it should prescribe, but not less than a minimum price, because Collins disposed of his crop, without the consent of the agent of the society, was indicted. He demurred to the indictment upon both State and Federal grounds, setting forth that the statute which he violated under which he was prosecuted was void: 1. By Fourteenth amendment of the Federal Constitution in that they deprive him of liberty and property without due process of law, and also 2. In order to have restrained the commerce of the Federal anti-trust act of 1890. The demurrer was overruled and trial was had thereon. The evidence that the tobacco had been removed from Kentucky to Cincinnati and there sold. Collins was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine. The Court of Appeals has affirmed the judgment, this judgment of error is prosecuted.

The conviction was under the provision of Section 3041, of the Kentucky Statutes, being the act of March 29, 1906, as amended by the act of March 17, 1908. The act of 1906 provides that persons to pool or combine the crops of tobacco, where such acts, hay or other farm products raised by them, for the purpose of obtaining a better or higher price thereof than could or might be obtained by selling

C. U. BRAMBLETT, Manager
H. R. HUNSON, Secretary

The Ford Motor Company was organized June 16, 1903, with a capital of one Hundred Thousand Dollars with the capitalization now TWO MILLIONS. The first year it had an average of 231 employes daily and turned out 1,700 cars; in 1911 they build 100 an average of 20,000 employes. They have sold more than a half million Ford cars and every month shows an increase in cars manufactured and can sold. The success of the Ford car is one of the wonders of the modern world but there's a reason—IT'S A better Car. It sells in the United States, in Canada, in England, in Ireland, in faraway Austria, in India, in fact all over the world wherever the white man has set his foot there also is the reliable, dependable Ford automobile to be found. Its distance, to overcome his time, to assume the heat and burden of the day and make life worth living, even in the barren deserts of Africa, on the frozen steppes of Siberia, all over the world.

The Ford is the Doctor's car, the merchant's car, the family car, the farmer's car, the car for every purpose. Do you want to get to Gin in a Ford. Do you want to go fishing? Be sure and go in a Ford. (No Ford, No Fishing.) Do you want to attend the convention? Go in a Ford. Have a wherever or whenever you want to go anywhere GO IN A FORD.

Let the Ford in the Doctor's car, the merchant's car, the family car, the farmer's car, the car for every purpose. Do you want to get to Gin in a Ford. Do you want to go fishing? Be sure and go in a Ford. (No Ford, No Fishing.) Do you want to attend the convention? Go in a Ford. Have a wherever or whenever you want to go anywhere GO IN A FORD.

Now that we seem about to enter upon an era of good roads every man should have a Ford. If you will take the trouble to look at the fine model runabout pervise Joe Berry is building just outside of Carlisle on the Moorefield jake you will realize that here is the ordinary automobile of today. That WE WILL HAVE THEM; and then we'll all have to have automobiles—we don't let a Ford get by us. And when we have this model to show you there will be no loan it to you at 6 1-2 per cent; of course the collateral must be good, but you can have the money if you are fixed right.

will just rise up and double over in price. Good roads after the fourth of July, stop to see the youngest county ever made—and keep the good work going. Never mind the blockade—we've got them ever since the Children of Israel pursued the Egyptians, ending then out of bondage.

Have you seen that nice Automobile over in the show window? It is just simply a dandy body on a regular Ford touring car chassis; you buy the Ford touring car chassis, get the body and you have two machines in one at a cost of only $50.00. To use the truck just loosen 6 bolts, remove the auto body and you have the truck body on and go on after your load. When you want to use it as an automobile just remove the truck body and replace the auto body. Easy as falling off a log and lots more pleasant. Just the thing for the country store, farm or family, for anybody.

Now, come in, old man, and let us fix up that automobile for you so you can be waited long enough you want it, the wife wants it; the children want it, we all want it. Then why delay? We have the model, we may not have them or be able to get them together. Just think of the small price—$500.00 for the two-passenger runabout, $550.00 for the 5 passenger touring car, fully equipped, ready for business. If you care to borrow some money on your farm we will be glad to loan it to you at 6 1-2 per cent; of course the collateral must be good, but you can have the money if you are fixed right.

Pooling Law Is Annulled

said crops separately or individually. The actions so agreeing were followed to select agents to receive and to sell or dispose of the crops so placed in order to accomplish the object of the combination. The amendment of 1908, in addition to fixing remedies by way of injunction for violations of the provisions of the act when so selected should require the sole right to sell such crop so pooled or combined that it should be unlawful for any owner of such crop to sell or dispose of same and for any person to knowingly purchase the same without written consent of such agent, and that upon conviction thereof a fine should be imposed.

This statute, as construed by the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, is not to be regarded as a police regulation, but is to be viewed in connection with the Kentucky anti-trust acts of 1890 and in the light of section 3915 of the Kentucky Constitution, adopted in 1891. The act of 1890 forbade the formation of pools or combinations for the purpose of regulating the price of any article or product of merchandise or property. Section 3915 of the Kentucky Constitution, provided that it should be the duty of the General Assembly from time to time to enact such laws as may be necessary to prevent all trusts, the formation of pools or combinations from combining to raise or reduce the price of any article, or to enhance the cost of any article above its real value.

It was held that the Constitutional provision was not self-executing, but that the act of 1890, and in Commonwealth vs. Grinstead, 113 Ky. 770, it was further held (applying the principle announced in Owen County Tobacco Society vs. Commonwealth, 142 Ky. 1) that the Constitution
