Keep Tried Captain

["Uncle Dudley" in the Rural Citizen]

In four years, owing to the arrogances of the times, Mr. Wilson has become a vital personality to all of us. Just as the captain of a ship, when he hears hard weather coming, has the privilege of weather, becomes vital to us when we feel ourselves in the hurricane. Then he stands between us and our calamity. In such a great world hurricane, unprecedented in its fury, we are facing it now. The storm is still raging.

Now, through the laws of this great democracy, we are to choose whether we shall change captains or keep the one who has kept us out of war. When we view the terrible suffering of the people in the belligerent nations of Europe, we are sure that any possible gain for them has long since been swallowed up by the huge losses to benefit every family and all fortunes, we realize that we are indeed fortunate and we are thankful for the man whose determination and firmness, never before available to him, has been spent in keeping us out of war.

Some of us may differ over the means he has used in seeking to bring safety to the war-maddened nations, but we have not had the opportunity to see all the facts as he has seen them, and still fewer can say whereon he erred. Some of the responsibility or departed widely from the traditional policy of this great peace-loving nation.

So, the fact that Mr. Wilson has succeeded in keeping us out of war will be perhaps his greatest campaign asset. It is a fact accomplished which can not be denied, even by the leaders of the Republicans, worthy and able though he is. We want none of the rope and its whirlpool of blood.

Warning From A Friendly Source

(From the New York Herald Help)

Handshaking and pleasant words are not sufficient to win for Mr. Hughes. Ineffectiveness, no matter how well meaning, never yet succeeded in campaign management.

Silence was all right when silence was justified, but Mr. Hughes can not much longer remain silent concerning the things he stood for while the American people are thinking. They want real and tangible assurance that the election of Hughes will give to the country efficient government.

I am willing, no matter what my personal influence may be, to plead for the verdict of mankind. Personally, it matters a matter of indifference to me what the verdict on the 7th of November is, or just the manner in which it is rendered; but when a father jurisdiction, I shall get their judgment in my favor. It is to his favor personally—what difference does that make?—but in my favor as an honest and conscientious spokesman of a great nation.

—Woodrow Wilson.

To fan the larger incomes and inheritances and profits upon war munitions to pay for military preparedness, the Republicans of course will say, is an extremely pernicious procedure. Far better to tax the children you wear and the food you eat—what!

In his Fourth of July speech Mr. Hughes said "quiet men, not noisy men" represented "what we mean by Americanism." Is it possible he was drawing an odious comparison as between himself and T. R. as exponents of true Americanism?

"He has kept us out of war" is a frequently used phrase in letters received at Democratic National Committee headquarters from persons pledging their support to Wilson.

The headlines of certain newspapers indicate keen disappointment because the President has obtained concessions from Carranza without the sacrifice of the boys of the National Guard.

SCHOOL NEWS

The common school graduates met in the circuit court room Saturday afternoon at 1:30 to arrange for the commencement which is to be held in August. There are 42 in the class. All were present except three. Several parents and interested citizens met with them. The commencement will close a splendid session of the graded school.

Avery Vice was awarded the contract to cover the Upper Blue Lick schoolhouse.

Work has begun on the new school room at Mountain Ash and will begin this week on the new Henryville school house.

Saturday, July 29th, will be a busy day with the county school superintendent. The trustees and teachers of Nicholas county, as of 9:30, the meeting of the 28th. All of the trustees are requested to meet in the office to discuss the coming term of school and to receive blanks, chairs and floor oil. We want to urge each trustee to bring the oil can that he got last year, or a 2-gallon jug as we have neither cans nor jugs this year. We don't fail to bring something for your oil.

Every teacher in the county who expects to teach in the rural schools is requested and will be expected to meet in the office July 28th at 1:30 to sign contracts, receive their State Course of Study and instructions for opening of school.

A number of counties have already begun the fall term of school. All of our rural schools will begin Monday, Aug. 7, except Moorefield and Henryville. The new buildings will not be ready at these places, but Moorefield will be ready a week or so later and Henryville the last of September.

Some object to schools opening so early and some object to them opening so late but we know from experience as a teacher for several years and as county superintendent for nearly seven years that the attendance during the months of August, September, October and the first half of November is much larger than December, January and February. The teachers' records in the office will show this to be true. This because the weather is such that the children can go to school by themselves, roads are good and they enjoy going. We do know that when cold rainy and snowy weather sets in that the attendance drops off in the county a very large per cent. Of course, there are a few schools whose attendance keeps up just the same in winter as in summer, but this is in districts where the people are sufficiently interested to take the little children and all sorts to school when the weather is bad. If every parent would see that their children are taken to school in bad weather, there would certainly be for schools beginning in September, but the attendance in bad weather shows that a very small per cent. of parents provide a war for their children to go to school.

One thing we want to urge upon teachers, trustees, parents and children that the green suits of all kinds and wild grapes be let alone until after they shall have matured, late in the fall. We hope that the physicians of the county will help us in this. If everyone will observe this and have the children abide by it them there will not be so many sore mouths, sore throats and sore eyes.

Our county has led the State for three years in per cent. of attendance based on census, being over 70 per cent. and this year we hope for over 80 per cent.

Parents will please get the children ready to start the first day. They will go much more cheerfully when a good breakfast is eaten in the morning, will return at an early hour in the afternoon. The schools have plenty of winter coal and surely every school has plenty of shade near it.

The school will begin August 28 and Common School examination will be held Thursday, August 31.

Proclamation Regarding Infantile Paralysis

Bowling Green, Ky., July 13, 1916

Whereas, Infantile Paralysis, essentially a disease of cities and the period of childhood, though sometimes occurring in country districts and in adults, exists in a severe epidemic form in New York and has already spread to other sections, eight positive or suspicious cases having been reported in this State within the last twenty days, and the disease having an average death rate of 25 per cent and a large portion of those surviving left crippled or less completely paralyzed, and, whereas, there is tendency of the disease to break over official rule and spread especially in the presence of filth and flies in and about the homes, yard, alleys and streets, unless every case is rapidly isolated and all discharges from the throat, nose and bowels are promptly burned or disinfected until complete recovery, and the assembling of children in places of amusement is rapidly prevented in early infantile paralysis, now, therefore,

Be it known, that the State Board of Health, in the exercise of authority vested in it by law, and in the discharge of a public duty, hereby urges and directs that the health and civil authorities of every city and town in Kentucky take immediate steps to clean all alleys, streets, tenements, outhouses and stables, lots and to rigid and systematic inspection, to require the cleaning and limings of all back yards, cellars and premises, and that through screening of houses, although in the presence of this emergency no wood citizen should fail in the line to whom to an resident duty for the protection of his family and community. In the existing emergency, years of children under fifteen years of age from infected or suspected cities should be discouraged as possible, and that the names and addresses of all persons leaving for the country be reported to the health office

Owing to the presence of a suspicious case it should be immediately reported to the State Board of Health, and without fear or favor the family isolated in the hospital, and the house burned or fumigated in
