TOBACCO OPENS STRONG ON CAROLINA MARKET

Marion, S. C., July 14, 1917.

Mr. Warren Fisher, Carlisle, Ky.

Dear Warren,

I notice my subscription will soon be out, hence I am now taking this opportunity to renew for I look forward to your paper like I do the paper from Kinston.

Think perhaps some of the farmers around Carlisle, that I know, who connected with the Peoples Warehouse , might be interested in the opening of the South Carolina markets, so through your paper if you care to mention it, I will say that while this is the best crop of tobacco I have ever seen in this section, it is the same time sold higher than ever before in its history. Sales here in Marion averaged nearly 16¾ cents per pound, which I suppose is about 2 cents per pound higher than this same quality would have brought last year. The present prospects seem to be that these prices will continue, owing to the fact that there seems to be a very strong foreign demand for every kind of tobacco grown. But of course the future is only surmise, as there is nothing certain but death and taxes.

With best regards, I am

Yours truly,

Frank LaRoque.

MOOREFIELD IS SWEPT BY DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

LOSS OF ABOUT $15,000 FROM FIRE IN NICHOLAS VILLAGE. CARLISLE FIRE DEPARTMENT RESPONDS.

Moorefield, six miles east of Carlisle, was swept by a disastrous fire Tuesday morning that caused a property loss of approximately $15,000, and Cosby Vice, a merchant, narrowly escaped very serious injuries when he was very badly burned on the hands, arms and face when a gasoline explosion took place while he was repairing a leaking plank in his store. The explosion caused a fire which destroyed six buildings in the business center of the little village, a strong breeze was blowing and the fire burned itself out although dynamite was used in an effort to stop the flames. The Carlisle Fire Department was called upon for aid and responded with the new auto chemical rock which proved to be of very great assistance owing to the fact that the flames had gotten beyond control when it reached the scene. Moorefield is without fire protection and the heroic work upon the part of the bucket brigade probably saved thousands of dollars worth of property that for a time appeared doomed to the ravages of the flames.

The fire originated from the explosion of the gasoline tank in the Vice store. Mr. Vice's store and contents were destroyed, the building belonging to Mrs. Sweeney, occupied by the Postoffice and the office of Dr. G. W. Kash, was destroyed, the C. C. Cole warehouse and storehouse adjoining, was destroyed, the blacksmith shop and garage of W. A. Seamonds, was destroyed, and a stable belonging to J. T. Blount, was also destroyed. The dwelling belonging to the estate of Mrs. Lizzie Branch and occupied by Mrs. Emma Berry to the west was considerably damaged as well as the dwelling of Mrs. Mary Howe to the right of the branch property. The residence of Rod Blount, opposite the garage, was damaged fairly bad.

More than a thousand persons gathered there. Excitement was high, and in an effort to stop the flames, many sticks of dynamite were placed in the Blount stable but the charge failed to work the blacksmith. The Kirkland property, now occupied by Dr. Clarence Kash and family, and the Christian church, are the only two buildings remaining standing on the south side of the Carlisle & Sharpsburg pike to the Kirkland property.

The losses are:

Cosby Vice, store	$2,000
Cosby Vice, contents store	3,000
Dr. L. K Swango, building	800
C. C. Cole, storehouse	800
C. C. Cole, warehouse	800
W. A. Seamonds, shop & garage	1,200
J. T. Blount, stable	500
Postoffice Fixtures	100
C. W. Kash, medicine & instruments	500
Damage to Blount residence	1,500
Damage to Branch property	1,000
Damage to Howe property	500

So far as can be learned the only insurance carried was by Mr. Vice, who had $2,000 on his general merchandise stock and $1,500 on the store building. The loss on the other property was therefore a total loss.

W. H. ANDERSON MAKES ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE

(Bourbon News, July 17

Mr. W. H. Anderson, of Paris, Superintendent of the Kentucky Central division of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, with headquarters in this city, and one of the best known railroad men in the State, was found in his room at the Bourbon House adjoining his office at the Tenth street depot Monday morning, early Sunday morning, with gaping knife wounds in the throat. A razor knife, with which the deed was committed, lay by his side.

Mr. Anderson had been on duty a large part of saturday night helping keep and see to the moving of the wreckage of congested traffic in the South Paris yards. He went home at an early hour in an apparently cheerful frame of mind, and after a few hours rest, returned to his duties. What occurred in the interval between the night and the morning hour when he returned to his office can be only a sealed page, with various vague rumors afloat as to the cause.

He came into the office about the time the day force of employees were coming in, and at a time when the office employes are generally near the front part of the building toward the wash room and nothing more was heard of him until Mr. Thomas, employed in the trainmaster's department, on going to the rear of the main hall, found Mr. Anderson in the throes of death. A wash bowl was nothing saturated with blood, and the blood was flowing from three gashes in his throat. Physicians were summoned and Mr. Anderson was removed in an ambulance to the Massie Memorial Hospital, where an examination revealed the fact that the wind-pipe had been severed, the knife cut was found in the room between the two doors where the wounded man was found, and the blood clotted on the floor showed the rational been, with their clothing, Lexington, returned to their home after a visit to the family of Mrs. Anderson had only tried to finish, the cutting having of into an almost unspeakable extent, he evidently having succumbed to the loss of blood before the deed was done.

No reason for the act had yet been satisfactorily assigned, and the coroner, being unable to talk, all that can be known on the streets has been mere unconfirmed rumors. The most widely circulated is that Mr. Anderson had recently been informed of the resignation of the first police to which he would be entitled, and that he was about to lose the responsibilities of his position being great and hard to carry upon system such as he possessed.

At the hospital yesterday the physicians stated that Mr. Anderson had a fighting chance for recovery, unless blood poisoning or pneumonia should set in. The physicians were afraid of the danger of pneumonia and were directing all their energies to combatting that dread disease.

Mr. Anderson came to Paris many years ago as train master, and by his position in the employ of the Louisville & Nashville, he was in the operating department as a telegraph operator. He had a natural genius for such work, and the railroad people recognized his capability by making rapid promotions until he was finally made Superintendent of the division, in which he showed the same capability that distinguished his earlier career. He was married many years ago to Miss Lucy Alexander, a member of the family. Mr. Anderson, and a great-niece of the late Jefferson Davis, president of the Southern Confederacy. They have no children.

LATER—Mr. Anderson died Wednesday morning at 4 o'clock.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER MACHINES

Buy the Best Mower—Deering.

IN those years when your hay fields and meadows are in the worst shape for cutting—very heavy stand perhaps, lodged and tangled every way—then you will have reason for being glad your mower is a Deering.

You will find ball and roller bearings wherever friction or draft could be reduced. Then, the extremely fragile cutter bar means smooth cutting on rough ground, or on hillsides and knolls. It leaves a close stubble without clogging the inner floor. The knife head is of malleable iron. Your lifting lever quadrant gives you an upward instead of backward pull. The Deering New Lloyd mower is the strongest and most durable made. It will last through many haying seasons. Come in and see how well it built.

The Human Factors In Good Service

There are three parties to every telephone conversation—the party calling, the trained operator, and the party who answers. All three share alike the responsibility for quick and accurate telephone service.

The calling party should give the correct number in a distinct voice, speaking directly into the transmitter, and wait at the telephone until the party answers or the operator reports. The called party should answer promptly.

Patience on the part of the telephone user and the telephone operator is also essential to good service.
