AMERICAN SUGAR SENT TO FRANCE

American Price Rigidly Regulated by United States Food Administration.

CONSUMERS HERE PAY 9c.

Sugar Cost 2¢ Cents a Pound During Civil War—Refiners' Profits Now Curbed.

Sugar is selling today throughout America at from 8½ to 9 cents a pound to the consumer, even though there is a world shortage which has reduced this nation's sugar allotment to 70 per cent. of normal.

Through the efforts of the United States food administration the sugar market has been regulated so that all the producer, refiner and wholesaler is concerned, the food administration has no power to regulate retail prices except by public opinion. Even though more than 80,000 tons of sugar have been shipped to France in the last two months the retail price hasn't sugar jobs is around 8 to 8½ cents. He should sell this sugar at 8½ to 9 cents, the food administration believes, and make the American housewife pay no more than this amount.

Last August when the food administration was organized the price of sugar was around 5½ cents. The food administration, during the War sugar cost the consumer 2½ cents a pound, for the regulation of the sugar market and reducing the price to 8½ and 9 cents a pound is the price outwardly by 20 cents the food administration has earned for the consumer a saving of $40,000,000. Such is the statement made by Herbert Hoover in a statement made by Herbert Hoover in Washington.

"It is our stern duty to feed the allies this winter, their health and their strength at are cost to ourselves," Mr. Hoover declared. "Every man and woman, our will be as we see it, enough to see that we do not waste the sugar and yourself paying a few cents more that ships to remote markets for it. If we do not practice economy there is every danger to further reduce their ration to less than 2000 calories. We have done damage to our abilities to win the war.

"If we send the ships to Java for 250,000 tons of sugar it will cost us 250,000 tons of shipping. If we send ships for one year. Three ships—if used in transporting troops—would take 100,000 to 120,000 men to France."

Reason for World Shortage.

As Mr. Hoover pointed out, the United States, Canada and England are the great importing countries before the war, while France and Italy were very nearly self-supporting. The main sources of the world's sugar supply were Germany, Austria-Hungary, the West Indies and the East Indies.

German sugar is no longer available, as it is used entirely in Germany, which also absorbs sugar of surrounding countries.

England can no longer buy 1,800,000 tons from Austria-Hungary, because the latter country's sugar production has dropped from 2,000,000 to 250,000 tons. The Dutch production has fallen from 250,000 tons to 75,000 tons. Cuba's sugar resources were drawn upon East and West Indian sources were depleted by submarine warfare.

The increased consumption of sugar in the United States, shipping shortage and submarine warfare are all drawing on the West Indies for sugar; the consumption of which has increased the number of mines, since the discovery of the Panama canal, and the deficit the west was called on to furnish 1,000,000 tons of sugar more than it usually does. The 1916 sugar crop last year was the 300,000 tons. The crop from the Hawaiian Islands was 500,000 tons before the shipping situation became acute.

"In spite of these shipments," Mr. Hoover declared, "the Cuban crop, the English government in August reduced the price of sugar to the refiners to 5.60 cents per pound. And in September the French government reduced their household ration to 12 2-10 pounds a year, or a bit over 1 pound of sugar per month. The consumption ration could not be filled by the French government at that time. The British government also reduced the ration for 1918 to 2000 tons of sugar, and for December 1. The French request was for 2,000,000 tons of sugar and their household consumption was then at least 35 per cent. below normal. The British reserved the duty of distributing the sugar to the consumers in that country.

Today the situation is changed, as announced by stating that if America will reduce its sugar consumption 10 to 15 per cent. this nation will be able to spare 200,000 more soldiers to France.

Refiners' Profits Curbed.

Sugar refining is carried on chiefly in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New Orleans, San Francisco and Chicago. Before the war the refining profits were around 1 cent per pound. Under the food administration, which now sets the Boston-New York refining margin at 75 cents per hundred pounds, the refiners' profit amounts to about $1.65 per hundred. The average sale price of granulated by various refiners according to our investigation, was about $7.50 per hundred, or a difference of $1.65.

In reducing the differential to $1.90 per hundred the food administration has saved the consumer $3 cents a pound, for the refiners have been in the habit of January, 1917, the public would have saved that year nine months of the year about $21,000,000."

With a view to more efficient organization of the industry for the coming next year two committees have been appointed by the administration.

One committee, composed of representatives of all of the elements of the industry, will have charge of the purchase of this commodity in foreign countries. The other committee will have charge of the distribution of sugar, and will be called upon to arrange transport at uniform rates for all sugar purchased, and to see that proper arrangements are made for ships in remote markets for it. If we have difficulty in getting ships, then we must further reduce their ration to less than 2000 calories. We have already done damage to our abilities to win the war.
