REGULATION OF COAL PRICES BY STATE

SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL McGHEE, IN RULING—WILL FORCE OHIO TO ACT.

Official Takes Issue With Position of Governor That Matter Comes Under Federal Supervision.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.—Columbus—In a pamphlet of 16 printed pages Attorney General Joseph McGhee fired his first broadside in his campaign to force state regulation of coal prices. The document is in the form of an opinion to Senator H. H. Dunlap, of Ashtabula county, but McGhee notes that he had been working on the question before the Senator's request for a ruling reached him. Mc-Ghee has been insisting on the state seeking to regulate coal prices, while the position of Governor Cox has been to the effect that this is a federal matter. The Governor has insisted on regulation of the grades of distribution, leaving the initial mine price as established by the federal government and applying it as a base. The Governor's plan seems probable to be adopted, although the McGhee ruling gives impetus to the demand of the state price regulators.

It is affirmed, after a legal review, which fairly bristles with quotations from great authorities, that the state does have the right to fix coal prices and by a parity of reason it is argued likewise that it has the right to fix food prices. This, McGhee says, is the conclusion reached: By "following the line of authorities heretofore set forth it will be readily seen that the legislature would be authorized to regulate the price of food, as well as the price of coal." McGhee further contends that when any necessity arises the state will have the right to protect itself and its citizens under the police general grant of the police power. He is not dismayed by the hesitancy which courts sometimes show in saying that the power to regulate prices exists in the absence of legislative bodies. He says: "I believe that the right of regulation, however, is inherent and that it must not amount to confiscation

EXEMPTION RULE ABUSED

Wholesale Claims From Army Drafts Interferes Seriously With Raising National Army.

Washington—Wholesale claims for exemption from the army draft, reported from many sections, caused Provost Marshal General Crowder to accomplish the government of the nation directing that local boards "reduce discharge for dependency to a few more restricted class and to very necessary cases and clearly justified circumstances." In some districts as high as 80 per cent of the registrants have asked for examination are filing claims for discharge on the ground of dependent relatives. Such a condition indicates General Crowder said, that grave advantage is being taken of the regulations designed to protect those who properly should be exempted from military service, and actually will seriously interfere seriously with the raising of the national army.

CARRY "FLAG OF THE STARS"

Red Cross Men, First at Front, Show That Emblem Stands for Tenderness and Pity.

It is a beautiful thing to know that the first armed contingent that carried the American flag to the front on the allied lines was drawn from the men of the Red Cross ambulances, and that the first official division of the American army to be used in England for service in the great war was a hospital unit. It is beautiful to think, too, that the same papers that told of General Pershing's visit to the tomb of Napoleon, the master soldier, had also the story of a splendid fund that is being raised to furnish and send to France a complete base hospital in memory of General Pershing's wife.

It is good to feel that our "flag of the stars" is standing for tenderness and pity more than for the pride of war, and that the blood with which it is dyed is not to be shed with the sword and rifle only, but with it most so soon relieve as well as wounds borne not for glory's sake but for the healing of the nations.

For we have come at last to know that it is sacrifice alone that buys for us the high things of the spirit; that blood is the price of soul sovereignty and of national renewal of heart, to accept again this inscrutable mystery, is God's decree.

Our starred flag, with its new stripes to the dawn of the day, is the beacon of our faith, the emblem of our trust in the survival of that world of peace to which our sword is pledged.—Nicholas Murray Butler in Southern Woman's Magazine.

PICTURE WRITING ON WALLS

Ranchman, While Hunting for Lost Cow, Makes Important Archaeological Discovery in Canyon.

J. L. Ford, a rancher of the Pecos valley, while hunting for a lost cow of the Rio Grande, near Las Cruces, New Mexico, discovered one of the most remarkable mysteries of aruy drill grounds in the southwest.

Mr. Ford, in search of his cow, had ridden into a deep canyon where his attention was attracted by the picture writing on the canyon walls. There were 200 feet of these pictures, all in a fairly apparently very old. They represented battles, hunting scenes, and in fact everything that could now be was led
