BAR SEAS TO KAISER

COMPLETE BLOCKADE OF GERMANY IS DECREED BY THE ALLIES.

ENVOYS GIVE NOTES TO U. S.

British and France Forced to Retaliate, Notices Assert—Declare Emperor Substitutes Indiscriminate Destruction for Regulated Capture.

London, March 3—Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons that the government had decided in view of present conditions of any kind to stop reaching Germany or leaving that country.

This means that no foodstuffs of any kind will be allowed to reach Germany. The embargo will also be extended to raw materials.

This action was taken by the British government in retaliation for Germany's submarine warfare against British merchant ships.

Now a "Bread War."

England will now try to starve Germany into submission. It is believed that the embargo of the British government upon foodstuffs and raw materials will immediately bring the effects of the German submarine to the "bread war" against England. In making this momentous announcement, Premier Asquith said:

"There is no form of economic pressure which we do not consider ourselves entitled to assert under existing conditions."

Calls It Piracy.

Premier Asquith, in speaking of Germany's submarine war, declared:

"Germany has taken a step without precedence in organizing a campaign of piracy and pillage.

"This is not the time to talk peace. Those who do so are the victims of self-delusion. The allies will never sheath the sword till all objects wherefore they have gone to war have been achieved."

Notes Served on U. S.

Washington, March 3.—The substance of the British and French notes to be contained in a formal statement given out by the state department:

The department has received notes from the British and French ambassadors, in practically identical language as follows:

"Germany has declared that the English channel, the north and west coasts of Ireland and waters around the British Isles are a war zone and has officially notified neutral governments she will sink any ship found in that area and that neutral ships may be exposed to great peril. This is to affect, a claim to the right to torpedo at sight, without regard to the safety of the crew or passengers, any merchant vessels met on any part of the high seas in the power of the German admiralty to maintain any surface craft in those waters, this attack can only be delivered by a submarine agency.

"The law and custom of nations in regard to attacks on commerce have always presumed that the first duty of the captor of any merchant vessel is to bring it before a prize court, where it may be tried, where the regularity of the capture may be challenged and where neutrals may recover their cargoes. The sinking of prizes is in itself an indefensible act to be resorted to only in extraordinary circumstances and after provision has been made for the safety of all the crew or passengers.

"If there are passengers on board the responsibility for destruction of life between neutral and enemy vessels and between neutral and enemy ships, obviously rests with the attacking ship, whose duty it is to verify the status and character of the vessel and report and to preserve all papers before sinking or even capturing it.

Ships Are Destroyed.

"It is quite obvious that all precautions of visit and search of merchant vessels in the case of submarine warfare at sea have proved impossible. A German submarine, however, following the usual practice of the German navy on local command of the waters in which she operates, sunk the ship, the dominion government paid the German government $15,000 and a vessel sunk to Dorsch.

FLEET TO AID TURKS

ALLIES BOMBARDING DARDANELLES FORTS NOW FACE ATTACK IN THE REAR.

BIG GUNS GUARD CAPITAL

Hundred Thousand Turkish Troops Are Being Massed for the Defense of Constantinople—Russian Warship on Scene.

By HERBERT TEMPLE.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, March 4.—The conflict between the Turks and the Anglo-French fleet for possession of the Dardanelles may develop into a three-cornered fight, according to a report that an Austrian fleet, consisting of six Austro-German submarines, several torpedo boats and destroyers have left the Austrian naval base at Pola for the Aegean sea.

Ships in the Aegean sea reported by wireless to England that heavy gunfire could be heard and it is believed that the bombardment of the Turkish forts on the inner side of the Dardanelles has been executed by the international fleet.

Fleet Is Divided.

The attacking fleet is reported to have been divided in three parts. One of these is operating in the Dardanelles, another is stationed in the gulf of Saros, throwing shells across the peninsula of Gallipoli and the third is standing off the entrance of the Dardanelles in the Aegean sea.

In addition to the one hundred three inch guns which the bombardment of the defense of Constantinople all the available heavy guns have been rushed to the remaining forts. It is even said that guns have been taken from the interior fortress in northern Thrace to the remaining forts. It is even said that guns have been taken from the interior fortress in northern Thrace to the remaining forts.

Turkish forces in the bombardment caused by storms has been utilized by the Turks to strengthen their defenses and strengthen in every way the forts that remain.

The loss of Tenedos has been set down as a severe blow to the Turks.

More Forts Destroyed.

It was also the Russian cruiser Askold has joined in the bombardment of the Dardanelles. Dispatches are being sent to locate surface mines.

Reports from Athens state that the combined destruction of Fort Na ailton by the French battleship Gaulois, while Fort Chanak Kalitaie which adjoins it was destroyed by the battleship Charlemagne.

A landing party from the allied fleet rushed a small force of Turks on the Asiatic shore of the strait, according to dispatches received here. Following this their retreating troops were massing northward, supported by several guns, to attempt to drive attack upon the forts under bombardment.

British and French troops are now flying on six of the "impregnable" forts of the Turks, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens. The Turkish forces are threatened by landing parties and for many days have been in French and British positions on Turkish soil.

5,000 Turks Are Wounded.

Turkish losses in the bombardment of the Dardanelles forts total 5,000 dead and wounded. Troop trains from Constantinople are arriving at the Dardanelles on the European side and the Turkish commander-in-chief is rushing all the forts without medical attention.

TWO RUSS FORTS DESTROYED BY HUGE GERMAN GUNS

Teutons Use Mortars to Shell Osowiec—Czar's Forces Recapture Prasnysz.

Berlin, March 4 (via wireless)—The German siege guns have destroyed two of the Russian forts at Osowiec, according to the Cologne Gazette.

Osowiec, or Ossowetz, is an important fortress in northern Poland, near the Prussian frontier. It is one of the forts in support in the fort fied line to which the Russian Tenth army fell back after its defeat recently from East Prussia.

Petrograd, March 4.—The German invasion of Poland north of the Vistula river has been definitely checked, it is declared in official Russian statements given out today. Along the entire front from the Niemen to the Vistula are reported counter attacks by the troops of Field Marshal von Hindenburg.

Official announcement of further record Russian successes in all sections in the Carpathians was made today by the Russian general staff.

In the Prasnysz region, where the Germans claimed earlier that Nicholas have driven a wedge into the Russian center, the situation is described as favorable.

As a result of the fighting of the last few days more than eighteen thousand prisoners have fallen into Russian hands. The Germans have also lost many guns.

London, March 4.—The Austrian advance in eastern Galicia has been checked and the Russians are driving back their opponents have recaptured Stanislau and Kolomea, says the Evening News in a telegram from Hertzog, Switzerland.

Petrograd, March 3.—Victorious in their operations against the Germans in northern Poland, the Russians have won a decisive victory in the Bukowina and southeastern Galicia, on the extreme left wing of the seven-hundred mile battle front. They have already captured Sokolow, a few miles north of Czernowitz, the capital of Bukowina, and Kolomea, sixty miles further eastward, while at the same time they are forcing back heavy pressure to bear on the Austro-German forces in the Carpathians for the evacuation of this city is imminent.

DACIA HELD IN FRENCH PORT

Questions Over the Former German Liner to Be Settled in Prize Court.

Brest, Finere via Paris, March 3 (by Associated Press).—Dacia, formerly a Hamburg-American liner, which was captured by a French cruiser and brought into this port by a French warship, has been placed into the Brest naval harbor.

The Dacia was under the American flag, which flew over the steamship when she was captured. The fact that a cruiser and taken into Brest, has been the subject of much discussion between the United States government and the French government, and the appearance of vessels from American ports at false clearances from the customs for the future of having the vessels pro ceed to destinations other than those mentioned in the clearance papers and for the purpose of aiding the German navy in a foreign government.

The indictments were sent out of sealed and read furnished German ships, to the Atlantic.

CONGRESS ADJOURNS

SIXTY-THIRD CONGRESS PASSES INTO HISTORY WITH A BUSY RECORD.

Nobody Is More Gratified Over the Expiration Than the Members Themselves.

Western Newspaper Union News Service

Washington.—The Sixty-third Congress has passed into history with the adjournment of the house sixty minutes after the establishment of the government. Nobody is more gratified over the expiration than the members themselves, except the "lame ducks" who will not be coming back next winter and who must resume their regular vocations, if they have been in politics. There was the usual difference of the closing scenes of the senate and the house. In the house there was uproar and noise, while the senate closed its business in a calm and dignified way. Valedictories were spoken in both houses, compliments exchanged between the leaders of the rival parties, who have been at each other's throats all session and then, half an hour after noon, the capital city was deserted.

INCITING THEM TO PLUNDER.

Washington.—Official reports to the United States government through its consular and other officers in Mexico give descriptive an intolerable condition of affairs in that country, and the populace is suffering the effects of anarchy and misrule to a degree unknown with the outside world. One of the most distressing features being noted in the region, the Carranza commander is said to be inciting them to take the law into their own hands to obtain food and clothing from the stores of the male population into the Carranza ranks.

PRUNE ANY TIME FROM LATE FALL TO MAY

If a Ladder Must Be Used to Work On in the Orchard It Should Be a Stepladder.

—DR. SYLVANUS VAN AKEN.

A system of pruning which has received much favor in the last few years is the young growth in June. It is difficult to say what time in June is best, but such a system of pruning will be, but that the operation should be made in early June seem advisable. The long growth is then well started and the twigs are formed out among the limbs.

Trees pruned in this way seem to be more as the Burbank plum, the results will indicate a more perfect and symmetrical trees will be formed by the summer pruning.

Orchard trees may be pruned any time from late fall to May, but seem somewhat ill-fatbed. The most common time of doing it is in the winter, as in February, March or April.

A fine, sharp saw and a pair of small pruning shears are the only implements generally required, but I use a long-handled pruning shear and also a good saw for the larger limbs, and always have one with all ladder work.

When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

INCORSE METHODS OF STATE

To Stamp Out the Foot and Mouth Disease—Cutting Among Farmers Also Urged.

(Special Preshort Correspondence)

Preshort, Ky.—Heralding the necessity for the increased demands for foodstuffs as a result of the European war the representatives of the farmers of this state, at the meeting of the State Farmers' institute passed resolutions urging the farmers to raise foodstuffs instead of tobacco, and co-operation of the farmers in stamping out the foot and mouth disease. Emphasis dust is the best method to put the state to fertilize the land, it was said.

The efforts and methods adopted by the state and federal authorities to stamp out the foot and mouth disease in the state were lauded.

Cooperation of the farmers to perfect a system of marketing their crops more advantageously was urged. Mortgage laws were recommended for his good road policy. Governor Stanley and Senator James Wilson, of Western Kentucky, are condemned, the former for his veto of the road bill and the latter for his filibuster. Another route as the Dawson in Washington for the passage of the rural credits bill was mentioned. The resolutions committee consisted of Hon. Ben Johnson, Starling Marshall and Harry McCarty Adv.

The police power may be exercised only when such is reasonably necessary to protect the public health, the public safety or the public safety. The mere fact that the legislature declares that a certain statute ostensibly for the purpose of protecting the public health is necessary is not the question. When, therefore, the courts can see that such statute is not used to protect public health, or public safety, they will declare it void for lack of substantial relation to these objects. The act is unconstitutional and void for the fundamental law, if in its operation it takes away from the citizen his property without due process of law."

LIME SULPHUR ON THE APPLE TREES

Heavy Drenching While Spraying Is Common Cause of Injury to Foliage.

The great value of the spraying fruit growers everywhere is. Shall borrowers be good to lime sulphur as a summer spray?

Observations indicate that heavy drenching is a common cause of injury to foliage. Excess of lime sulphur is not used as a place of public resort."

The section was not aimed at "locker clubs" in dry towns was declared unconstitutional in an opinion by Commissioner Clai. "The power of the state to regulate and control the conduct of a private individual is conferred only when the exercise of such privilege affects others. With his fish or oysters when they are kept by himself and which do not operate to the injury of others, such use is as much his concern. Another important point found is that cultivated trees will withstand foliage injury better than neglected orchards.

GOOD DRAINAGE OF THE POULTRY YARD

Important Subject to Be Considered in Selecting Location for the House.

The drainage is a very important factor to be considered in locating the house and yard for poultry. The yard should be well drained by natural lay of the land.

Where the soil is somewhat clay dries off quickly after a rain, and it gets the benefit of all the sunshine, consequently it is nearly always dry.

The best way of the sun are great purifiers and destroyers of disease germs and this helps greatly in keeping disease out of the flock.

Trees should be planted to run about in a wet, muddy yard and so have their feet wet and muddy, their feathers become wet, too, and in'ood weather they become chilled. They will not lay well under such conditions.

Dampness is also a direct cause of roup and other serious ailments, as well as rheumatism.

It is warm to have a wet yard soon becomes dirty, and is a good place for the germs of all sorts of diseases to breed.

If your poultry yard is already built in such a place, it will pay you to move it to a south slope. If this is not convenient, dig a ditch and drain the ground to the yard high enough so that it will be dry, and spade up the ground in the south side to let the sun in, and then sow kind of wheatbreak on the north.

Quality First.

Is your young stock showing up as you anticipated, or have you been a little too greedy and bred from some that should have been discarded? We should look sure to quality than to quantity. Life is too short to use any but the best.

Keeping an It Wins.

There may be such a thing as luck in the poultry business, but "keeping everlastingly at it" is what characterizes the successful poultry raiser.

Influence on Egg Yield.

The size of flock influences the egg yield. The larger the flock the smaller the egg yield. The larger the flock the lower the labor cost. In fact, so much so as to overbalance the smaller yield or production. Lately, flocks of 250 or even 500 have produced eggs more economically than smaller flocks.

Contaminated Milk.

Milk that has once been contaminated with foreign substances can never be thoroughly cleaned.

Big String of Fish Caught.

Mr. Thomasson and Walter Greer, of Hartford, Ky., landed a string of fish recently that successful fishermen might well be proud of. On one day spent on the Ohio river at the mouth of Clouds creek, with a seine 100 feet long, averaging 6 of a good catch, some of them weighing 15½ pounds. The catch would have been greater but a sidefish showing even at the height of the fishing season and was not considered marketable from the fact that up to the time of the fish fair of any consequence have been taken from Benson creek Adv.

Awaiting Governor's Word.

"I am awaiting word from the governor before I can go to the Panama exposition," said Representative Harry Myers, of Covington, member of the Kentucky commission. "The governor will call a meeting of the commission when he returns to Frankfort."

Collected for State.

State Inspector and Examiner Sherman Goodpaster has filed with Auditor Buckworth his reports showing the collection from delinquent county officers of Lee and Estill counties under Expert Supervision.

Kentucky will spend approximately $1,250,000 on her public buildings this year under the state aid plan, and construct or permanently improve between 500 and 1,000 miles of main traveled highway, providing as much is possible of accomplishment within the time limit of working days. The amount the amount asked will be spent and the miles estimated will be improved according to plans and specifications furnished by skilled engineers of the state road department. The contracts will be approved by Commissioner of Roads E. G. Terrell and engineers from his office will inspect and supervise the work before the money is paid for it.

Two counties are vastly calculated. The state road fund will amount to $2,500,000, the counties raise and will expend on construction an equal amount to get the state aid and full county has voted $250,000 in bonds; Greenup $200,000, and Lewis $150,000

According to the requests from various counties a number of roads will be served with one another before King will spend $1,000,000 in the state. Counties have been brought together in Louisville, Lexington, Paducah, Bowling Green, Owensboro, Ashland, Louisville, where they strike the Lincoln Highway, a part of the route recommended for his good road policy. Governor Stanley will go in his auto through Todd county, the Pennyrile and Western Kentucky, Mottinger will go through the Cumberland Mountains and Hugh Dawson in Washington for the passage of the rural credits bill was mentioned. The resolutions committee consisted of Hon. Ben Johnson, Starling Marshall and Harry McCarty Adv.

Kills Part of Lee.

Personal liberty was infringed upon by the attempt to exercise the police power in Section 4 of the Hampton Roads bill, which makes it unlawful for any persons to keep, store or possess any fish, oysters, or shellfish without a structure other than the private residence in which they were caught, or such as used as a place of public resort."
