Without Food Control Flour Mills Soon Go To $20 A Barrel

New York, May 27.—The flour mills of the United States are expected to raise their prices for flour to $20 a barrel by the end of the month, according to reports from the flour trade here. The mills are expected to raise their prices because of the shortage of wheat in the United States and the fact that the government has restricted the export of flour to the United States.

What An Army Division Is

An important feature of the military system of the United States is the organization of the army into divisions. A division is a large unit of the army, usually consisting of about 15,000 men, and is commanded by a division general. The division is the basic tactical unit of the army and is capable of performing a wide variety of tasks.

Public Arrest Vagants in One-Day Raid

Police officers in several cities have conducted a one-day raid against vagants and public nuisances. The raid was successful in removing many of these individuals from the streets and improving the appearance of the cities.

Whoooping Cough
