The Carlisle Mercury

Violent statistics in Kentucky. The generally dry weather during the month of July, as shown by the reports, give the conditions of growing crops a fairly good chance to be healthy, but not so good as last year. The moisture of heavy fall and winter rains will be of great value to the crops, but the dry weather of the past few weeks has been very unfavorable to the crops. The crops are now in the hands of the farmer, and the farmer is now in the hands of the weather.
