SUGAR ALLOWANCE NOW TWO POUNDS PER MONTH

To the Retail Grocer:

The amount of sugar available for distribution in August is materially less than anticipated. In order to effect the most equitable distribution possible of such supplies as are available, the Food Administration requests every household in the United States to limit its consumption to TWO POUNDS PER MONTH FOR EACH MEMBER OF BUYERS FAMILY. You are not permitted to sell sugar to any consumer in excess of this amount. In order to properly protect your stocks of sugar from speculators and others who attempt to secure more than their proper share of sugar we suggest that you ask every consumer requesting sugar to sign and file with you a WRITTEN PLEDGE that he will not purchase or use sugar in excess of the quantity above specified.

If the consumer complains, tell him that his compulsory ration of the French is but one pound and one ounce per month, and of the Italians but little over three-fourth of a pound per month. We are in the war TO WIN. The sugar ration is by one of the smallest sacrifices we must make, but the last test of fervent sacrifice consists in the lower acts of self-denial, which those who cannot be noted individually, in the aggregate constitute the holocaust upon which the possibility of successful victory depends and for the freedom of the world and next.

You are not permitted to sell sugar without certificates to persons desiring sugar for manufacturing soda fountains, restaurants, etc. The greatest care should be taken to see that such persons do not buy sugar from you for other purposes. Any FALSE pretense that it is for family use

Sugar for home canning is exempt, of the ration above specified can only be sold under specific direction to be issued by the Food Administrator of your state. The Government relies upon your active and loyal cooperation and that of the entire community publics.

Faithfully yours,
United States Food Administration

18 TO 45 AGE LIMITS IN PROPOSED BILL

Washington, Aug. 3.—Draft ages of from 18 to 45 years will be recommended to Congress at the bill embodying the war department's new man power program which will be introduced in both houses of Congress Monday and expedited by committees with a view to prompt consideration when regular sessions of the Senate and House are resumed late this month.

After formally announcing the new draft ages today, Secretary Baker said all the possible combinations of age limits were carefully studied and it was found that in order to get the young men class one for the program proposed 18 to 45 was necessary. He said, however, that the bill, as recommended to Congress, will contain a provision authorizing the president to exempt certain classes temporarily according to occupation, that if it is possible the men between 18 and 19 will be called not later than the older men who are found eligible to class one.

The war department program, the secretary said, is purely a military one and cannot be called a conscription of labor, although it naturally will have the effect of putting a useful laborer in the army all able-bodied men. Within the limits set above, he said, finally will be fixed by Congress.

In recommending this extension of age limits, Mr. Baker continued, the department had in mind simply to "get for the army the number of men which it believed necessary to defeat Germany. The secretary was not prepared to say how many that would be, nor to give any estimate as to the proportion of males between the ages of 18 to 45, inclusive, which would be found eligible. In making up the list and classes, the same rules would be followed that had governed the first draft, with the same exceptions from the first call of married men with dependents and those engaged in essential industries. Mr. Baker gave it as his opinion that so far about 1,800,000 had been drafted out of those now from the existing list.

There has been considerable opposition in Congress to lowering the minimum age, many members being reluctant to draft youths before they attain their majority and some into full citizenship. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military committee, said today that he expected the committee to report soon on the bill and the opinion there would not be unusual delay in passing the bill.

Some members of Congress believe that the man-power bill will be taken up immediately after Congress resumes regular sessions and disposed of before the new war revenue legislation is considered.

Dear Taylor and Family:

Please understand the circumstances and don't blame me for not writing to you in the last twenty-five days. I am sure you can judge from the past that I am busy as I have ever been. A self-armed paper-hanger with four or five rooms to paper, they say he is the busiest man in the world. Oh, but, if I don't forget I sure can tell you some funny things soon I get back, that is, they will be funny then but far be it from such now, but with all the seriousness we must have our jokes or we would go perfect nuts.

I guess the censor won't object to my telling you my position when I received your letter of Jun 4. Then you will know how I appreciated it. Well, I am sure that a German in his observation post with his glasses could read the letter almost as well as I could.

I am so sorry to hear of Aunt Jane being so bad. I am most scared to read your letters for the fear of bad news.

I am so glad that your family is well and only hope they remain so.

Tell Ray and Fred to write me. As only a second at night they could send a line as well as not, and, Tay, I don't know how just one line requires you when it is from some one you could.

I don't know how I will ever repay you for being so considerate and with my such long, sweet letters. Natural- ly each person that writes me expects an answer. Not only that, but it is discovering of the support we get from those writing us from Camp France, all about the war, and the best letters I have had since I came to France.

The rural and city school belts will soon be ringing and I will bet the boys in the country school will be found as ready and eager to exercise their wits as those in the city to make better the affairs of home and community, and I am sure they will prove nearness that the Compulsory Education law is fully enforced.

MT. CARMEL

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Barrie returned to their home in Cincinnati Tuesday, where he and Frederick are said they are turkeys, and I hope I get home in time to help feed and shoot at them Christmas. Honestly, if I were to sit down in front of a well- cooked turkey when I got thru it would look like it had been hit by a German 14-inch shell. Don't get the idea I am starving for I am not, only I crave a change.

Now, Tay, I expect to be where I can write you a few letters within a few days, but one can't tell. As you see I am well and unhurt, am doing my bit, but hoping that it all is soon over and I may be blessed with the happiest day in my life, "When I Get Back To America."

Love and kisses, always,
Ben Scott.

The sentiment of the voters in the consolidated primary held Saturday seemed to be crystallized into one thought that in these hours of gloom and shadows we need such men as Gilbs James to help direct the affairs of State. His splendid patriotism, his untiring energy and his loyalty to Woodrow Wilson are among the best assets during the coast of peril and the world's unrest.

While enroute to Mt. Hope Camp Meeting in Fleming county last Saturday afternoon, Hank Barker, Ernest Terrell, Elgin Soper and the Goebel City auto turned over in a food and stones in the North Sherburne Flats. THE BRYSON FARM AGENCY

Old Paradise—Lenhart, Carlisle, Ky. H. B. Bryson, Manager.

For quite some years we have been making the handling of real estate particularly farms, our very special business, and as a result of our close application to this business we have gained a wide circle of experts in knowing the difference in soils, general characteristics, size of the different sections of the country. Coupled with this knowledge is an absolutely unshakable determination to handle our business strictly on GOLDEN RULE lines and if we can do business in a strictly honest, satisfactory, RULE- NESS manner we will not do it at all. The phenomenal success of our business, we believe, is largely due to the fact coupled with the fact that we are known as a firm that absolutely lives up to the rule—"do unto others as ask. The system list below from Bryson Farm Agency:
