

My Fight With the Devilfish

Russell W. Cobb tells how he killed one of the largest sea-monsters after a dangerous fight with most masting couple

It was a dark, stormy night when I was out on the water with my mate, and we were looking for a good place to make camp.

The sea was rough and the wind was howling. We were both tired and hungry, but we had to keep on going.

As we were about to give up, we saw a large shadow in the water. It was a devilfish, and it was coming towards us.

I saw the devilfish's head above the water. It was a large, ugly creature with a wide, open mouth.

A Stirring and Romantic Story of the War in Europe That Teems With Love, Intrigue and Adventure

UNDER FIRE

By RICHARD PARKER
Based on the letters of Tom Clower (Merito), Author of "Under Cover" and "Lost in the Fog of War"

From the first chapter to the last, "Under Fire" fairly teems with action.

There is a beautiful woman who marries a German spy, believing him to be French. There is a handsome Irish secret service man for love of whom and in devotion to her country the beautiful woman becomes a spy within the German lines.

OUR NEW SERIAL

There is that thrilling first ride of German soldiers through unsuspecting Belgium as seen by a quick-witted and exceedingly humorous American newspaper correspondent.

And there are quick actions, heart-gripping situations, a deep love interest, and one climax after another to hold your interest and make you watch for each succeeding installment. "Under Fire" is without a doubt one of the best and most entrancing of the many stories written based on the great struggle in Europe.

Watch for the Issue with the First Installment!

Irvin S. Cobb, the famous war correspondent says: "UNDER FIRE" is the real thing—I know, because I have seen the real thing.
